AEROPLANE CARRIES LETTER TO BURGESS

Woodruff Sends a Long Defense of Sunday Flights to the Bishop by Air.

HE GETS NO RESPONSE

Aviator Only Succeeds in Giving the Message to a Servant at the See House.

In defense of the aviation meeting at Nassau Boulevard, and especially of the management's plans to have flights on Sunday as advertised, Timothy L. Woodruff wrote a letter yesterday to Bishop Frederick Burgess, in charge of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, and dispatched it by aeroplane to the Bishop's residence, the See House, at Garden City.

The letter set forth reasons that appealed to Mr. Woodruff as indicating why aviation is not a sport comparable to other sports and capable of the same restrictive regulation.

The messenger selected to make the journey was Thomas O. M. Sopwith, the English flier, whose powerful biplane has so far outdistanced other filers at the meeting. He carried with him as a passenger W. Irving Twombly of the Joint Grounds Committee of the Aero Club of America and the Aero Club of New York.

Mr. Woodruff waited on the aviation field for several hours after sunset, hoping vainly that the aviator would bring back a reply.

Inquiry made at the See House by men who went there in automobiles to see what had become of the men in the aeroplane disclosed the fact that they had arrived safely with their message and delivered it to a servant, since no member of the Bishop's family would come out to receive it. They also learned that Bishop Burgess had not taken the trouble to look the letter over, and would not be likely to do so until to-day.

The impression gained by those who inquired at the residence was that Bishop Burgess did not feel particularly honored at the call paid to him by representatives of the interests he has threatened to attack in the courts and before the Governor if necessary to prevent next Sunday's meeting.

To reporters it was stated at the See House that Bishop Burgess would give out a statement this morning concerning the incident and his plans to stop next Sunday's flights.

In delivering the letter, Sopwith and his companion flew directly in the face of a twenty-mile wind. They decided, after failing to deliver their letter to Bishop Burgess in person, that they would not chance a flight back to the grounds with the strong wind behind them. They housed the aeroplane at Mineola for the night and returned in an automobile to tell Mr. Woodruff about their failure to see the Bishop.

Mr. Woodruff's Letter.

The letter through which Mr. Woodruff hoped to convert Bishop Burgess to a belief in the righteousness of Sunday flying reads:

GARDEN CITY ESTATES, L. I.
Sept. 27, 1911.

Rt. Rev. Frederick Burgess, Garden City, L. I.:

My Dear Bishop Burgess—If the statements attributed to you in the newspapers are true regarding the holding on Sundays of the International Aviation Meet at Nassau Boulevard, on the Aerodrome of the Aero Club of New York, of which I have the honor to be President, it is obvious that you are not fully informed as to its scope and purposes.

The participation in this meet by many departments of the United States Government, whereby the army and navy have been and will continue to be represented by aviators in manoeuvres full of interest and fraught with great possibilities to the people of this country in case of invasion by a foreign enemy, and whereby a United States Aerial Mail Carrying Service has been established, which, after its establishment on Saturday the United States officials did not abandon the next day because it was Sunday, so imbued were they with its practical value, neither they nor any one else looking upon it as a mere "sport for which admission is charged," and therefore a violation of the statutory or moral law, stamps and characterizes our meet, even without reference to the fact that yesterday the Postmaster General of the United States carried the aerial mail himself, as one worthy of the support of every one, including even those who by chance may be so situated as to suffer some slight inconvenience on account of it.

Right here I would like to say to you and all your other good neighbors round about here that I regret exceedingly the inconvenience which some suffered from our inability last Sunday to completely regulate the vast crowds that attended the meet. They far exceeded our expectations and, therefore, our preparations. It will not happen again, I assure you. I wish you might have stood with me at the main gate through which there passed over 9,000 people brought by the Long Island Railroad alone. Never have I seen a crowd which appeared more intellectual, or one whose comments indicated more than theirs did a keen interest in acquiring knowledge concerning a great and new development.

There has been a good deal of talk, or was last Sunday, about the law in the case. There is no law that prohibits aviation or charging an admission fee to an aviation field on Sunday. The law specifies distinctly that certain things are prohibited of which an aviation meet is not one. According to a decision recently rendered by Justice Gaynor, now the Mayor of the City of New York, "no crime exists which is not defined expressly or by necessary implication." There could hardly have been an "implication" regarding aviation when, at the time of the passage of the law, it was unheard of. Justice Gaynor in the same decision further said, "Criminal statutes cannot be left in doubt nor strained in construction to make out a crime."

Contracts to be Kept.

In view of the contracts which have been made with the aviators and many others, and the representations which have been made to the public, the meet will have to be held next Sunday, and I beg to assure you that it will be conducted with the greatest care to avoid all disturbance of the Sabbath. To that end we have built a railroad platform several blocks west of Nassau Boulevard Station, on which all the people who come by train pass directly into the grounds. We have also secured the services of a large force of mounted and unmounted police to prevent loitering and trespassing outside the field, which force will be materially strengthened for next Sunday's meet, and, I believe, will be able to keep private property free from invasion and the roads from being used as parking spaces to the great inconvenience of the traveling public. Complaints have been executed and summonses will be served by the police and Deputy Sheriffs upon those who, next Sunday, or, for that matter, on any day, violate these rules and regulations, which are in conformity with the provisions of the statute.

Permit me further to say that this

IN COLLISION IN MIDAIR.

Ely Thrown Out of Aeroplane When Machine Strikes Atwood's.

Special to The New York Times.

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 27.—While attempting to make a landing after circling the aviation field here to-day Eugene B. Ely lost control of his machine, and crashed to the ground, hitting aviator Atwood's machine on the way. Both aviators were dumped to the ground, but neither was badly injured. The front of Ely's machine was damaged.

The gusty breeze was responsible for the accident, and kept the aviators from attempting any high flights. Most of the airmen flew around the course a few feet from the ground, and even then they had trouble with the wind.

Ely was circling the field about 100 feet from the ground when the accident occurred. A heavy gust of wind tilted his plane, and he jerked a lever too far over in an effort to counteract it. As a result he lost control of the machine, and it plunged toward the ground. At the same time Atwood was just leaving the ground in his machine, and one of Ely's planes touched Atwood's machine. Both machines hit the ground, and Ely was thrown out. He had a black eye and several cuts, but otherwise was uninjured. He will be able to patch up his machine so as to take part in the contests to-morrow.

Atwood and Brookins each won a first in the few contests that the airmen were able to hold in the wind squalls. Atwood won from Brookins in the quick starting contests. In a two-mile flight for time Brookins defeated Atwood. On account of the dangerous wind Elton postponed his proposed flight from Youngstown to this city, and several aviators declined to make flights at the field.

If the conditions are more favorable tomorrow they all will take part. It is now proposed to extend the meeting as the contests have attracted a great deal of attention, and, with favorable weather conditions, the field is ideal for good flights.

WIFE MADE HIM PRISONER.

Roped All the Doors and Had the Irate Eagle Shut Up in His Bedroom.

When Lieut. Miller of the West 125th Street Police Station answered a telephone call yesterday afternoon, an excited woman called for a policeman right away at 499 West 135th Street. She said that her husband had gone violently insane and that she feared he might kill her if he succeeded in escaping from his bedroom, where she was holding him a prisoner. Lieut. Miller dispatched Patrolman Marron to the Highland Apartments at that address and he returned in about an hour with a strange tale.

"Lieutenant, it was a Mrs. J. Eagle that sent in that call. Her husband wasn't crazy, but he was hopping mad, and I don't know as I blame him. When I got there, I found a rope leading through all the rooms. It was tied to the door of the bedroom, wound around a chair, anchored to the stationary bath tubs in the kitchen and noosed around every other fixture in the flat.

"Inside the room was a man, beating on the door. I told him I was a policeman and asked him what he wanted. He said, "Just let me out. I've been here for twenty-four hours. All I've had to eat is a few scraps she threw over the transom. I went in here to take a nap a day ago, after an argument with her, and she shut me up. I'm a respectable hotel manager, and just got back from Atlantic City ten days ago, after managing a hotel there all season.'

"I let him out and he made a bee line to get the first drink of water he said he'd had for a day. He started to pack up, to leave her for good, he said, and she objected, telling me that some of the things were hers. I advised him to take only those things she admitted were his, and he exclaimed, 'I don't think I'll wait to pack up,' and hurried out."

Reporters who went to the Eagle apartment last night found no one at home.

LOSES JOB, TAKES HIS LIFE.

Discharged After Four Years, Waiter Leaps from 9th Floor in Beekman St.

Despondent because he had lost the place he had held for four years, Carl Christiansen, 19 years old, a waiter who lived at 148 East Thirty-sixth Street, leaped to death last night from the ninth floor of the Temple Court Building, Beekman Street and Theatre Alley. He expired before the arrival of Dr. Orr from Hudson Street Hospital.

Christiansen was employed in a lunchroom on the ground floor of the building, and when told he was discharged, he said:

"I can't go home and tell my father and mother that I've lost my job. I reckon the only thing left for me to do is to commit suicide."

Christiansen took an elevator to the ninth floor, lifted a window overlooking the alley, and leaped out.

The thud of his body striking the courtyard was heard by Patrolman Hickson, who found the man still breathing. A call was sent to Hudson Street Hospital, but when Dr. Orr arrived Christiansen was dead.

Beekman Street was crowded at the time, and hundreds of persons hurried to the side of the unconscious man.

MAINE WRECK REPORT SOON.

Expected to Say Battleship Was Sunk by External Explosion.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 27.—While officials keep silent, every one employed about the Maine wreck knows that they consider the upheaved bottom conclusive evidence of an outside explosion.

Admiral Capps's report, which will be forthcoming within a few days, will certainly confirm the findings of the Sampson Court Inquiry, as based on Powelson's testimony.

HAVANA, Sept. 27.—Six more bodies were discovered to-day in the wreck of the Maine, making, with the four found yesterday, a total of thirty-four bodies since the beginning of the present work. Two bodies were found beneath the after ten-inch turret, the victims having evidently entered below the barbette, expecting to escape through an opening in the turret floor. They were overtaken by the inrushing water as the vessel plunged under.

Two found on the upper grating of the engine room were evidently caught while on duty, as part of the engine room watch. The last two were found close to the engine room hatch near the warrant officers' quarters.

All the bodies were past recognition. Nearby were found three watches, but so corroded as to afford slight hope of identification. Within sight, but inaccessible, were also a number of bones, which probably will be recovered to-morrow.

The exploration of the after section of the hull, which escaped the direct force of the explosion, is now being prosecuted half-way down into the engine room, which probably will be entirely exposed within a few days. The engines are believed to be intact, and they possibly will be capable of service in consequence of the heavy protective layer of mud neutralizing the corrosive effect of the sea water.

RAILROAD SHOPMEN MAY STRIKE TO-DAY

Illinois Central Men Send Ultimatum Demanding Recognition of Federation.

HARRIMAN LINES INVOLVED

Workmen Already Out Are Enjoined Against Trespassing on Illinois Central Property—Strike Spreading.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The Illinois Central has taken steps to prepare for a general strike along the entire system, according to private advices received by J. W. Kline, President of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers.

"Telegrams from Paducah to-day inform me that the company has landed there a number of strikebreakers and guards," said Kline. "This indicates that they expect a general walkout. There will be no official action by the system's federations of the Illinois Central and the Harriman lines, however, until word is received from Julius Kruttschnitt, to whom an ultimatum was delivered last night.

"Mr. Kruttschnitt has until to-morrow noon to grant the international officers representing the system's federation of the Harriman lines another conference. We think we have done all we could to prevent a strike, and have gone as far as men could without crawling. The attitude and history of all railroads have been arbitrary. They have held up the Government, State and city, and when their men ask for a reasonable advance in wages they squeal and say that we are trying to hold them up. We do not see it that way."

J. H. Gore, President of the Memphis lodge of machinists, is in Chicago attending a conference of the Presidents of the various machinists' unions affiliated with the system's federation of the Illinois Central. Gore, when asked whether he thought the walkout of the shop men in Memphis would spread to other shop towns along the Illinois Central, said:

"No one can tell what will be the outcome. Personally I am unable to say."

All the delegates to the conference declined to discuss for publication the action taken by the convention of the International Association of Machinists at Davenport, Iowa, to support the various other crafts of the system's federations of the Harriman lines and of the Illinois Central in their disputes with the officials of the railroads.

W. L. Park, General Manager of the Illinois Central Railroad lines, received word this morning from Memphis that 150 boilermakers and metal workers, employed in the company's shops there, had struck in sympathy with the clerks.

"They are the first men to leave us who were bound under the general agreement we have with the mechanics," said Mr. Park. "I do not believe this strike among the metal workers will spread far. Local conditions in Memphis, I believe, are largely responsible. Their walkout has no serious aspect, unless considered as the first break in the stand of the mechanics. We have no working agreement with the clerks, further than with individuals, and with them in certain cities only. The boilermakers are defying an admitted agreement which we have with them, and their strike to-day was a surprise. I don't believe the strike will spread to ather trades."

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Sept. 27.—Officials attending the convention of the International Association of Machinists here stated late to-day that the machinists on the Illinois Central Railroad will be ordered out on strike to-morrow noon unless the officials of the Harriman lines agree to recognize the new federation of railway employes.

It is also said that the blacksmiths, carmen, sheet metal workers, and boilermakers await only the threatened strike of the machinists to take similar action.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 27.—With practically every railroad clerk employed by the Illinois Central Railroad south of the Ohio River out on strike, reinforced by more than 200 shopmen at Memphis, and a general strike order affecting other union crafts expected at any moment, the Illinois Central and Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroads to-day petitioned the local Federal court for an injunction asking that the strikers be restrained from trespassing on railway property. A temporary restraining order was issued by Judge McCall and the case set for a hearing.

The petition for an injunction is brought under the Sherman anti-trust law and alleges that inter-State commerce is impeded by the striking clerks and shopmen here in seeking to persuade persons from taking service with the railroads. Instances are cited of loss of freight and damage to perishable freight due to interference by strikers.

Officers of the local shopmen's organization declined to say by what authority they went out on Monday following the strike of 250 clerks. When shown a dispatch from Chicago saying that their action was unauthorized by the higher union officials, local leaders among the shopmen refused to discuss it.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—The firemen and sheet metal workers employed in New Orleans by the Illinois Central Railroad went on strike to-day in sympathy with the striking clerks of that road. A total of 410 men walked out.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 27.—Eleven yard and freight clerks in the employ of the Illinois Central Railroad here struck to-day, and the night force will not report for work, it is said.

The arrival last night at Mounds, Ill., a few miles north of Cairo, of two carloads of strikebreakers has renewed ill-feeling there, manifested ten days ago when a railroad detective in charge of strikebreakers was killed by the town Marshal.

Vice President Julius Kruttschnitt of the Harriman railroads declined yesterday to receive reporters who sought to interview him upon the labor situation on his lines. Through his secretary he sent out word that he had nothing to say.

Mr. Kruttschnitt's attitude for the present, his secretary said, was summed up in his declaration that he had nothing to say. He was equally reticent when asked if he had received the ultimatum of the Federation of Railway Employes, declining to affirm or deny reports that it had reached him. The secretary declared that Mr. Kruttschnitt would withhold any statement till to-day, when he might have something to say.

COLLEGE BARS CIGARETTES.

Notre Dame, Ind., Students Anticipate Ban and Buy Pipes.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Sept. 27.—The cigarette smoking student of the University of Notre Dame to-day came under the official ban of the Faculty, the penalty for smoking cigarettes on the campus, the streets, or in the residence hall being suspension. Notices to this effect were posted to-day on the university bulletin, signed by President Cavanaugh.

There was little protest against the new rule. The order had been anticipated, and the cigarette smokers had prepared for it by buying pipes.

FOURTH SUIT AGAINST THE LUMBER TRUST

Dominates Trade in 20 States and Maintains Spies and Blacklists, Government Charges.

SECRETARIES BUREAU NAMED

Is Made Joint Defendant with the Colorado and Wyoming Association—Threats and Intimidations Alleged.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 27.—Sensational charges that the so-called Lumber Trust completely dominates the lumber trade of at least twenty States by maintaining a spy system, blacklists, divisions of territory, and other alleged illegal methods conducted through a central agency in Chicago called the Lumber Secretaries' Bureau of Information are made in an anti-trust suit filed in the United States court here to-day by the Department of Justice.

This is the Government's fourth move in a nation-wide fight against the Lumber Trust, in addition to the criminal indictments already standing against the Secretaries of fourteen lumbermen's associations. Anti-trust suits under the Sherman law are now pending against the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' Association and the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association.

The Secretaries' Bureau and the Colorado and Wyoming Lumber Dealers' Association are defendants in the action filed to-day. The Government asks the court to enjoin the bureau from continuing espionage upon lumbermen by paid spies, and circulating blacklists and other confidential information. It asks that the Colorado and Wyoming Association be enjoined from contributing to the aid of the bureau.

Lumber dealers' associations in about twenty States are named in the bill as members of the Secretaries' Bureau, but are not named as defendants in this suit. Fourteen Secretaries of various lumber associations represented in the bureau were indicted recently in Chicago under the criminal sections of the Sherman law.

The Government charges that the operation of the alleged conspiracy between the lumbermen and the Secretaries' Bureau has eliminated all competition for the trade of the consumer, except among retail yards.

It is charged that a dealer is prevented from soliciting or competing for business in the territory of another; that contracting builders and other large consumers are prevented from buying at wholesale; that lumber dealers who have not obeyed the "ethics" prescribed by the organization have been watched by detectives from the central bureau, and their "irregular" sales published to other members of the association, and that they have been blacklisted and have found it difficult to continue business. The effect of all this, the Government alleges, has been to fix prices and restrain trade.

The bill is replete with allegations of threats and intimidations said to have been practiced upon manufacturers and wholesalers. The Government also alleges that each of the following lumber associations, in addition to the Colorado and Wyoming concern, are represented in the "clearing house":

Northwestern Lumbermen's Association, Southwestern Lumbermen's Association, Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, Ohio Lumber Dealers' Association, Illinois Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, Wisconsin Lumber Dealers' Association, Nebraska Lumber Dealers' Association, Western Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of Tennessee, Georgia, and Alabama; Mississippi and Louisiana Retail Lumber Association, Pennsylvania Lumber Dealers' Association, the Lumbermen's Association of Texas, and the Retail Association of Western Tennessee and Kentucky.

Customers' lists made up annually, the Government charges, designate from which manufacturers and wholesalers, members of the allied associations, are permitted to buy their supplies. The lumber Secretaries' Bureau, acting as the "clearing house," is alleged to be the medium through which the alleged black lists, &c., have been furnished to all dealers in the combined associations. The Government holds that by attacking the bureau the Department of Justice expects to strike at the root of the alleged restraints, which are said to make costly the distribution of lumber from the manufacturer to the consumer.

Attorney General Wickersham and his special assistant, Clark McKercher, have been working more than a year gathering the evidence upon which the suits are brought.

CUBAN POLITICS DISQUIETING

Zayistas May Start a Revolution if Gomez Is Renominated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 27.—Recent rains, barring a cyclone, assure tremendously profitable sugar and tobacco crops, but the political situation is disquieting. It is generally believed that President Gomez, despite his reiterated assertions that he will not run again, at the last moment will accept a renomination on the pretext of saving the country, whereupon the Zayistas are likely to start a revolution.

If Señor Gomez is nominated, Gen. Menocal, who is managing the great sugar estate "Chapara" representing $20,000,000 of American capital, will probably accept the Conservative nomination to save the country from the Liberals.

JUMPS FROM TRAIN WINDOW.

Student Does So While Dreaming He Was Playing Football.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Dreaming of football, scrimmages in his berth in a train bound for New York, Charles Burrows, said to be a candidate for the Yale eleven, plunged through the window during the night while the train was going at full speed. He was picked up by negro farmhands near Maregum, Ala.

Burrows, who hails from Joplin, Mo., was en route to New Haven to enter Yale, and continued his journey last night, little the worse for his adventure.

DEFEAT OF CHARTER NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

HOPE FOR REAPPORTIONMENT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—Confronted with a formidable opposition among members of the Democratic majority in the Legislature, and with the Republicans arrayed solidly against the Cullen-Foley New York City Charter bill, the Legislative leaders to-day virtually abandoned all hope of passing that measure at the present session.

If it were put to a final vote to-morrow it would be beaten overwhelmingly and by Democratic votes. Nor is that all. If one is to judge from the outlook to-night, the Congressional Reapportionment bill, the cherished measure of the Tammany organization, will have a hard road to travel before it becomes a law. In fact, the lieutenants of Tammany leader Murphy at the capital are to-night fighting to the best of their ability a small but determined group of insurgents and at the same time fishing for Republican votes to enable them to put the Reapportionment bill through.

One peculiar feature about the situation surrounding the Reapportionment bill is that it has aroused more dissatisfaction among the Democrats, for whose benefit it was drafted ostensibly, than among the Republicans. Some of the men who to-night are insurging against the reapportionment plan have always heretofore been known as regulars of the deepest dye. To describe the situation at the capital to-night as chaotic is to put it mildly. The leaders whose word has been law in the Legislature frankly admit that they do not know what the morrow will bring forth. It looks decidedly as if the entire Democratic programme for what remains of the session would go to smash.

Mr. Murphy's lieutenants here have been running around in circles all day. Finally his Assemblyman and chief Charter tinker, James A. Foley, accompanied by Senator James J. Frawley, the nominal leader of the Senate, and Assemblyman Alfred E. Smith, the de facto leader of the Democratic majority in the lower house, plucked up courage and decided that the best thing to do would be to go down to New York and tell Mr. Murphy all about it. They departed early this evening, saying they would return on a midnight train.

Insurgency Sweeps Legislature.

In the meantime legislative business is virtually at a standstill. It was not long after the early trains from New York had begun to unload their freight of lawmakers at the Capitol that the waves of insurgency began to sweep the Senate and Assembly. As a starter the entire Democratic delegation to the Senate from New York City, with the exception of Senator Thomas H. Cullen from Kings County, announced openly that they would vote against the Charter bill. With the solid Republican Opposition determined upon at a joint caucus held at that very moment, that in itself would have been enough to seal the fate of the measure for which Mayor Gaynor and Tammany Leader Murphy have been working so hard.

But the number was soon swelled by Democratic insurgents from other sections of the State. To-night the opponents of the Charter bill are counting on the support of not less than nine of the twenty Democratic Senators, with another Democrat, President pro tem Robert F. Wagner, prevented by illness from being present to do what he could to save the Charter bill from its prospective defeat. The nine insurgents are Senators Loring M. Black, Jr., Bart S. Cronin, Thomas C. Harden, Felix J. Sanner, James H. O'Brien, James F. Duhamel of Kings, (Independent League,) Stephen J. Stilwell, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Frank M. Loomis.

Senator John Godfrey Saxe of New York also let it be known that his objections to the Charter bill had not been met as yet, and that he certainly would not enter any Democratic caucus called for the purpose of making the Charter bill a party measure. This left only one Brooklyn Democrat in the Senate on record in favor of the Charter bill—Senator Thomas H. Cullen, Chairman of the Senate Cities Committee, and sponsor for the Charter bill in the upper house.

Later on Senators Howard R. Bayne of Richmond and George B. Burd of Erie came out in opposition to the Charter bill in its present form. This will place nearly one-half of the Democratic representation in the Senate in the opposition column.

In the Assembly there were so many absentees among the Democrats that the leaders found it impossible to make an inventory of what strength they might muster up for the Charter bill in that branch, or to transact any legislative business whatever. It is reported to-night that a good many members of the lower house who took part in the insurgent movement against the election of William F. Sheehan as United States Senator would vote against the Charter bill in retaliation. They have recently been made aware that the Tammany organization is pulling every wire at its disposal in their respective home localities to prevent their renomination. A very large number of the insurgent Assemblymen were conspicuous by their absence from the session to-day. This was looked upon as an ominous sign by the leaders, for emergency messages were sent throughout the State yesterday urging all the Democratic members to attend on penalty of being brought in by the Sergeant at Arms should they fail to respond.

Harold J. Friedman, who represents the Twenty-ninth Assembly District in New York, and who came to the Capitol in time for the session, announced at once that he would oppose the Charter in deference to the wishes of a large majority of his constituents. But as the situation stands to-night it would be impossible to give an accurate estimate of what strength the opposition may develop in the lower house when the bill comes up for final passage. It is known that every effort is being made by the organization leaders to conciliate and win over a sufficent number of the Democratic opponents to pass the Charter bill in that branch of the Legislature.

Brooklyn Interests Ignored.

When the Brooklyn Senators arrived at the Capitol it was learned that this opposition was not based on the failure to remove beyond equivocation the Mayor's absolute veto power in connection with subway franchises, but on the broader ground that the Charter was "against the interests of Brooklyn." That was the language used by Senator Cronin, who acted as spokesman for his colleagues from Kings.

Senator Saxe said that while he thought New York City should have a new charter framed by a Democratic Legislature, he was not sufficiently familiar with the changes made in the Charter bill recently to go on record either as for or against it.

Senator Loomis of Buffalo said that

MOROCCO DISPUTE NOT ENDED

But Germany Has Replied to the Latest French Proposals.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The German Minister of Foreign Affairs, Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter, to-day received the French Ambassador, M. Cambon, at the Foreign Office in Berlin and communicated to him Germany's reply commenting on France's latest proposals concerning Morocco.

The foregoing telegram, received last night, indicates that an earlier telegram from Paris, published in yesterday afternoon's papers, stating that Germany had accepted the latest French proposals in regard to Morocco was inaccurate.

"SALE" OF CASTLE A BLUFF.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 28.—The Tattershall Castle mystery thickens.

Sir Francis Trippel sends a long communication to this morning's Times, the gist of which is that investigations he has made show the whole affair to be a clear scheme to arouse public interest, with the object of getting a big price for the castle mantelpieces.

Sir Francis says he knows the name of the "American" who is reported to have bought the castle for £2,250 ($12,250) and who is now ready to resell it for £10,000, or even less. He concludes:

"It is quite evident that the statement concerning the removal of the castle brick by brick to the United States is not worthy of the least credence, although it is possible that some pretence at its removal may be attempted."

SIX DEAD IN A FIRE.

$500,000 Property Loss in Midnight Blaze at Wichita, Kan.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 28, Thursday.—One fireman dead, five persons buried under a fallen wall, and a financial loss of $500,000 was the toll at 1 o'clock this morning of a fire that started at midnight in a broom-corn stalk house and which is not yet under control.

NEW COMET NEAR DIPPER.

Smith Observatory Reports It Can Be Seen in Small Telescopes.

GENEVA, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The new comet discovered by Quenisset at Juvisy, France, was observed at Smith Observatory last night. Its position was right ascension 14 hours 52 minutes 30 seconds, north declination 68 degrees 43 minutes, or just under the bowl of the little Dipper.

The comet is visible in small telescopes. It is moving southwest.

LAURIER OFFICIAL WINS.

Majority of Two for Solicitor General Bureau—Recount Demanded.

THREE RIVERS, Ont., Sept. 27.—The official returns of the recent election as announced to-day by the returning office show a majority of two for the return to Parliament of Jacques Bureau, Solicitor General of the Laurier Government.

On the night of the election the announcement was made that Dr. L. P. Normand, Mayor of Three Rivers, had defeated the Minister by a small majority. A judicial recount will be demanded.

PRIEST HAS NEW EYELIDS.

Skin from Arms Grafted On After Old Ones Were Burned.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 27.—The eyelids of the Rev. Joseph Hohe, pastor of the Catholic Church near Bucyrus, Kan., which were burned when a lamp exploded in his hands, have been replaced by new ones, constructed from pieces of skin cut from the priest's arms and grafted on to the stumps of the lids, over which he has almost complete muscular control.

The operation was performed in a local hospital.

BINGHAMTON, NOT BERMUDA.

Porter's Mistake Nearly Halted a Ship for a Land Traveler.

The Royal Mail liner Tagus was pulling out from her pier, bound for Bermuda, yesterday when a young Hungarian came running down the pier followed by a negro porter, who frantically waved a suitcase. It was so evidently a case of a belated passenger that one official of the line signaled a tug, while another questioned the man.

The young man, his English all the worse for his excitement, said that he wanted to go not to Bermuda, but to Binghamton, N. Y. It turned out that when he got off an elevated train at Christopher Street he was immediately set upon by the porter, who took it for granted he was bound for Bermuda on the Tagus, just about to sail.

The tug was discharged and the Hungarian left the pier for a railroad ferry.

OFFERS DOLLAR GAS RATE.

Jersey Public Service Corporation Will Cut Electric Bills Also.

At a hearing by the New Jersey Board of Utilities Commissioners in Newark yesterday on the question of gas and electric power rates, President Thomas N. McCarter of the Public Service Corporation declared that his company would agree to a more uniform readjustment of the rates, and submitted an exhaustive analysis of the problem.

Mr. McCarter said the gas company was willing to reduce its rates, beginning Jan. 1 next, to a uniform charge of $1, and on Jan. 1, 1914, to make the rate 95 cents, with a third cut in 1916 to 90 cents.

The electric company submitted for adoption January next the same schedule of discounts recently put into effect in New York by the Edison Company.

Mr. McCarter contended that this plan offers "a just and honorable settlement of what otherwise may turn out to be the most dangerous and perplexing problem that has been injected into public affairs of New Jersey since the days of the civil war."

"The claim has been made," said Mr. McCarter, "that we are active in politics. We have been, to the extent of self-preservation. Just as long as approximately 10 per cent. of the bills introduced into the Legislature at Trenton directly affect the business of this corporation, just so long will the corporation not only be justified, but required, to defend itself from such attacks by any legitimate means within its power."

40,000 ITALIANS REACH TRIPOLI

EUROPEANS IN A PANIC

Anglo-Maltese, Unable to Get Away, Appeal to Governor of Malta for Protection.

POWERS' EFFORTS CONTINUE

If War Cannot Be Averted Attempt Will Be Made to Localize It—Anti-Militarist Riots in Italy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 28.—There is now little hope that an armed conflict between Italy and Turkey will be averted.

A force of 40,000 Italian troops is lying off the coast of Tripoli, and will probably be landed to-day (Thursday) under the guns of a powerful squadron, unless Turkey does the unexpected thing and accepts the ultimatum delivered to her.

The Turkish fleet has been recalled from Beirut, where it was liable to Italian attack.

The Italian plan of campaign is to seize the Tripolitan ports and make no advance into the interior for the present, as it is considered that Turkey may then bow to force.

A Rome dispatch says that some of the powers, especially Germany, are making every effort to localize the hostilities. It is stated that the greatest danger in this respect is the excitement of the Turkish populace in Constantinople, Salonika, and other large towns. If violence be done to Italian residents there the conflict will necessarily be enlarged in area and severity.

The Times's Constantinople correspondent says:

"I learn from official sources that the Porte has received no communication from the Italian Government since Sunday, when the Italian Chargé d'Affaires handed in a note calling attention to the dangerous growth of anti-Italian feeling in Tripoli, and expressing the belief that the landing of the transport Derna's cargo of war material at that port was calculated to render the excitement even more menacing to the safety of the Italian colony.

"It is also said, though I am unable to confirm the report, that Signor De Martino informed Hakki Pasha that his Government reserved to itself the right of formulating further demands concerning Tripoli.

"In reply the Porte, while assuring the Italian Chargé d' Affaires of its ability to maintain order in Tripoli, expressed the opinion that his Government's apprehensions were unfounded.

"In an unofficial conversation with the Grand Vizier, Signor De Martino made the ominous statement that Italian public opinion appeared to favor the proclamation of a protectorate over Tripoli for political, economic, and geographical reasons.

"Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, the German Ambassador, who was received in audience by the Sultan today, (Wednesday,) assured his Majesty that Germany would make friendly representations on behalf of Turkey to the Italian Government. He could not, however, promise that the representations would be successful."

Ultimatum Expires To-day.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 28.—A dispatch from Paris says that Italy has sent an ultimatum to Turkey declaring that the Porte must agree to an Italian occupation of Tripoli, and that unless a reply is received by to-day (Thursday) Italy will immediately proceed with the threatened occupation.

A letter from Tripoli, dated Sept. 21, says:

> On the day that the Italian newspapers intimating that the Italians contemplated an expedition to occupy Tripoli were received here, every cafe and theatre and all the shops and stores were instantly closed, and word was passed immediately to the Arabs throughout the town to meet in the great mosques to decide what they should do. They agreed that they would resist the Italian landing to the last, and that if they had to yield they would go to the British Consulate and seek British protection.

The British Consul there is expected to notify the Government if British subjects in Tripoli are in danger. If such notice is received warships will be sent immediately.

A correspondent of The Daily Chronicle sends a late dispatch from Tripoli. It says:

"All business here has stopped and great excitement prevails. The Turkish steamer Derna entered the harbor within view of the whole Italian fleet, which apparently had been watching her for many miles. She landed 100 soldiers, several boxes of ammunition, and rifles. It is expected that the fleet will now take steps to occupy the place. At any moment the fleet could have stopped the Derna, but refrained, I understand, under orders from the Italian Government.

"The news spread like wildfire. Turkish soldiers swarmed about the harbor yelling threats to Italy and the Italians. The latter are momentarily in fear of attack. The Italian Consul is withholding all newspapers from Italy in order to avoid increasing the anxiety. Turkish families were preparing to flee, but the local committee of the Union of Progress issued an order that Turkish subjects must on no account leave town. They were to be forcibly restrained if necessary."

The Foreign Office here at a late hour last night was without news of fresh developments in the crisis. The censorship maintained in Italy is so rigorous that it is difficult ao learn the exact position of affairs. In well-informed diplomatic quarters it is believed that no mere economic concessions will meet the Italian view.

An interesting question arises as to whether Turkey, being debarred by the weakness of her navy from sending transports to provision and reinforce her troops in Tripoli by sea, will claim the right to send convoys through Egypt. Such a demand would place Great Britain in a serious dilemma. To accede would mean incurring the enmity of Italy; to refuse would imperil the British position in Egypt and in the Moslem world generally.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The Italian Embassy here to-day authorized the statement that Italy seeks satisfaction from Turkey for a series of recent incidents. Among these are the arbitrary arrest of Italian subjects at Constantinople and their imprisonment despite all the Italian Government's remonstrances; the seizure of an Italian bark in the Red Sea by a Turkish gunboat; the abduction of a young Italian girl from her parents by a Turk and the refusal of the authorities at Constantinople to compel her release, and, finally, the insecurity of Italians in Tripoli.

Italy, the Embassy sets forth, demands satisfaction for these affronts and guarantees for the future.

According to information current in diplomatic circles in Paris to-night, Italy's second note to Turkey, presented yesterday, was couched in much more imperative terms than that of Sunday. The note ordered the Ottoman Government not to send reinforcements to Tripoli. Italy demanded the right to occupy Tripoli by military force. If this right is not conceded, Italy will take measures looking to such occupation by to-morrow morning at the latest.

At the same time Italy engages to respect the sovereignty of the Sultan, which implies the establishment of an administration analogous to that which Austria established over Bosnia and Herzegovina in 1879.

TURIN, Thursday, Sept. 28.—The Corriere della Sera says that Italy has received an unsatisfactory reply from Turkey and will answer with a more hostile note.

The Corriere d'Italia says that the landing of men and munitions at Tripoli by the Turkish steamer Derna constitutes a casus belli.

The Italian Government, the paper says, was awaiting such an act before proceeding to the occupation of the province.

German Efforts Continue.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Germany's diplomatic action at Rome and Constantinople, in an endeavor to bring about a peaceful settlement of the controversy between Italy and Turkey, is still progressing, and German officials are somewhat more hopeful than they were yesterday.

They are still evidently anxious regarding the situation, but Germany believes that Italy will not take decisive action without further diplomatic exchanges.

VIENNA, Sept. 27.—A dispatch from Milan says that all railways leading to the Italian ports are crowded with military trains loaded down with war supplies.

Troops destined for Tripoli are concentrated at the ports for embarkation and are awaiting the completion of their equipment.

The Neue Freie Presse learns from an official Turkish source that the Porte is determined to concede no political privileges to Italy in Tripoli, and will regard an Italian landing as a casus belli.

ROME, Sept. 27.—It is semi-officially announced that the Turkish steamer Derna has arrived at Tripoli with a small contingent of soldiers, some arms, and a quantity of supplies of food. The Italian warships had no orders to capture her.

A decree issued by the Minister of the Treasury raises the normal rate of discount from 5 to 5½ per cent.

Constantinople Expects War.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—It is understood that Germany is trying diplomatically at Rome and Constantinople to arrange an understanding between Italy and Turkey, but there is no hope here that the effort will succeed.

The Turkish transport Derna, which sailed with ammunition from Constantinople and was detained for several days at Smyrna, arrived at Tripoli yesterday.

The Tanin's leading article to-day says:

> The Tripolitan question brings upon the tapis the whole question of the relations between Christianity and Islam. The Turks have trespassed on nobody's rights, yet Italy is preparing to occupy Turkish territory on the pretext that Germany and France have taken away the independence of Morocco.
>
> Such conduct is a violation of the principles of international law, humanity, and civilization. It is evident that there is no justice in Europe. Treaties are merely instruments of deception, which are destroyed when advantage is to be gained thereby.
>
> The Italian aggression is really the outcome of the animosity on the part of Christianity toward Islam.

The Tanin says it regrets its former belief in Germany's friendship, and adds that it is apparent that Turkey has no friends in Europe.

The Cabinet in council yesterday decided that in the event of a rupture of the relations between Italy and Turkey the Italians in Turkey should be deprived of all the benefits of the Capitulations, which guarantee to foreigners in Turkey and its dependencies extra-territorial rights and immunities, such as trial by Consular courts in cases where Turkish subjects are concerned.

The newspapers suggest that all Ottoman subjects refuse to pay their debts to Italians in the event of an Italian occupation of Tripoli.

The authorities have prohibited a public meeting of protest against the threatening attitude of Italy that had been arranged at Stamboul.

SALONIKA, Sept. 27.—All the Italian merchant vessels in Ottoman waters have been recalled.

The Panic in Tripoli.

TRIPOLI, Sept. 27.—The native population of Tripoli is quiet, but Europeans are leaving the country in large numbers, fearing native demonstrations.

A French steamer which sailed yesterday took aboard many Europeans for Tunis, but was compelled to refuse others who sought passage because of the lack of room for them.

VALLETTA, Sept. 27.—A private message from Tripoli to-day says that Italian warships with an expeditionary force are lying twenty miles off Tripoli, and that there is a panic among the Italian residents there, as it is feared that the landing of troops would be the signal for a massacre of Europeans.

The Anglo-Maltese colony in Tripoli has petitioned the Governor of Malta for protection. Telegrams from Tripoli say that great uneasiness exists among the British subjects. They have raised the Union Jack over their houses and to-day sent the following telegram to their compatriots here:

> We implore our brethren to appeal to the Government to assist us and come to our help, as the Italian steamers refuse to receive any but persons of their own nationality.

The British cruisers Suffolk and Barham are here.

CHIASSO, Sept. 27.—To-day advices from Rome state that the anti-militarist demonstrations have assumed a grave character in the Provinces of Ravenna and Forli, where the Socialist and Republican elements predominate. A mob, after stopping trains which were transporting troops being moved in connection with the threatened trouble over Tripoli, stoned the cavalry. The rioters used street cars to form barricades in the streets.

At Vigevano, Province of Pavia, the manifestants paraded, led by a woman and singing Anarchistic songs. They stoned carabineers who attempted to head them off, wounding some of the soldiers. A Judge who sought to interfere had his ears boxed.

The revolutionary Socialists, backed by the Anarchists, are attempting to provoke anti-military disorders, and have compelled the Government to make a great display of force to check their plan.

The general strike proposed for to-day in protest against the possible war with Turkey failed. Only a portion of the workmen deserted their posts.

The extremists among the agitators are being hunted by police, carabineers, and soldiers. Being prevented from holding public meetings, they had recourse to private reunions, where there were inflammatory harangues. Some of the speakers went so far as to glorify regicide, saying that the expedition to Tripoli was prepared entirely in the interest of the dynasty and against the welfare of the proletariat.

At a meeting in Rome Mary Rygier, the Socialist, ended a storm of invectives by crying "Long live Bresci, the murderer of King Humbert!" She declared that the movement regarding Tripoli had been planned by King Victor Emanuel to assist his father-in-law, King Nicholas of Montenegro, "who wishes the defeat and humiliation of Turkey in order that he may enlarge his own tiny kingdom."

About 1,000 arrests have been made throughout Italy.

All the reservists answered the call and entered their barracks without untoward incidents, but the trains used to transport them were stopped at several stations by mobs. The women and children were particularly desperate, and in some instances threw themselves across the railway tracks in front of the trains, daring the engineers to run over them. Carabineers and cavalry repeatedly charged the crowds and cleared the tracks, while the reservists shouted "Long live Italy!" "Long live Italy and Tripoli!"

TO PROTECT AMERICANS.

The Scout-Cruiser Chester Is Due at Tripoli in a Few Days.

BELLPORT, L. I., Sept. 27.—The recent departure of the United States scout cruiser Chester from Boston for Tripoli occasioned a conference a few days ago between the Turkish Ambassador, Zia Pasha, and Huntington Wilson, the Assistant Secretary of State.

As the Chester started for Tripoli about the time when the dispute between Turkey and Italy was reaching a more acute stage, Zia Pasha sought to determine the object of the warship's voyage. When asked concerning the nature of his interview with Mr. Wilson, the Ambassador said to-night that Mr. Wilson had assured him that the warship's visit was not due to the pending Turkish-Italian crisis, but to the determination of the American Government to furnish protecting influence for such Americans as may be in Tripoli.

The decision to dispatch the Chester was reached early this month following the murder on March 11 of Herbert F. de Cou, a member of the American archeological expedition, which had been engaged in excavation work on the site of the ruins of Cyrene. Mr. de Cou was killed by tribesmen from a neighboring district.

The Ambassador informed Mr. Wilson that the Turkish Government was doing everything possible to obtain the punishment of the murderers and to protect the lives of all other Americans who might be in Tripoli. Mr. Wilson told him that the Chester was due at Tripoli about the first week of October and that she would remain there indefinitely to impress the tribesmen and in a general way protect American citizens.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—While under no present apprehension for the safety of the members of the American archaeological expedition who are excavating the ruins of Cyrene, the State Department officials are not blind to the danger that might follow a crisis in Tripoli.

Even in Turkey Christians scarcely would be safe in the event of a religious war; while among the more ignorant Arabs and native tribes of North Africa it would be too much to expect differentiation between Christians of various nationalities. In fact, it was just such a lack of discrimination that led to the slaying of Mr. de Cou, for the murderers admitted that they had no personal animosity against him.

Therefore the State Department is watching developments closely and is prepared to demand that the archaeologists cease their explorations and withdraw from Africa for the time being in case of hostilities between Italy and Turkey.

Should war be declared it may fall to the lot of an American to command some of the operations of the Turkish Navy. Buckman Pasha—Capt. Ransford D. Buckman—holds the rank of Vice Admiral in the Turkish Navy, and when, in 1906, there was danger of war between Turkey and Great Britain he was selected to direct whatever naval maneuvres should be necessary. His friends here say he will be invested with similar authority should the present crisis result in war.

Buckman Pasha originally commanded a whaleback in the coal trade between Newport News, Baltimore, and Boston. His work later with an American shipbuilding company which constructed a warship for Turkey attracted the attention of representatives of the Sultan, who offered him a position in the Ottoman Navy.

DUELS OVER CAMORRA TRIAL.

Encounters Between Fabbroni and Defense's Lawyers Expected.

VITERBO, Sept. 27.—Signor Lioy, one of the lawyers for the defense, occupied the morning session of the Camorra trial to-day in an attempt to discredit the testimony of Capt. Fabbroni of the Carabineers, who gathered much of the evidence introduced at the trial.

Lioy called many witnesses and amplified their testimony with excited remarks to the jury. He described Fabbroni as a "habitual slanderer, who deliberately injured the reputations of those who refused to testify in accordance with his wishes."

There was a sensational incident at the afternoon session, which necessitated an adjournment of the court and will result, it is expected, in several duels between Fabbroni and the lawyers for the defense.

Attorney Pistolesi followed Lioy in an attack upon Fabbroni. The latter was not present in the morning, but was in court when the charges against him were repeated later in the day. Both attorneys declared that he had made false accusations against the defendants and had induced other witnesses to commit perjury.

Fabbroni when his turn came denied every allegation and described his defamers as "cowards and villains." In the heat of his reply he put his hand in a pocket, and his opponents thought that he was drawing a revolver.

Pandemonium ensued, the lawyers for the defense shrieking insults and the prisoners from their steel cage howling execrations against Fabbroni and the other Carabineers. The police were called in to restore order and the sitting was abruptly suspended.

Those concerned intimated that the quarrel would be settled on the field of honor.

MOTHER AND SON SUICIDES.

Charge Against Him Caused the Laceys to Drown Themselves.

EAST BROOKFIELD, Mass., Sept. 27.—Bound together by straps about their wrists, the bodies of Mrs. Mary Lacey and her son, J. G. Lacey, of Fitchburg were found in Lake Lashway to-day. Grief over a charge on which the son had been arrested is supposed to have caused them to commit suicide. Mrs. Lacey was 53 years old and her son 30.

Lacey was employed as a steward at the Fay Club. Over six feet in height, of athletic build, and engaging manner, Lacey was highly regarded by members of the club, and when, a week ago, he was placed under arrest on a serious charge his acquaintances were greatly surprised.

Although Mrs. Lacey was not concerned in the charge made against the young man, her friends say that she took the matter deeply to heart, and shortly after his release on bonds both disappeared from Fitchburg. It is believed that they went to their old home in North Brookfield and to-day came to East Brookfield by trolley.

A man living near by heard a scream from the direction of the lake shore about 1 o'clock this afternoon, and it is supposed that the suicide agreement was carried out at this time as a physician declared the bodies had been in the water two or three hours when found. They were near the edge of the lake in water less than two feet deep. On the shore was Lacey's traveling bag containing a bottle of carbolic acid and ten letters addressed to persons in Fitchburg and Windsor, Vt.

Before entering the water the man had removed his coat and hat and his mother had taken off her hat and jacket. The right wrist of the young man was bound to the left wrist of his mother with a skate strap, while the other hands were held less closely together with a string.

The letters found mentioned the approaching hearing on charges preferred against the young man in Fitchburg, and said that both the mother and son preferred to end their lives to meeting publicity.

Mayor Brand Whitlock Again Ill.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Mayor Brand Whitlock, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is again confined to his home with an attack of nervous prostration. His father, the Rev. E. D. Whitlock, underwent an operation at a hospital here yesterday.

ELEVEN IN AUTO-BUS DROWNED IN SEINE

Vehicle Skids on Bridge, Crashes Through Railing, and Falls Into River.

PRIEST SAVES SIX LIVES

Crawls Through Window and Pulls Other Passengers on to the Roof —Ten Bodies Recovered.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Eleven persons were drowned and ten others were injured by the overturning of an auto-bus into the Seine this afternoon.

The accident occurred at about 4:30 o'clock, the busiest time of the day. The auto-bus, with twenty-five passengers, was coming from the Jardin des Plantes in the direction of the Opéra. It was half way over the Archevêché Bridge, leading from the left bank of the river to the Ile de la Cité immediately behind the Cathedral of Notre Dame.

In trying to avoid a collision with another omnibus coming in the opposite direction the chauffeur gave his steering wheel a sharp turn. The heavy vehicle skidded violently, shot on to the sidewalk, crashed through the heavy iron railing as if it were a pipe stem, and dropped into the river below. All the passengers were carried down with the exception of two or three who, standing on the rear platform, realized their danger and jumped in time.

Rescuing parties were formed at once, police and firemen from neighboring stations with ropes and ladders getting quickly to work under the superintendence of Prefect Lépine. In conjunction with the River Police they extricated ten injured persons, who were conveyed to a hotel close by.

Ten bodies were recovered, and divers, hastily summoned, explored the interior of the vehicle and the river bed under the bridge as long as daylight lasted, but they found no more bodies. They returned to the surface with only a woman's reticule.

Work will be resumed to-morrow in an endeavor to recover the body of the driver, which is believed to have been swept away by the current.

One of the passengers, a priest named Richard, who managed to escape out of a window, saved six persons. He says all he remembers of the accident was finding himself at the bottom of the river groping around. Finally he found a window, through which he managed to swim to the surface. He climbed to the roof of the omnibus and immediately turned his attention to other passengers who were in difficulty, pulling them on the roof beside him, from which uncertain refuge they were hauled off by the firemen.

W. G. C. GLADSTONE AN M. P.

Head of Gladstone Family Elected to Parliament from Kilmarnock.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—William G. C. Gladstone, a grandson of the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, was elected to the House of Commons to-day from Kilmarnock Burghs to succeed the late Dr. A. R. Rainy, Liberal.

William Glynne Charles Gladstone is the head of the branch of the Gladstone family to which the great Prime Minister belonged, and owns Hawarden Castle in Cheshire, which was the residence of William Ewart Gladstone. He was born in 1885, the eldest son of the late W. H. Gladstone, M. P., who was the eldest son of the Prime Minister. His mother was the Hon. Gertrude Stuart, fourth daughter of the twelfth Lord Blantyre.

Mr. Gladstone, who was educated at Eton and Oxford, recently returned to Hawarden after an extended stay in America as an honorary attaché of the British Embassy in Washington, and was the recipient of an enthusiastic demonstration on the part of the tenants of the Hawarden estate.

DELCASSE AT TOULON.

He Visits the Wreck of the Liberte—Destroyers in Collision.

TOULON, Sept. 27.—Now that the work of rescue is over, the attention of the authorities is occupied in establishing the cause of and responsibility for the disaster to the battleship Liberté, and to devising means to prevent a recurrence of such accidents.

M. Delcassé, the Minister of Marine, who visited the wreck to-day, was affected to tears at the dreadful sights he saw. It is said that he was exceedingly angry, and vehemently criticised the defective organization of which evidences met him at every turn.

M. Delcassé said it was not deflagration of "B" powder that was responsible for the explosion. The causes, he said, were to be sought elsewhere.

The report that fires started on the battleships Patrie and Suffren on the same morning that the Liberté was destroyed is confirmed. This adds to the general mystification regarding the Liberté disaster.

The torpedo boat destroyers Trident and Mousqueton were in collision in the course of the naval manoeuvres here to-day. The Mousqueton was rather badly stove in, but was able to make port. There were no fatalities.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Sept. 27.—President Taft has sent the following message:

> To His Excellency, M. Fallieres, President French Republic, Paris:
>
> I learn with heartfelt sorrow of the appalling disaster that has befallen the Liberte at Toulon and I offer in the name of my countrymen sincere assurances of sympathy for the afflicted French people, so long and so warmly bound to the American people by ties of amity and mutual regard.

INFANT IS DUKE OF SAGAN.

Child of Prince Helie and Former Anna Gould Accepted by Curia.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The Royal Feudal Curia to-day certified Charles Maurice Jason Howard, the two-year-old son of Prince Hélie de Sagan and his wife, who was formerly Anna Gould, as the Duke of Sagan and heir to the Prussian title, and appointed Vice Master of Ceremonies Count von Kanitz his guardian.

The action by the Feudal Curia has been sought for a year by Prince Hélie de Sagan in order to enable him to escape paying the $3,750,000 he owes in Germany and yet retain for his family its estates in the little Silesian town of Sagan. Both the Prince and his father, Duke Boson de Sagan, were active in piling up debts against the German properties, and after waiting anxiously a long time for Prince Hélie to apply for the legal rights of succession to the Duchy of Sagan, to which he was entitled on the death of his father, the creditors early in 1910 had the Prince declared a bankrupt.

The Prince was advised that as long as he made no move to possess himself of his German duchy its revenues were safe against the assaults of his creditors, but that if he claimed his title he would have to pay them. There was but one way to escape from the creditors, he was told, and yet save the estates for his heirs. That lay in his abdication of his own rights in favor of his infant son. In that event the income from the Sagan properties would still be available for the payment of the deceased Duke Boson's debts, but would be inviolate from attack by any of Prince Hélie's own creditors.

The property is now in the hands of a receiver and its income is being applied to the late Duke's debts, but on the payment of these the property passes directly to the young Duke, who will eventually be entitled to a seat in the Prussian House of Lords and take rank with the nobles of the Fatherland.

NEW CARNEGIE HERO FUND.

King Victor Emmanuel Accepts the Offer of $250,000 to Italy.

ROME, Sept. 27.—Andrew Carnegie's offer of $250,000 to found a hero fund for Italy has been accepted by the king.

A committee to administer the fund has been appointed.

KANSAS CORDIALITY GRATIFYING TO TAFT

TALKS ON A TABLE TO 50,000

Senator Curtis to Support Peace Treaties — Bristow Tells President Party War Is Not Over.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 27.—President Taft ended his four days' visit to Kansas here to-night and departed for Iowa, where he will spend two days before again heading for the Far West.

To-day Mr. Taft visited Topeka, Atchison, and Leavenworth, stopping en route to appear on the back platform of his train in response to the cheers of throngs. In all Mr. Taft traveled 845 miles in Kansas and made twenty-two formal speeches. He wound up here to-day with a discussion of the tariff, during which he again explained his veto and asserted his willingness to sign any tariff bills that might be based upon the forthcoming report of the Tariff Board.

Mr. Taft expressed himself as delighted with his reception in Kansas. The crowds which turned out to greet him again took rank as the largest he has met on any of his various trips through the country.

The climax was reached this morning at Topeka, where Mr. Taft faced a throng in the Capitol plaza estimated to number between 40,000 and 50,000. In order that all might see him the President mounted a table. The day was intensely hot and Mr. Taft discarded his silk hat and spoke bareheaded. When he appeared at Atchison he had laid aside the silk hat entirely and wore a broad-brimmed Panama.

"I am sincerely grateful to the people of Kansas," said the President to-night, "not only for the warm welcome which they extended to me, as President of the United States, but for the kind attention which they gave to what I said. I found the intelligent men and women of Kansas looking prosperous, happy, and contented, and I congratulate them on the evidences thereof that abound on every side."

President Taft's reception in Kansas surprised some of his most intimate friends and supporters, and the developments in Iowa during the next two days are awaited with keenest interest.

The President was surrounded throughout the day by a host of Kansas politicians. They belonged to both factions of the Republican Party. Senator Bristow, who, at Hutchinson yesterday, served notice upon Mr. Taft that the party war was far from over, continued as the President's guest to-day. There was no recurrence, however, of the bitterness which closed the semi-centennial celebration at the State fair yesterday, and both the President and the Senator wished each other good luck when they parted company to-night.

At Topeka the President laid the corner stone of the Memorial Building, which the State of Kansas is erecting to the Grand Army of the Republic, and the presence of so many old soldiers in his audience later at the Capitol plaza led Mr. Taft into a discussion of peace and another appeal for popular support of the arbitration treaties recently negotiated with Great Britain and France. The President appealed particularly, he said, to the men who knew the sufferings and the cruelty of war, to help in bringing about a step toward universal peace.

Following the President's speech, Senator Curtis came out in a statement favoring the ratification of the compacts. He is the third Senator to pledge support to the treaties since Mr. Taft's trip began.

In Leavenworth the President made his tariff address in the open air and then motored to Fort Leavenworth, where he briefly addressed the officers attending the Army Service School, advocating the idea of a skeleton army made up largely of skilled officers who would devote themselves to the training of the militia.

AEROPLANE CARRIES LETTER TO BURGESS

meet is not a commercial or money-making proposition, a public announcement having been made by me some time ago that neither the club nor any one else connected with it could expect a dollar of profit or remuneration out of this effort of ours to contribute to the advancement of a science which is not attracting greater attention than in their early stages did the steamship, the railroad, the telephone, the telegraph, (wire or wireless,) or the automobile.

My disposition as a New England Congregationalist was to avoid flying on Sunday, and the first advertisements of this meet stated that it would be held from Sept. 23 to Sept. 30, exclusive of Sunday, Sept. 24. But when it came to making contracts with the aviators we found them insistent upon the period of the meet being extended to include Sundays, Sept. 24 and Oct. 1, on the ground that they could not afford to lose these days at this time when their services were in great demand all over the country. Also our attention was called by people particularly interested in the education and uplifting of the masses as to the fact that if this meet were not open on Sundays those who work the other six days of the week would have no opportunity to obtain a conception of the wonderful creation called a flying machine, the remarkable progress it is making, and the practical uses to which it can be put.

Few realize the great expenditure of money and brains incident to the maintenance in good condition and the safe handling of an aeroplane. The men who are flying to-day and have been for some time without accident maintain a staff of the most efficient and highest paid mechanics in the world, and there is scarcely a man flying at this meet who is not a graduate of a college, through which some of them have worked their way.

In this discussion it has been said that your congregation has been disturbed by the noise of the aeroplanes. It is to obviate just such objections to something which is sure soon to come into general use that a meet like ours is being held. I am this very day in negotiations with Louis L. Crane of Brooklyn for the exhibition of a machine which he claims to be absolutely noiseless, and have recently heard from the Wright brothers and others regarding the efforts which they are making to muffle the engines of aeroplanes just as we now muffle the engines of automobiles. Just think to what an extent the noise of an automobile has been reduced since it first went roaring and clanking past the church door on a Sunday morning.

I was somewhat influenced in consenting to Sunday flying by the precedent established last year at the Belmont Park meeting, when two Sundays were included in the period of the meet, and so far as I have been able to learn without protest from the people of Nassau County or the City of New York, in both of which Belmont Park partly lies. Permit me to refer to the further precedent established right here in our very midst at a distance no greater from your cathedral than our flying field is, where admissions were charged every Sunday afternoon all last Summer to see aeroplanes in the air or on the ground, which, while contributing to the development of the machine itself, were not aiding in developing the practical uses of the aeroplane as we are seeking above everything else to do at this meet of ours.

Consistent with the contracts and representations made by the Nassau Aviation Corporation, which is conducting this meet, I will do everything in my power to preserve the peace and quiet of the Sabbath day, as I have already sought to do by holding the meet in the afternoon long after the hours of church worship, which should be observed by every true citizen of a Christian country. With great respect, I remain, yours very sincerely,

TIMOTHY L. WOODRUFF.

Bad Day for Flights.

The events of the day on the aviation field, except for the departure of the aeroplane on its mission of conciliation, were rather colorless in contrast to the notable features of Tuesday. Lowering clouds kept the crowd down to a mere fringe along the front row of the grand stand, while the high wind discouraged all but the most intrepid airmen.

Grahame-White, the most experienced flier of them all, did his visiting about the grounds in an automobile. Lieut. Milling, who was very much of a hero after his record-breaking flight for duration on Tuesday, took a soldier up for a trial before the formal opening of the meet.

For the first event—a trial at carrying the largest amount of "live weight" regardless of speed—three Wright biplanes lined up at the starting mark. The contest was won by the English flier, whose powerful Gnome engine has made the work of his machine conspicuous, both for speed and endurance in heavy weather. Lieut. Arnold attempted to take up more pounds of live weight than he could carry for the four laps required under the conditions governing the event. He came down after flying less than two laps. Milling took up a Midshipman who tipped the scales well above 200 pounds. It seemed that he would surely win, but the going was not to his liking, and he sought the ground for safety.

Then came Sopwith with a light passenger, and he was able to fly in good form, regardless of the puffy breezes that tossed his biplane about at times and caused it to make lurches on the windward wing.

The only other race actually attempted was a passenger-changing race, in which it was thought the army fliers would excel, as this was something of a military feat. The event was a thrilling one, as the aeroplanes sped quickly to the ground and were away again as fast as one passenger could slip off and another make a flying leap to his seat. Sopwith's Gnome motor, however, spun around a little faster than the American-made motors, and he landed at the completion of the event more than a minute ahead of his nearest competitor.

SOPWITH WINS TWO EVENTS.

Weight-Carrying and Passenger-Changing Contests Won by Briton.

There was a dearth of competitive talent yesterday in the four events scheduled, and of which but two were decided, with Thomas O. M. Sopwith as the all-star performer through his capturing of the weight-carrying contest and the passenger-changing race. There were no second and third awards in the first-named event, while in the other the army officers, Lieut. Henry H. Arnold and Lieut. T. De Witt Milling, filled second and third positions, respectively.

The other events—passenger carrying for altitude and the cross-country race—were postponed until Saturday, when the prize money for these competitions will be double, this action following the requests of the aviators.

It was 3:40:20 when Lieut. Arnold took the aerial route with Lieut. Lyons, weighing 221½ pounds, as his passenger in the weight-carrying contest. The army men had considerable difficulty getting started against the wind, and when they did get up they fluttered around in an uncertain manner. That everything was not well aloft was shown when Arnold dropped down 2 minutes and 40 seconds later, he declaring that the task was too difficult. The combined weight of the two men was 390½ pounds.

Lieut. Milling essayed a flight with W. J. Carver and Midshipman S. Ender. This trio totaled 450½ pounds, and that they had next to no chance to succeed was proved by the fact that they were up only five seconds.

Profiting by these failures, Sopwith took up with him as his live weight E. Burd Grubb, who scaled 151½ pounds, Sopwith tipping the beam at 159 pounds. This was a better combination, and found the English aviator easily able to make the required flight of five miles, his time being 9:07 3-5.

Making the first circuit in 2:18 3-5, Sopwith bettered this time in the succeeding two laps by doing 2:13 1-5 and 2:13 2-5, while his last lap took 2:19 2-5. The Englishman's feat was not attempted by any of the other airmen, and he won the money offered in the event.

Passenger-Changing Race.

Next to be seen was the passenger-changing race, the conditions being that the flyer should carry a passenger two circuits, or half a mile, alight, leave his passenger, pick up another, repeating this procedure three times.

The three flyers who took part in this event all used Burgess-Wright machines, the competitors being Lieut. Arnold, Lieut. Milling, and Sopwith. The latter's biplane was equipped with a Gnome motor and a Farman control, features not possessed by the other machines.

Arnold was the first to make a trial for the first money, and after making some very pretty changes was clocked in 14:28 4-5. Then followed Lieut. Milling's effort, which resulted in a fast initial lap, after which he was checked somewhat by the ever-increasing wind. He finally got home in 14:44 4-5.

Sopwith's work in what proved to be the final trial netted him first money by over a minute's margin, his time being 13:23 3-5. His third and sixth laps were the fastest of the afternoon, and he showed little hesitancy in skidding close to the pylons at these times, rounding off his concluding circuit in 2:04 4-5. In the back stretch he flew along with the semi-gale behind him at a pace of about a mile a minute.

In the face of the wind and on the home stretch of each lap the speed of each of the contenders was reduced to about one-half that of the opposite side of the field, with the planes tilting at times in an alarming manner. Summaries:

Weight-Carrying Contest—Open to All Types of Aeroplanes; Greatest Live Weight Carried to Count, Regardless of Speed. Five Miles.—Won by Thomas O. M. Sopwith, (Burgess-Wright.) Time, 9:07 3-5.

MISS QUIMBY'S FLIGHT.

Woman Aviator Entertains Trenton Fair Folk—Balloonist's Peril.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 27.—Miss Harriet Quimby in her monoplane made a graceful ascent at the Inter-State Fair to-day, and was enthusiastically applauded.

Haldeman von Figyel, a Philadelphia author, made his first balloon ascension here to-day, going up in the air for the purpose of converting his sensations into material. Inexperienced with the cutting loose of the parachute, he went almost out of sight before he could manage the ropes that released the parachute from the balloon. The signal gun warning him to cut away was fired as fast as it could be reloaded, and the thousands of spectators held their breath. He landed in a field several miles from the fair grounds, much frightened, but unhurt.

THINK SHE POISONED FOUR OF HER FAMILY

Annie Crawford, Arrested for Sisters' Murder, Suspected of That of Father and Mother Also.

ALL INSURED FOR HER

Woman, Once Employed in New Orleans Hospital, Said to be Drug Fiend, with Mania for Fine Clothes.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—Annie Crawford, under arrest here for poisoning her sister, Elise, a stenographer, who died a few days ago, and suspected by the police of causing the death by poison of her father, mother, and another sister, made a partial confession to the District Attorney here to-night. Elise Crawford died last Saturday in circumstances so suspicious that the Coroner had the contents of the dead girl's stomach analyzed. Traces of morphine were found, and the arrest of Annie Crawford, who is 27 years old, but looks older, and is, according to the police, a drug fiend, followed.

In the case of Elise Crawford as in that of the three other members of the Crawford family who have died in mysterious circumstances within the past fifteen months, Annie Crawford was the beneficiary named in the insurance policies on the life of each. The policies she held on all four amounted to $1,750, and the police say the girl spent nearly all the money for clothes.

District Attorney Adams said to-night: "It was established to-day that Annie Crawford is a drug fiend and probably is addicted to morphine. It is also established that she had access during the past three weeks to morphine and was in a position to obtain it in practically any quantity. During the indisposition of Elise Crawford she bitterly complained that her food and drink were doped. I have charged Annie Crawford with the murder of her sister Elise."

The woman, according to the District Attorney, admitted giving poison to Elise, but said she did it by mistake. Her story was that she gave the morphine thinking it calomel tablets, and then that she did not call the doctor in and tell him of the mistake because she was afraid of her aunt. The statement said nothing of the deaths of the other members of the family.

The woman's relatives confirmed the story that she had a mania for fine clothes which she always somehow managed to get, and admitted that she was addicted to the use of morphine, frequently to such an extent as to render her oblivious of passing events.

Through long service in the drug department of the New Orleans Sanitarium, from which she was discharged for alleged irregularities in her accounts, the woman was, it is said, familiar with the action of poisons.

Since her discharge from the hospital two years ago she has not worked, but has paid board to the uncle and aunt with whom she lived. At first she said she had saved up some money. Later she admitted she could not have kept up but for the insurance money she received by the deaths of members of the family. She seldom ate at the table, usually taking her meals in the kitchen. When young men called upon her sisters she ran off and hid.

Recently Annie Crawford took out insurance upon the remaining members of the family. To a reporter to-day twenty-year-old Gertrude, another sister, said: "I don't want Annie to nurse me if ever I get sick. She gives such funny medicine."

The woman is pale and frail and of small stature. She looks more like a prim and self-conscious school teacher than a person with criminal inclinations.

The first of the Crawford household to die was Mary Agnes, sister of the prisoner. Her death occurred June 25, 1910, suddenly, supposedly of acute meningitis. Three weeks later, July 15, 1910, her father died, uraemic poisoning being given as the cause. After an interval of two weeks, or on July 29, 1910, her mother died. In her case uraemic poisoning was also given as the cause.

Annie Crawford held insurance policies on the lives of the deceased in the following sums:

Walter C. Crawford, father, $800; Mrs. Crawford, mother, $400; Mary Agnes Crawford, sister, $300; Elise Crawford, sister, $250. She collected the insurance in each case except that of her sister, Elise, payment of which was withheld pending receipt of the certificate of death.

Elise Crawford had been treated for heart trouble by Dr. J. C. McGuire, who, however, upon the girl's death Saturday refused to give a certificate of death, saying that the symptoms were not those of heart trouble. Dr. McGuire is said to have stated at the time that if he had been prevailed upon to give a certificate of death, he would have diagnosed it as morphine poisoning. Dr. McGuire advised that Miss Crawford be sent to the Charity Hospital the night before her death. This was decided upon, with the result that the young woman died in that institution early Saturday morning after lingering for some time in a state of coma.

FISHER FOR LEASING ALASKA COAL LANDS

Secretary Announces His Policy at Conservation Congress and Says Taft Agrees.

ROOSEVELT'S LETTER READ

Gives List of Popular Movements Which He Favors—Bryan on the Dignity of Labor.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27.—William J. Bryan, Walter L. Fisher, Secretary of the Interior, and Theodore Roosevelt shared honors to-day at the closing session of the Third National Conservation Congress.

Mr. Bryan and Secretary Fisher occupied the platform to-night. Former President Roosevelt was represented by a letter to the Congress in which he set forth his reasons and expressed his regrets for not being present in person.

"Conservation," said Mr. Bryan, "is a subject that grows. Begin, for instance, with the conservation of forestry and you are confronted with the soil question; agricultural colleges, as the panacea for farm ills, then come before you; but at last you come to the matter of social conditions. This is the question of man himself. His health, his hopes, his character are the great controlling principles that govern life and conduct. These become primary subjects, and all other forms of conservation become methods through which he works out the problem of advancement." He praised the dignity of labor.

Mr. Bryan was on the platform when Walter L. Fisher, Secretary of the Interior, addressed the congress on the subject "Conservation and the Public Domain."

Secretary Fisher strongly urged the leasing of Government-owned coal lands, with particular reference to those in Alaska.

"I have been in Alaska and British Columbia," he said. "I studied the leasing law in British Columbia. Why can't we have the same kind of law? It retains the land in the hands of the Government; it affords a permanent return and prevents the exhaustion of the land in a few years, but, most important of all, it prevents the hoarding of the land and the subsequent undevelopment by capitalists."

As to the situation in Government coal lands in the West Mr. Fisher said:

"I have learned that there are lots of men who want to gain control of the coal lands and hold them. They don't want to give the public a chance, but want to hoard these lands so they will make money for their progeny a hundred years hence."

"I have just come from Hutchinson, Kan., where I had a long conference with President Taft relative to the policy of my department," said Mr. Fisher.

"I find that his views and mine relative to the conservation of the public domain are in complete accord.

"We especially discussed the Alaskan situation, so much before the public here of late, and found that we agree completely on a policy for that much-misrepresented country."

The Congress passed a resolution prepared by Dr. W. T. Hornaday of the Camp Fire Club, strongly recommending legislation for the protection of wild life, and a resolution prepared by W. P. Wharton of the National Audubon Society, indorsing the Congressional bill protecting migratory birds.

Dr. Hornaday was elected Vice President from New York. At the request of the Camp Fire Club, standing committees on wild life protection will be appointed. Dan Beard will probably be named as Chairman.

John D. Moore, New York Conservation Commissioner, who is attending the congress, was invited to address the audience last evening on the subject, "What New York Has Done for Conservation."

The report of the Nominating Committee presented yesterday was accepted. J. B. White of Kansas City, Mo., the newly elected President, has long been active in conservation work.

Theodore Roosevelt in his letter to President Wallace expressing regret at being unable to be present, said he believed with all his heart in conservation, in the movements against child labor and the white slave traffic, in "every rational movement to promote the cause of temperance," in industrial and agricultural education, in the movement for playgrounds and for the betterment of rural life conditions, in the movement to secure workmen's compensation acts, to better tenement house conditions, and most emphatically in something being done carefully to investigate the increased cost of living.

He said he had received requests to speak for each of these movements, as well as others, but he could not speak for one unless he spoke for the others, and he was too busy to speak for all of them.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma addressed the convention to-night.

At a business session the report of the Committee on Resolutions was adopted. Among the resolutions was one recommending the bringing together as a department of health the various human health activities of the United States Government as a co-ordinate branch of its administrative work; recommending the early opening of the coal lands and other resources of Alaska on a system of leasing; and instructing the Secretary to send a telegram to Gifford Pinchot, "one of the great pioneers of conservation," expressing the regret of the Congress because he was unable to be present.

The city in which the next congress will be held will be selected by the Executive Committee, probably about four months after to-night's adjournment.

RABBI BLUM BREAKS ANKLE.

Was About to Take Train at Middletown When He Slipped and Fell.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The Rev. Dr. Abraham Blum, a rabbi of 138 West Eighty-first Street, New York, fell and broke his right ankle at the Erie Railroad station in this city this afternoon.

Dr. Blum was waiting to take a train for New York, and as he stepped out of the station slipped and turned his ankle, breaking it. He was taken to Theall Hospital, where he was attended by Drs. Purdy, Schultz, and Ferguson. He will be laid up for several weeks.

NO ELECTION NECESSARY.

Rolph's Vote at San Francisco Primaries Enough to Make Him Mayor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—James Rolph, Jr., who was elected Mayor of San Francisco yesterday, is known to army officers and philanthropic workers all over the country as the man who kept soup kitchens out of the so-called "Mission district" of the city, where he lived, following the great fire of 1906.

When with thousands of homeless men, women, and children, crowded into that section, unable to care for themselves, army authorities issued a permit to a man to open a soup kitchen there, Rolph protested.

"Not one of these people shall go hungry," he said. "You have my personal word."

The lumber for the kitchen was hauled away, and in one day 70,000 persons were fed at one corner by the Mission Relief Association, of which Rolph was one of the organizers.

Rolph is 42 years old, and for three years has been President of the Ship Owners' Association, and the Merchants' Exchange. He also is President of two banks. He started life poor.

The election carried Rolph into office without the need of a general election. Under the charter provisions he is Mayor-elect to-day, having received a majority of the total vote cast, estimated around 7,000.

CROKER'S DAUGHTER SUES.

Seeks Divorce from Riding Master Whom She Married in 1910.

Special to The New York Times.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 27.—"Jack" Breen, who spent last week here attending the horse show as driver of the string of show horses owned by J. R. Stratton of Peterboro, Ontario, was served with papers in a suit for divorce while in this city.

Mrs. Breen lives in New York City and is a daughter of Richard Croker, former head of Tammany Hall. Breen was married to Miss Croker while he was engaged as a groom at a riding academy in New York.

After repeated denials it finally became established that John J. Breen, then a groom at Durland's Riding Academy, and Miss Ethel J. Croker, youngest child of Richard Croker, were married on April 28, 1910, in Hoboken, N. J., by Justice Samuel Engler of that city. For days after the marriage Breen continued to deny the many reports.

NEW TRAFFIC SQUAD BILL.

Measure Exempting Men from Platoon Law Is Advanced in Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—Another bill to exempt the Traffic Squad of New York from the provisions of the three-platoon police law was introduced to-day by Senator Ramsperger of Buffalo. This measure was drafted by John W. Griffin, the representative of the State Patrolmen's Association, which successfully pressed the Three-Platoon bill, and it is said to have the approval of the Merchants' Association and Police Commissioner Waldo. The bill provides that the hours prescribed by the three-platoon law shall not apply to the Sergeants or patrolmen of New York who from time to time may be detailed to the Traffic Squad. The limit of the number who may be detailed for such duty is placed at 550.

This bill is preferred by the police to the bill introduced yesterday, which, according to Mr. Griffin, would exempt permanently all now in the Traffic Squad, whether they were assigned to other duty or not. The new bill was advanced out of its order by unanimous consent. Those interested in it asked Gov. Dix if he would send an emergency message to push its passage. While the Governor would not commit himself, it is believed he will not oppose the amendment.

SAYS RACING BILL WILL PASS.

No Lobby at Work to Force It Through, Declares G. C. Reynard.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—Although the legislative leaders are of the opinion that the Gittins Race Track bill will not be considered again at this session, George C. Reynard, Secretary of the Farmers and Merchants' Mutual Association League, which is conducting the State-wide campaign in favor of the measure, gave out a statement to-day in which he declared that the bill is to be passed before adjournment.

"There is not a lobby of any kind anywhere seeking the passage of this bill," he says. "I happen to be the only official of the organization in Albany, and my business has been solely among the business men of the city and not the legislators. In fact, I know very few members of either the Assembly or Senate."

from his study of the Charter with its latest revisions he was convinced that the Charter framers had not fulfilled the pledge to restore the auditing powers of the Controller to what they are under the present Charter.

The situation affecting the Reapportionment bill is not so desperate as that of the Charter bill. It is the opinion here to-night that ultimately the opponents of the present plan will be driven into line. If it comes to the worst, the Democratic leaders believe that they can enlist a sufficient number of Republican votes to make up for any Democratic defection. Opposition to the Reapportionment bill was ordered by the Republican joint caucus held here to-day, but against the advice of Senator Brackett and Assemblyman Merritt, the two Republican leaders of the Legislature, and not until they had gone down to defeat after a spirited fight.

The fact is that on the whole the Republicans are not dissatisfied with the present Democratic reapportionment plan, in which due consideration has been given to the men whose word counts for most in the Republican minority.

There were brief sessions in both the Senate and Assembly, but no important business was transacted in either house. In the Senate there were only three absentees. Senators Wagner, (Dem.;) Hinman, (Rep.,) and Duhamel, (Ind. League.) In the Assembly there were in all about thirty absentees, ten of these Democrats cutting down the Democratic representation to less than the majority required to pass bills.

CLIPS MAYOR'S POWER.

Bill in Repeals Clause in Law Requiring His Approval of Subway Routes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—A bill which, if enacted, would take out of the Rapid Transit act the section which requires the Mayor's approval of rapid transit routes adopted by the Board of Estimate, was introduced to-day by Senator Travis of Brooklyn.

In the lower house Assemblyman Ahearn tried to introduce the bill, but it was excluded under the rules, while in the Senate Senator Travis asked that the bill be advanced out of its order. Senator Timothy D. Sullivan objected, and the measure was referred to the Cities Committee.

The bill repeals the only provision in the Rapid Transit act requiring the separate consent of the Mayor to any action taken in reference to the laying out of subways. It has no relationship to subway franchises or contracts for construction, equipment, or operation of subways.

SCHOOL BOARD'S PROTEST.

Members Think They Should Have the Power to Appoint Their President.

The Board of Education approved yesterday a report of its Committee on By-Laws and Legislation, protesting against the provision of the proposed Charter replacing the present board by a smaller board with a salaried President named by the Mayor.

The committee held that the Charter provision was unreasonable and illogical inasmuch as a body charged with the duty of managing the educational system of the city should be allowed the power vested in every Board of Directors of electing its own presiding officer.

Patrick F. McGowan was excused from voting on the motion to approve the report. He said the Mayor could as easily appoint a Chairman who possesses the necessary qualifications as the board could, and cited the authority of the Governor and the Mayor to appoint the heads of the State and Municipal Civil Service Commissions.

Official Ballot Necessary to Safeguard the Primaries—Legislators Indifferent.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—Gov. Dix to-day brought the Democratic majority of the Legislature face to face with the pledge of the Rochester platform for a Direct Nominations bill, "which in good faith will meet the expectation and demand of the citizens of the State."

He declared that a failure to keep faith with the people "must be regarded as a betrayal of the voters of the State."

In the Assembly, where a Direct Primary bill has already been passed, the message was laid on the table without comment. In the Senate, where the Assembly bill was lost last July, there was considerable debate, and the message was referred to the Judiciary Committee, which still has charge of the original Ferris-Blauvelt Direct Primaries bill to which Gov. Dix is committed.

"Now that the primaries have been held and there will be another regular session of the Legislature before the next primary," Senator Brackett said, "it looks as if the Governor was guilty of handing us the veriest flapdoodle in bringing up direct primaries at this time."

"It is not flapdoodle," Senator Grady replied. "The Governor desires that the members of the Legislature should have an opportunity to put themselves on record before the Fall election. The Legislature itself is responsible for the situation. The Governor has done his duty. He is sincere."

When Senator Grady moved that the message be referred to the Judiciary Committee, Senator Josiah T. Newcomb of New York said he had hoped that the question would be referred to a special committee which would report a non-partisan bill. Later he suggested that the special committee be composed of "two Democrats, two Republicans, and Senator Duhamel."

Senator Duhamel is the lone Independence League member of the Senate.

Senator Bayne assured the Senate that the judiciary would take prompt action on the direct primary question, and on this assurance there was no objection to the motion to commit the message to that committee.

Senator Ferris of Oneida said that there was on the clerk's desk a notice of a motion to discharge the Judiciary Committee from further consideration of the Ferris-Blauvelt bill and he would press the motion if the committee failed to act.

Not a Party Question.

In his message Gov. Dix said:

"A sense of public duty and a realization of a personal obligation to the people of the State impel me to again ask the attention of your honorable body to the importance of enacting at this session a direct nomination bill, which in good faith will meet the expectation and demand of the citizens of the State, irrespective of political affiliation. That there may be no misunderstanding of my position as Chief Executive, I desire to reiterate the statements contained in my message to the Legislature on July 18 last."

The Governor refers to his declaration that it is not a party question, that the Rochester platform pledged the Democratic Party to the principle, and that the Republican platform was hardly less explicit. He said at that time also that members of the State Committee and lesser committees should be the direct choice of the party voters, and that an official ballot is an essential requisite of a direct nomination measure. He then continues:

A Democratic Pledge.

"Primary reform and direct nominations constituted one of the underlying issues of the last State election. The Democratic Party promised a State-wide system of direct primary nominations. Upon a comprehensive and unambiguous pledge the party elected a majority of both branches of the Legislature. The people have a right to demand that the pledge made by the party convention and by individual candidates for the Legislature shall be fully redeemed. A failure to keep faith with the people must be regarded as a betrayal of the voters of the State, while a legislator elected on a direct nomination platform, whether Democrat or Republican, who withholds his support from an adequate and honest direct nomination bill will be open to the charge of repudiating a public duty and a personal and political obligation, and to this charge no explanation can be offered and no defense framed.

"An honest, State-wide system of direct nominations will render a party organization responsible to the party membership, and thereby make representative government representative in fact as well as in theory and name. Under our political system self-government cannot be fully established until the people themselves are given the power to nominate candidates for elective offices.

"The majority party is under peculiar obligation to give to the State a complete measure of direct nominations. There was no ambiguity, or reservation in the promise and pledge upon which the Democratic Party was intrusted with control of the entire State Government. The party will was expressed in the party platform. It was confirmed and indorsed at the polls. There remains now the solemn duty upon party representatives in the Legislature to redeem the party promise and obligation.

Contract with the People.

"The time has passed to question the wisdom of direct nominations. At the last State election all political parties entered into a contract with the people. The people expect that the contract will be carried out to the letter. This just expectation cannot be met by the enactment of a half-way measure that in effect will be a repudiation of the system of State-wide direct nominations promised during the campaign. The people of the State have decreed their demand that the Legislature shall enact and the Governor sign a law which will establish a system of State-wide direct nominations that will place in the hands of the voters complete control of party committees and party nominations. In no other way can the people obtain and maintain control of their government.

"Again I repeat my hope and expectation that, without reference to party divisions or political affiliations, the Legislature at its present session will enact a measure of direct nominations and primary reform which will meet the reasonable and righteous demand of the people of the State of New York."

It was admitted by legislative leaders that the Governor's message revitalized the direct primary problem, but the general belief is that there is no direct primary measure before the Legislature at present on which a majority of both houses can agree.

The Judiciary Committee of the Senate met to-night to consider the Governor's message on direct primaries. It was decided not to report any bill, with the understanding that the question would be brought before the Senate on a motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of any one of the primary bills introduced this year.

35 Cuban Boys Here for Schooling.

On the Royal Mail liner Clyde, which got in yesterday, came thirty-five Cuban boys bound for schools and colleges in New York, Pennsylvania, and New England. On the Clyde also came Daniel S. Iglehart of W. R. Grace & Co., who is on his way to London, and Mr. and Mrs. George de Arteage of Havana, who are on their honeymoon.

$2,500,000 in Postal Banks.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The sum of $2,500,000 was on deposit in the Postal Savings Banks on Aug. 31, according to official estimates. There was an increase of $1,000,000 during August. It is expected that the aggregate of deposits Sept. 30 will be $4,000,000.

CASSIDY FOR GRESSER'S JOB.

But if He Can't Be Borough President He Will Be for Harte.

While Queens Borough was speculating as to his probable successor, Borough President Lawrence Gresser sat yesterday from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon in his private office at the Borough Hall in Long Island City, waiting to receive official notice of his removal from office by Gov. Dix. He was rather a lonely figure, though some friends called to see him. The order not coming, up to 4 o'clock, Mr. Gresser left for home, saying he would return this morning.

Mr. Gresser refused to consider any public business, although several emergency cases were presented to him. He said, however, that he considered himself Borough President until the moment he received his official notice, and he directed Public Works Commissioner Walter H. Bunn to act as President. Bunn attended to the emergency business.

Mr. Gresser refused to comment on his removal, but one of the men close to him said that Mr. Gresser believed that he had done more and better work in the way of public improvements than all his predecessors, and this at prices cheaper than the work had ever been done.

Joseph Cassidy would become Borough President. State Senator Dennis J. Harte, L. C. L. Smith, and Maurice Connelly are most prominently mentioned for Borough President. Cassidy was not at his clubhouse at all yesterday. He had more important business elsewhere. He rushed to Manhattan and had a conference with Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. The men who have been faithful to him during the six years he has been out of office declare that he will be chosen President. That he will be if he can get the necessary votes of the Aldermen no one doubts. It is believed, however, that he will consent to the election of Senator Harte if he cannot be elected himself.

HUNT AHEARN'S ASSAILANT.

Red-Haired Policeman Sought for Breaking Leader's Arm.

Acting upon an order issued by Police Commissioner Waldo, Inspector Sweeney and Capt. Zimmerman of the West 100th Street Station started yesterday an investigation of the row which at the primary election on Tuesday night in front of the polling place at 106th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, resulted in Tammany Leader James Ahearn of the Nineteenth Assembly District receiving a compound fracture of the left arm. Ahearn is still in St. Luke's Hospital, but it was said that he would be able to leave for his home in Plainfield, N. J., in a day or two.

The police were informed that Ahearn was struck by a night stick wielded by a policeman whose only distinguishing mark, up to the present, is that he has red hair. Investigators went through half a dozen station houses looking for such a policeman, and Capt. Zimmerman was questioned regarding the men he had assigned to the polling place. He said he had sent seven men from the West 100th Street Station to the place where the fight occurred and that one of the men, he felt sure, had red hair. This policeman's name was not made public.

Last night Ahearn's followers claimed his election by forty votes. James J. Hines, who disputed the leadership, refused to concede his defeat, however, and a recount will probably be made.

The only other district in which a recount will be necessary is the Thirty-third, Republican, in the Bronx. Edward H. Healy, the regular leader, was defeated on the face of the returns by ten votes, his opponent, Alfred B. Simmonds, polling 532 to Healy's 522. There were forty-six protested ballots in this district, Healy claiming thirty-one and leaving sixteen for Simmonds. If the disputed ballots are allowed, Healy says he will have a majority of five. Healy said he got these returns from the inspectors through his district captains, and he is positive they are correct. As there is no canvass of a primary vote, the ballot boxes will have to be opened by court proceedings.

BANK FIGURES WERE ALTERED

Witness at the Union Bank Inquiry Says a State Report Was Changed.

Special Counsel James C. Cropsey kept after witnesses at the Brooklyn Union Bank inquiry yesterday to learn more about the details of the purchase of the People's Bank in 1906 by David A. Sullivan's bank. The testimony explained how $20,000 in commissions was divided up on that sale, and how George W. Spence, President of the People's Bank, was not allowed to share in the negotiations for the sale because on two occasions he had objected to it. He received, however, $75 as the price of a suit of clothes after the transaction was completed.

Spence testified that Charles J. Samuels, a dealer in metals, acted as broker for the sale, and the bank President paid $19,775 to him. Samuels said he gave $6,500 to Joseph Michaels, a Director in the Union Bank and the same amount to Harry Roth, a member of the Executive Committee of the People's Bank, keeping the other third to himself.

Mr. Cropsey learned more than this by cross-examining the witnesses. It appears that the copy of the agreement for the sale of the People's Bank forwarded to the Banking Department stated that the shares were sold for $370 each. According to the testimony of witnesses, this was not the figure named in the papers when the agreement was signed. Spence testified that he received $395 a share, and that was the price named in the agreement paper. On examining a copy of the paper filed in the Banking Department, he said it had been altered after it was signed.

NEW PENNSYLVANIA SERVICE.

Trains to Run Between Manhattan Transfer and Hudson Terminal.

A through train service between the Hudson Terminal at Church and Cortlandt Streets and Manhattan Transfer, just east of Newark, will be put in operation by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company on Oct. 1, and will end the double changing of cars for passengers going from the Hudson Terminal to points on the main line of the Pennsylvania.

Hudson tunnel trains will pass under the tracks leading into the new Pennsylvania Station and run parallel to these tracks to a point near the Manhattan Transfer westbound platform. Here the tunnel trains will approach the platform over an intervolved track and discharge passengers for Western and Southern points. They will then be run to a switch at Saybrook Place and start back on tracks elevated over the main tracks and be switched to the main eastbound tracks and the eastbound platform of Manhattan Transfer. Here passengers from the through trains can get aboard and be taken directly to the Hudson Terminal.

The connection between the Hudson tunnel tracks and the Pennsylvania tracks and the electrification of the latter has been completed after a year's work. Eventually the tunnel trains will run into Newark. For the present they will serve only the through traffic.

Special steel cars have been constructed for this service. They are narrower than the regulation steel cars, and for this reason the intervolved track had to be built to bring the cars up to the platforms at Manhattan Transfer. The trains will be similar to those running out of the Pennsylvania Station on the Long Island Railroad.

The schedule of trains will be issued to-day or to-morrow. It will show trains from the Hudson Terminal, which will meet all the incoming and outgoing trains on the main line. The time between Hudson Terminal and Manhattan Transfer will be sixteen minutes.

Men's 4.00 Shoes at 2.85

sale to continue today and tomorrow and to be concluded Saturday

¶ The merit of this sale price of 2.85 depends, of course, upon what the regular value of 4.00 means. And that point is easy of solution.

¶ These are the selfsame shoes we sell at 4.00. Or, if we must be exact, these shoes are identical in all respects but price with those we regularly sell at the amount stated.

¶ They are made by a manufacturer prominent for the stability of his products and the good style which he consistently incorporates in his shoes despite the low price at which they are sold. They are durable and shapely, having for their purpose in life both service and style.

¶ A lot of men dropped in to get one or more pairs of these shoes during the first three days of this week, but the selection is still good. All sizes and widths still intact, in all the new Fall models. Included are black calf and gun metal in lace, Blucher or button, single or double soles; Russia calf in lace or Blucher; patent leather in lace or button; and black vici kid in lace only.

TO RUSH DECISION ON LEVY ELECTION LAW

Appellate Division May Pass on It To-day and Send It Up to Court of Appeals.

MANY LAWYERS WRANGLE

Contention That Ballot Is Cumbersome and Fusion Would Be Prevented Is Vigorously Opposed.

The new Levy election law, which was declared unconstitutional by Supreme Court Justice Gavegan, was before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday on an appeal against Justice Gavegan's decision, by the Democratic State Committee and others. After hearing arguments on both sides Justices Ingraham, Dowling, Clarke, Miller, and McLaughlin reserved decision. It is likely that a decision will be handed down to-day in order that the case can be taken at once before the Court of Appeals.

D Cady Herrick appeared on behalf of the Democratic State Committee and associated with him were Frank M. Patterson, R. B. Moffatt, John B. Stanchfield, Bartow S. Weeks, and E. M. Rabenold. Terrence Farley from the Corporation Counsel's office and A. L. Elkus argued the appeal for the Board of Elections. On the other side the New York County Republican Committee was represented by A. S. Gilbert, and H. R. Limburg appeared for John J. Hopper and the Independence League.

Mr. Farley argued that no course of action attacking the law could be maintained until nominations had been made under it. He contended that there could be no doubt of the power of the Legislature to provide a system for the regulation of party machinery.

Mr. Elkus argued that while the motives behind the law might be questioned, it could only be attacked on the ground of constitutionality. Its opponents had worked out an absurdity, he declared, in attempting to show that a ballot would, under the law, be of impracticable dimensions, and that voters would be liable to vote wrong. He thought this could apply only to voters of very little intelligence.

"But we have such voters," remarked Justice Clarke.

"There cannot be any discrimination between parties if the bill makes the same rule for all parties," Mr. Elkus went on. "It has been said that this statute was devised to prevent fusion. It does nothing of the kind. Nothing has been read into it for that purpose. Even if the law is found to be unfair and unreasonable, it cannot be held unconstitutional."

Lawyer Limburg had prepared two sample ballots, one of the old kind and one of the new. The new one, he said, looked like the obelisk in Central Park, and it was about as intelligible. He said the law interfered with the rights of the educated voter as well as the illiterate one. The average voter, he said, looks for a name and not an emblem, and would be sure to go wrong if the name was not at the head of a column.

"The primary purpose of the act," he said, "was doubtless to render impossible successful fusion upon candidates, judicial or otherwise. If the Citizens' Union nominates one candidate whose name appears in the Republican column, one whose name appears in the Democratic column, one in the Independence League, and for the remaining offices candidates who have not been nominated by any other party, it would require four different marks to vote a straight Citizens' Union ticket, while requiring only one mark to vote a straight Democratic, Republican, or Independence League ticket.

"If the Citizens' Union should nominate candidates and a week later the Republican Party should indorse or nominate the same candidates, all of the Citizens' Union candidates would go in the Republican column and the Union would have no candidates under its emblem."

"What does an independent body lose if one party has all its candidates?" inquired Justice Miller. When the lawyer replied that the independents might not care to vote under any other party emblem than its own, Justice Dowling remarked:

"Your idea, Mr. Limburg, is that it is more important to vote for party than for candidates?"

The lawyer replied that that was true. The Justice thereupon wanted to know if any ballot law which makes a man split his ticket was unconstitutional. The lawyer replied that it was not necessarily so, but that the law should not permit a man to vote a straight ticket by making one mark and compel another voter to make twelve marks in order to do the same. Holding up his sample ballot under the new law, Lawyer Limburg asserted that it would mean the elimination of the names of independent bodies making nominations.

"We defy any one," he said, "no matter how well versed in politics or the law, to take that sample ballot and ascertain therefrom what parties and what independent bodies in 1909 nominated William J. Gaynor for Mayor."

Mr. Gilbert insisted that the law violated Section 1 and Article I. of the State Constitution, because it deprived certain citizens of privileges secured to others.

"In the year 1906," he said, "the Democratic Party nominated William R. Hearst for Governor, as did the Independence League. This double nomination under the statute now attacked would place it in the power of Mr. Hearst to eliminate and destroy either one of the parties which put him in nomination. Both of them could not live, because Mr. Hearst could not be the candidate of two parties." The statute, he declared, was intended to disfranchise many voters because of lack of educational advantages.

"Can you call a law unconstitutional on the ground that a large part of the community is ignorant?" inquired Justice Miller.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gilbert, "the law should protect the voters. Laws should be made simple and as open as possible, so that every one can get a square deal."

D Cady Herrick, upholding the constitutionality of the law, quoted from similar statutes in effect, he said, in Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, and other States.

"There is no constitutional provision," he said, "which entitles political parties to party columns, or which insures to political parties, as such, any rights except the right granted to two political parties to have equal representation on election boards. All other rights are the rights of individuals, and are not the rights of political parties.

"The party column is created by legislative enactment, and not by the Constitution. The object of the law of 1911 was to perform the promises contained in the platform of the Democratic Party and the annual message of the Governor as to election reforms. The bill was a Democratic Party measure, the object of which was to carry out Democratic promises, and the contention that its motive is to destroy fusion is absurd."

Mr. Herrick said he did not believe it was a good thing to have fusion in every office, as it often led to corruption.

FLAGG IS INDICTED WITH HIS ASSOCIATES

All of Them Stay Out on Bail Except Neely, Who Can't Raise $10,000.

MISS RUSSE STILL MISSING

Flagg Charges That $12,000 Worth of Securities Disappeared in the Raid —Officials Deny Seeing Them.

Jared Flagg, F. Tennyson Neely and ex-United States Treasurer Daniel N. Morgan, with six of their associates, were indicted yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury for using the United States mails to defraud. The defendants, all of whom, except Neely, were out on bail, had appeared in anticipation of an examination before Commissioner Gilchrist. But soon after they had taken their places the Grand Jury filed into the United States Circuit Court and Commissioner Gilchrist withdrew.

Judge Hough took his seat on the bench and at once called on the foreman of the Grand Jury to hand up the indictment. There was a slight error in its form, but the Judge noted this and the Grand Jury, retiring to its room, made the correction immediately.

The defendants were summoned to plead and after some conversation between counsel and the court it was decided that they should enter a plea of not guilty with leave to withdraw it before Oct. 16. Robert C. Beatty, James F. McIntyre, and Irving Burdick appeared for Flagg, Morgan, Alvin M. Higgins, Joshia Brown, and the Rev. James T. Schock, and Irving E. Ziegler for Henry A. Jackson and Elbridge C. Sewall. Neely has no counsel and is unable to provide any bail.

The bonds of all the defendants were continued, Flagg being held in $25,000, Higgins, Schiller, Neely, Sewall, and Morgan in $10,000 each, and Brown, Schock, and Jackson in $2,500 each. In the case of Brown, as his bondsman could not be present yesterday afternoon, it was arranged that he should be released on his old bonds till Monday, but the others had new bonds signed to cover the indictment.

Madeline Russe, who is alleged to have been Flagg's confidential telephone operator, was not mentioned in the indictment. So far she has not been discovered by the Post Office authorities. It is believed, however, that her whereabouts are known to her relatives and Flagg, and that she will be accessible to all who wish to see her this afternoon in the offices of Mr. McIntyre, Flagg's counsel.

The indictment charges that Flagg and his associates used the mails on Sept. 9 with the intent to defraud Julia E. Wood of 1,740 Mineral Springs Road, Reading, Penn.; Bertha L. Bentley of 133 East South Street, Corry, Penn., and divers other persons. It is alleged that they falsely and fraudulently represented that money intrusted to them would be invested in stocks regularly dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange and the Consolidated Stock Exchange, and that the records of the purchases would show that for a period of four years each of the customers had made profits amounting to more than 50 per cent. on their investments.

It is further charged that Flagg and his associates represented in their correspondence with investors that all profits in excess of 50 per cent. were to be used for their mutual protection. It is also alleged that these representations and pretenses were false, fraudulent, and fictitious, and were made to convert to the use of the defendants the money obtained from the two women named and from other investors.

Flagg complained after the hearing that $12,000 worth of his securities, consisting of stocks and bonds of well-known issues, had disappeared in the raid on his office last Saturday. He is now having their numbers looked up so as to warn brokers against dealing in them. Neither the Post Office authorities nor the District Attorney's office had any knowledge of them, and it was declared that all securities found had been carefully guarded.

Neely, the publisher, who is still confined in the Tombs, issued a statement yesterday declaring his intention of pleading his own case without counsel. He asserted that he was entirely innocent and would be acquitted, and he complained of the large amount of bail, $10,000, which had been asked.

"It ought not to have been more than $1,000," he said. "I could have furnished that."

QUALITY.

THE quality of Smith Gray & Co. clothes is proven and consistent.

Proven by the acid test of more than threescore years and crowned with the ever increasing approval of three generations of better dressed New York.

The quality is consistent in that it dominates alike every operation from the selection of the fabric to the pressing of the finished garment; consistent in the styling, consistent in that the base, the inside of every garment is just alike regardless of the selling price; in that the exacting, painstaking care given every garment is identical in that every garment is made in the same shop by the same workmen in just the same way.

In other garments you may and often do find quality in spots; good fabrics here, good styling there, good workmanship in part in another place, but in no other clothes than Smith Gray & Co. clothes will you find quality so everywhere dominant, so all prevailing.

Which is but another reason why Smith Gray & Co. clothes are the clothes of the discerning; why they are the better clothes for you.

Smith Gray & Co. Suits and Overcoats for Fall and Winter range in price from 18.00 to 50.00

Thousands of 20.00, 22.50 & 25.00 Standard Value Suits & Fall Coats, 15.50 & 18.50

HERE in quantity in complete assortment is combined quality and value to an extent impossible outside the Smith Gray & Co. stores or organization.

For these garments are part and parcel of a merchandising policy based on a scientific scheme of production and sale that has as its underlying principle the development of the demand for Smith Gray & Co. clothes to a magnitude that will make for minimum cost and the realization that the attainment of this result hinges doubly on the creation of extreme value.

Planned by the thousands, with the advantages of all the cumulative economies of production possible to an organization three generations old, working under a reduction in overhead charges of fifty per cent.—here is a value non-existent and impossible under any other conditions than those obtaining in the Smith Gray & Co. plant—a value that by all accepted standards is excellent at 20.00, 22.50 and 25.00. There are models and sizes for men, young men and boys.

At 15.50 there are black, Oxford and smart mixture Fall coatings.

At 15.50 there are excellent cassimere and worsted cheviot suitings in the new browns, olives, grays and neat mixtures.

At 18.50 there are silk-lined Fall Coats in black, Oxford, new grays, new olives, new browns, in plain, stripe and wale weaves.

At 18.50 there are Suits of fine English finished velour, stripe blue serge, worsteds and cassimeres, exclusive and special styles, in new browns, tans, grays, blues and neat mixtures. English soft roll and many other distinctive models.

The Paris Fashions of the Moment—

That is the keynote of the displays in each of the five beautiful Salons of this establishment, devoted exclusively to Outer Dress for Women, Misses and Juniors—

One may select her apparel here with the fullest assurance that she is obtaining the identical styles which are being worn this season by the smart Parisienne—for almost every steamer is bringing to us its quota of charming new creations direct from the prominent ateliers of the French capital.

In addition to the original Paris models, we have many adaptations of late foreign styles modified to suit the more conservative tastes of those women who do not favor the ultra-fashionable.

The selection as a whole is therefore extremely diversified, embracing Plain and Demi-tailored Suits in a great range of new models, materials and colorings; smart Trotting Frocks in every fashionable style and material. The Paris Gowns, Dresses and Wraps and the new French Blouses are shown in equal variety.

The Salon on the fourth floor is a veritable gallery of Paris Millinery, with its exquisite Hats for every occasion from the noted modistes of abroad.

Furs in the newest European models are displayed on the main floor, every fashionable Fur being represented by Coats, Scarfs, Muffs and Sets of irreproachable character.

Our prices are uniformly sensible—we urge a comparison of our values.

THE
Perpetual Pioneer

The No. 10 and No. 11 Visible Remington Models are the latest expressions of Remington leadership. They represent the sum total of all typewriter achievement—past and present.

They contain every merit that the Remington has always had and every merit that any writing machine has ever had.

They contain, in addition, new and fundamental improvements that no typewriter has ever had; among them the First Column Selector, the First Built-in Tabulator and the First Key-Set Tabulator. The Model 11 with Wahl Mechanism is also the First Adding and Subtracting Typewriter. These improvements are the latest contributions to typewriter progress, and they are Remington contributions—every one.

The Remington, the original pioneer in the typewriter field, is the present day pioneer in all new developments of the writing machine.

WANT SINGLE BUREAU FOR STREET PAVING

Borough Control of Streets Has Made Ours Worst in the World, Business Men Say.

MAYOR TO CONSIDER PLAN

Unified System Would Mean Cheaper and Better Work, It Is Said—City Asphalt Plant Favored by Report.

A delegation representing the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association, Board of Trade and Transportation, and Automobile Club of America called yesterday on Mayor Gaynor and, after declaring that the pavements of this city were in an intolerable condition, worse, in fact, than the paving of any great city in the world, urged him to take the matter of paving from the Borough Presidents and put it in a separate department under the control of the Mayor, to be run in the same manner as the Police and Fire Departments.

This suggestion seemed to appeal to the Mayor, for he asked the delegation to appoint a committee of three to confer with him on the appointment of one of twenty-five to consider the matter.

"No harm can come from considering this," said the Mayor, "and some good might."

The wholesale denunciation of the condition of the streets was contained in the report of a joint committee representing the organizations named. It said:

> This joint committee recommends that the business of paving be taken away from the authorities of the five boroughs and be placed under the control of the Mayor of Greater New York, the same as the Police, the Fire and the Street Cleaning Departments.
> We do not think it necessary to offer any proof that the paving in the Greater New York is bad; it is worse than the paving of any great city in the world. We believe there is no fair-minded person that will attempt to argue this statement.

Half a dozen reasons are offered for the bad pavements, and the report recommends that the city own and operate its own asphalt plant, and that no contract providing for maintenance for a longer term than one year be made with paving companies. The report says that longer guaranties mean that the price immensely increases and that the city only indifferently enforces the contract. Other reasons for present conditions are thus set forth:

> The putting down of sheet asphalt over Belgian block, which is an improper foundation.
>
> The necessity for pulling up the pavements to get at the means of supply of water, gas, electricity, steam, telephone, and for sewerage purposes.
>
> The granting of permits for opening the pavement. Such permits are granted without proper restrictions, the work is not properly watched, and it is frequently months before the person or corporation getting the permit replaces the pavement.
>
> The habit of the Commissioner of Public Works in Manhattan and in other boroughs of not repairing asphalt in the Winter and allowing holes to grow, like mushrooms in the night, and then in the Spring of having the asphalt companies set every steam roller they have at work repairing holes.

Each of the boroughs, it is noted, has its own Commissioner of Public Works, and after calling attention to the fact that with "perhaps one exception," none have had any training in paving, and are not fitted for the work, it is said:

> Each Borough President, each Commissioner of Public Works and their engineers have different ideas as to what kind of pavement to use and as to the best method of keeping it in repair. Each borough experiments with a different method of paving and of repair.
>
> Politics, the keeping of inefficient men in office, the employing of men from the civil service list, which is mandatory, who are not trained to the work, all make for inefficiency and add to the muddling work done by the existing departments having control of the paving in the five boroughs.

Regarding the city having its own asphalt plant, the report says:

> Such a plant would be an excellent weapon to hold over the asphalt companies in securing a lower price and in enabling the city to make repairs at their expense when they fail to do so.

These are other suggestions made in the report:

> Where there is much trucking, this committee would recommend a small stone block, like the pavements of Liverpool. Where absence of noise is desirable, this committee would recommend a wooden pavement, except on grades.
>
> For the balance of the Borough of Manhattan this committee recommends an asphalt pavement, but it believes there are several kinds of asphalt pavement which give better results than sheet asphalt, viz.: block asphalt and rock asphalt.
>
> Asphalt should be laid on a well-built, well-consolidated, even foundation of concrete, and the old pavement on Belgian blocks should be done away with as rapidly as possible.

Regarding the placing of the paving under the control of the Mayor the report says:

> The advantage of doing this would be that the paving of the whole city would be under one head, there would be one policy with regard to new construction and repairs. The disadvantage is that it would not please the politician, nor the man who wants a soft job with little work and big pay.

Borough President McAneny was present at the hearing, at the request of the Mayor, and said that he did not think the plan suggested was a good one. After the report was read the Mayor said:

"In closing this meeting I desire to say that I regret that I did not have all the Borough Presidents here. It was an inadvertence on my part, but the notice was so short that probably I am excusable. I also want to thank this committee for the exceedingly temperate and sensible way in which it presented this matter. I have seen so much intemperance of speech and conduct here of late by people who ought to know better, that it is really pleasant to me to have a body of citizens come here and speak as you have, with an attack on nobody, but simply a discussion of facts just as they are.

"About appointing your committee of twenty-five, I shall be very glad to have you appoint a committee of three from among yourselves, and I will confer with them about that matter and make up the committee as early as possible. It certainly can do no harm and may do much good.

"I have thought myself for a long time that the Building Department and the streets ought to be each under one head, but I give way pretty easily to the opinion of others, and have not felt inclined to try to force my ideas on other people in that respect. I have so often found myself to be wrong and other people to be right that I have not much pride of opinion unless it comes down to some moral or essential question."

The committee was composed of Albert R. Shattuck, Chairman; John C. Eames, William H. Gibson, James C. Bloss, Col. John Jacob Astor, William G. McAdoo, Thomas Dimond, and William H. Page.

SUES THE CITY FOR $1,900.

Prof. Larkin Says He Earned It Helping to Convict Murderer Wolter.

Prof. John H. Larkin of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University has brought suit in the Supreme Court against the city to recover $1,900, which he says is a just fee for his his work in connection with the prosecution of Albert A. Wolter for the killing of Ruth Wheeler.

Dr. Larkin says that at the request of the District Attorney he performed some pathological examinations in this case, and that he rendered his bill for $1,900, carefully itemized. This the Controller has refused to pay.

Some of the items in the bill are $50 for rabbits, their care and maintenance from March 19 to April 19, for a serum test; $250 for immunizing rabbits five times for blood tests; $100 for bleeding rabbits to obtain anti-human serum, and the same amount for his examination of the murdered girl's body; $400 for blood tests at $25 an hour; $150 for tests of handkerchiefs and clothing, and $200 for two days spent in court.

ROBIN DISPUTES ALL CLAIMS.

Tries to Prove Before Bankruptcy Referee That Entries Were Changed.

Joseph G. Robin, the convicted banker, continued his examination of witnesses when the bankruptcy proceedings brought against him were resumed yesterday in the offices of Stanley W. Dexter, referee, at 71 Broadway.

Robin asserted that $500,000 of the $700,000 debts which appear against his personal account should be charged to the Bankers' Realty and Security Company. Through Frederick W. Morris, his former secretary, he attempted to prove this.

"I am attempting to show," explained Robin to the referee, "that the witness has changed entries with the purpose of charging a large number of accounts to me which should be debited to other persons and firms."

"I would like to put an explanation on the record," said Attorney Roswell Nichols of the firm of Rollins & Rollins, former attorneys of record in the case, but now representing the petitioning creditors. "Every change made on that book by Mr. Morris was made to enable bankruptcy schedules to be made up, and all changes so made were known to Rollins & Rollins."

"I want to kill two birds with one stone," said Robin, "disprove these claims, and destroy the credibility of this witness."

"How many claims do you intend to disprove?" asked Referee Dexter.

"All of them," replied Robin.

"Those who have made prima facie proof of claims?"

"Yes; all of them."

The creditors who have proved prima facie claims are the Carnegie Trust Company, the Bankers' Realty and Security Company, the Washington Savings Bank, the Northern Bank, and George T. Chapin.

FIGHTS DISMISSAL OF SUIT.

Dr. Tannenbaum Wants to Show He Didn't Break Up Schafran's Home.

Dr. Julius Tannenbaum, a Captain in the Twelfth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., through his attorney, Milton J. Gordon, vigorously opposed yesterday a motion before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton for the dismissal of a $50,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by Isidor Schafran, a wealthy clothier, who asserted that Dr. Tannenbaum was responsible for the marital troubles which culminated in his wife's suing him for divorce.

"Your Honor," declared Mr. Gordon, "Dr. Tannenbaum has been humiliated by the charges that have been brought against him, and has been injured socially and in a professional sense. He demands an opportunity of disproving these allegations."

Justice Pendleton said he had no power to refuse a dismissal, but he held up his order pending a settlement of costs.

Mrs. Schafran is an actress known on the stage as Hattie Henschel. She is now rehearsing with the "Gypsy Love" company. She charges her husband with misconduct with a woman named "Jane" at Far Rockaway in 1908, Schafran denying her charges.

While the Schafrans were fighting in the courts a few months ago for possession of their child, testimony was given that the physician and Mrs. Schafran had kissed each other.

FIRST CONVICTION UNDER WEAPON LAW

Judge Foster Gives Marino Rossi One Year for Arming Himself Against Black Handers.

AN HONEST WORKING MAN

Explained That He Was Carrying a Revolver Because He Was In Fear of His Life.

The first man to be sentenced to Sing Sing under the new Sullivan act, which makes it a felony for any person to carry a revolver concealed on his person, was Marino Rossi of Newark, N. J., who was arrested on Sept. 8 for carrying a revolver in his pocket. He was sentenced to one year in Sing Sing by Judge Foster in General Sessions, the Judge making severe remarks about pistol carrying.

At the time of his arrest Rossi was on his way to New Haven to take a job in that city. He was arrested at Twenty-eighth Street and Sixth Avenue by a Headquarters detective, Picco, who noticed a .38 calibre revolver protruding from his hip pocket. Rossi explained that he was carrying the gun from fear of the Black Hand, and that his friends had warned him to do so in this city. He said that he was in fear of his life. He had no intention of using it wrongfully, and he was an honest working man and desired to know why it was that Black Handers were not arrested for carrying guns as well as law-abiding people.

"You are the first one to be sentenced under the so-called Sullivan law," said Judge Foster solemnly. "The Legislature of this State has made it a felony to carry concealed weapons about the person. You say you have had this gun for two years, and that it was the custom of yourself as well as your countrymen to carry guns. You say you did not realize that you were breaking the law in so doing.

"It is unfortunate that this is the custom with you and your kind, and that fact, combined with your irascible nature, furnishes much of the criminal business in this country. I must enforce this law and impose sentence to warn every one that this carrying of revolvers must stop. As I have remarked before, the man who carries a gun always gets the worst of it, and the records of this court substantiate my statement.

"I and my colleagues on the bench intend to stamp out this habit, and with this end in view it is our object to let the community know that the violators of the Sullivan law are going to be severely punished."

Gustav A. Kessler, a night watchman, was also up for sentence after he had been found guilty of violating the Sullivan act. He failed to get a permit. His defense was that he had to work late at night in a dangerous part of the city, and wanted a revolver for protection against gangsters. He said he did not get a permit because he did not feel that he could spare $10 of his small wages to carry a $5 revolver. Judge Foster put his case over to Friday, when he will sentence him, saying:

"It is just such unauthorized carrying of firearms which is most fruitful of crimes. I will remand you to the Tombs until Friday to decide upon what course I shall take in regard to your case. In the meantime my opinion is that justice requires that severe punishment should be meted out to you in order that the community may realize that the carrying of a concealed gun is illegal unless carried with a permit. I have discussed this with the District Attorney and am undecided."

NEW LIBRARY INSPECTED.

State Librarians Visit It and Get Some Figures from Dr. Billings.

Yesterday's sessions of the New York State Library Association were held at the new library, Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street, and at City College. It was the biggest day of the annual conference, which began on Monday. The speakers included such well-known librarians as Dr. John S. Billings, Dr. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress; H. G. Wodlin, Librarian of the Boston Public Library; Prof. Andrew J. Keogh of Yale University, and Walter D. Briggs, Librarian of Trinity College. About three hundred attended the meetings.

The new library was the most interesting study for the visitors. They were shown all over the building by Assistant Director Anderson, after listening to a history and description of the New York Public Library system. Dr. Billings said that the library cost $450,000 a year to run and that the city paid an equal amount as interest at 5 per cent. on the cost of the new building. There are now 337 persons employed in the reference department and 580 in the circulation department. A physician has recently been added to the staff to look after the health of the employes.

In the afternoon the meeting was held in the Doremus Theatre at City College, and President Finley was the principal speaker. He said that if Maeterlinck were symbolizing the librarians' craft he would present one bearing aloft a section of a card catalogue and not a spectacled old man looking through dusty tomes. Solomon, if he lived to-day, would be quite helpless, with all his wisdom, unless he could use the card catalogue.

At the conclusion of the session, Prof. Samuel A. Baldwin gave an organ recital. To-day's meeting will be held at New York and Columbia Universities.

The Special Libraries Association held two sessions at the Engineering Societies Building.

COLUMBIA BEGINS ITS 158TH YEAR

Underclassmen Struggling with a Hose Playing on Them One Sign That College Is In.

WAR HALTS TO HEAR ADVICE

Director Robinson of the Art Museum and President Butler Speak to the Newcomers.

Columbia University began its one hundred and fifty-eighth academic year yesterday with a large entering class. Exercises were held in the big university gymnasium, but the real indication that college was open was the hostilities between the freshmen and sophomores. There was little of the old-time fighting, however, the nearest thing to a battle being an organized tug of war on South Field which provided merriment for hundreds of spectators.

The sophomores won two out of three heats in the tug of war. An innovation interesting for the onlookers was a hose which a member of the Student Board played on the struggling contestants. Several of the spectators, who out of sympathy for the freshmen tried conclusions with the hose operator, were rewarded with highly saturated exteriors. But besides the tug of war there were many exhibitions of under-class rivalry. Early in the day the sophomores rounded up a small band of freshmen, and the newcomers were gently boosted to the top of the library foundations. One freshman was forced to perch on the spout. Then the sophomores scurried around trying to turn on the water, but the authorities had discreetly forestalled them in this step, and so the freshmen had to be released after being photographed.

There were sporadic little spats throughout the day whenever a freshman refused to be hazed. There is a promise of real bodily contact when the freshmen meet the sophomores in a pushball contest on South Field this afternoon.

The hatchet was buried long enough to allow the opening exercises to proceed without interruption. Edward Robinson, Director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, delivered the address of the day, speaking on "The Relation of the University to Fine Arts." He made a plea for a wider interest in the fine arts as a step toward the encouragement and development of true culture.

President Nicholas Murray Butler, just back from Europe, welcomed the entering students and made a plea for scholastic learning as opposed to the materialistic tendencies of the age.

With the beginning of the new year there are several important additions to the Faculty. Charles S. Baldwin comes from Yale to be a Professor of English. A new chair of Highway Engineering, recently endowed, will be filled by Prof. Arthur H. Blanchard of Brown University. France sends to the Columbia Faculty Profs. Gustav Lanson and Jacques Hadamard. On the James S. Carpentier Foundation, of which David Jayne Hill was lecturer last year, the incumbent this Fall will be the Right Hon. Sir Frederick Pollock of Oxford, a well-known authority on common law. His lectures, which begin next Monday afternoon, will be on "The Genius of the Common Law." The Kaiser Wilhelm Professor at Columbia for 1911-12 is Prof. Josef Schick of the University of Munich. The additions bring the Columbia teaching staff up to 745.

Students who have been in the habit of enjoying between-lecture smokes in the halls of the university building found notices posted prohibiting smoking in all parts of the library building and in all lecture rooms, laboratories, and staterooms, and also in all halls, lavatories, corridors, and stairways above the basement in all other university buildings, except Earl Hall, the Faculty Club, the commons, and the residence halls. The new order will strike hardest among the men who work in the laboratories.

Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen

The very life of a gold pen lies in its TEMPER, in the small space between the point and the little heart-shaped opening.

There it is that the necessity for experience comes in, coupled with keen judgment, in the skilful tempering of this most vital part of the Gold Pens in Waterman's Ideals.

The difference between a Waterman's Ideal and the other kinds of pens, is just the difference between ordinary, unthinking, machine work and the rare combination of active brain, experience, judgment and skilful hand.

Every pen that bears the name "Waterman's Ideal" has passed through the hands of a master workman. Every pen, therefore, with this famous name is the product of scientific knowledge and skilled labor.

There is a volume of reasons for pen superiority.

THE "FRENCH WILTON" GRADE
Real Value in Domestic Rugs

9x12 feet
$34.48
Instead of

The weave in the French Wilton Grade Rug has made it one of the most desirable, because it is the most durable as well as the most beautiful Wilton rug manufactured.

French Wiltons must not be confused with ordinary Wiltons, such as are featured largely all over the city in special sales at seemingly low prices. As everybody knows, or should know, there are Wiltons and "Wiltons." Some "Wiltons" are not at all desirable. They are coarse in weave and material, and for this reason cannot be trusted to wear. Those qualities, of course, fall far short of the regular Macy standard.

We have purchased a prominent manufacturer's entire surplus stock of high grade French Wilton weave rugs, absolutely standard make. The rugs are remarkable for color and pattern. They are in Oriental and small all-over effects, beautiful in design and color; adaptable for any room in the house. One size only; all absolutely perfect.

A Display of Women's SUITS That Illustrates the Superiority Of Gimbel Tailor-mades

Models by Poiret, Bernard, Francis and Other Parisian Designers Reproduced Especially for Us by the Best American Tailors

Ten styles at $25—Twelve styles at $35, and many other styles up to $125.

Realizing that the tailor-made is the most indispensable costume in a woman's Fall and Winter wardrobe, we have assembled an extremely large collection of suits. And it is a distinctive assemblage.

So that women of every taste may have the opportunity of selecting the type of suit that they may prefer, we selected the best models of all the great Parisian designers—as each one has a different conception of the tailor-made.

Prices are unique! It matters not to us whether a model may be by Bernard or by Poiret—if it has a certain distinctiveness—we are perfectly willing to reproduce it so that the woman of moderate means may also enjoy its good style. That we have succeeded in doing this will be quite evident when you inspect these suits at $25, $35, $45, and other prices up to $125.

Some styles are the smart trotteur type, others are beautifully trimmed with braids, satin, broadcloth, moire, and fringe. Materials are the best qualities of diagonal cheviot, homespun, boucle cloth, velvet, velveteen, and corduroy. And all the linings, satin or peau de cygne, are guaranteed. Third floor

Two Important Collections of Furs
Hudson Seal Coats, $130 to $425
Caracul Coats, $45 to $325

A Caracul Coat of quality at $45 seems like an absurdity. But it is a reality at Gimbels because we purchased the skins for these coats months ago. By so doing we had the advantage of a lower price market, and also of selecting choice skins. This is why we believe these Coats are unequaled.

At Gimbels it matters not whether the price of a Fur Coat is $45, $425, or $1500, the same guarantee of quality stands back of every garment.

STOCK MARKET WILD AT OPENING HOUR

Overnight Gain and Heavy Orders Put 300 Floor Brokers in a Frantic Struggle.

PRICES ON A WIDE RANGE

Steel at 59½ to 62 at the Same Moment—Ups and Downs and Little Change on the Day—Big Break in Wabash Bonds.

Following the announcement of the Steel Corporation that it would resist dissolution, the stock market yesterday had its biggest day's trading since the first "silent panic" of March 15, 1907, and prices pursued an erratic course, seesawing back and forth, after a big overnight gain, and eventually closing, except in the case of a few of the railroad issues, only fractionally changed from the last prices of Tuesday.

Interest naturally centred in the stock of the United States Steel Corporation. Many speculators were up when the first editions of the morning papers came off the press to cable orders to London, and buying orders flowed into New York offices, too, in the early morning. Long before the Exchange opened brokers were laying plans for a heavy day.

When trading opened on the floor there was a mob of perhaps 300 trying to get to the centre. It became a shouting, fighting mob at the stroke of the bell, and for the first few minutes of trading surged back and forth in the struggles of buyers or sellers to get to the forefront, clearing traders in inactive stocks from the path.

Market Wild and Wide.

It was impossible for the first few minutes to tell what was going on in different parts occupied by the excited crowd, and the result was one of the "widest" openings ever recorded on the Exchange. The tape reported the first transactions in Steel common as 38,000 shares "from 59½ to 62," an advance of 5⅛ points from Tuesday's close. In an hour's transactions this stock alone had totaled nearly 340,000 shares, a record never exceeded.

Although the heavy buying orders which had accumulated in the brokers' offices before the opening were a plain index of popular belief that the market was going up on the Morgan-Gary statement, those who bought "at the market" had small chance to get profits. At 62, the price reached at the opening, Steel was at its highest level of the day.

From 62 the price sold off in fractions to 61, and on a score of transactions got down to 60. By noon it had declined to 59⅛. In the morning there had been weakness in a number of the railroad issues and some of the copper stocks, and during the noon hour what had been a sagging market except for the overnight rise became once more a triumph for the bears.

Break in Wabash.

Interest was focused on a break in the Wabash refunding 4 per cent. bonds, which, after opening at 57½, dropped to 47. This decline of over 10 points occurred between noon and 2 o'clock. The bonds then rallied to 52⅛ and closed at 51¾, the net loss being 5⅝ points. During the sharpest break there were $316,000 in par value of the bonds sold, and the total transactions were $1,039,000. It was reported on the floor that the selling had represented the closing out of a loan of $200,000.

When the heaviest downward movement was in full swing, about 2 o'clock, there were such declines from the morning's high levels as 4½ points in Northern Pacific, 4 in Union Pacific, 3¼ in Reading, 5 in Wabash preferred, 3 in Amalgamated, and 3 in Atchison.

Recoveries in the last hour so evened things up in many stocks that they were very little changed from the last prices of the previous day. Some of the exceptions were Reading, which was down 2½ points; Union Pacific, which was down 2 points; Northern Pacific, which was down 2 points, and Wabash preferred, which was down 3½ points. The day's sales totaled 1,683,729 shares, which was the largest day's trading since March 15, 1907, when the total was 1,753,133 shares.

Congressional Inquiry to Go On.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—"The Steel Trust Investigating Committee will proceed to carry out its programme notwithstanding the assurance of Judge Gary and J. P. Morgan that the law has not been violated," said Representative Stanley of Kentucky, Chairman of the House Committee, to-day.

Mr. Stanley declined to comment further upon the statement issued by the United States Steel Corporation officials yesterday, because as head of the investigating committee he felt that he occupied a quasi-judicial position. The committee will meet about the first week in November, said Mr. Stanley, and its work, carried on with a great deal of general interest during the extra session, will be continued with the heads of the Steel Corporation as prospective witnesses.

RIVALS PRAISE STEEL TRUST.

Fair in Its Dealings with Them, Independent Concerns Say.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Men in the steel business in Cleveland asserted emphatically to-day that the methods of the United States Steel Corporation, instead of hampering and retarding, had furthered the industry by inviting and fostering competition, and that the relations and dealings between the independents and the corporation have always been and are mutually beneficial.

"We have never had fault of any kind to find with the United States Steel Corporation," said P. F. Bourne, President of the Bourne-Fuller Company, independent manufacturers of steel and iron. "Our dealings with that organization have always been characterized by a marked spirit of fairness and legitimacy. Instead of attempting to restrain the steel trade or to monopolize the industry, the contrary is true of United States Steel."

Similarly favorable was the opinion of Price McKinney of Corrigan, McKinney & Co., (independent,) Perry Payne Building.

"We sell ore to the Steel Corporation," said he, "and if their methods were not absolutely fair we would not deal with them. The corporation has never attempted to interfere in any way with our interests, and has always done business with us in an open and above-board manner."

Rather than a menace to the public, the Steel Corporation has been and is a benefit, according to George Bartol, General Manager of the Otis Steel Company, (independent.)

"There has been no attempt to control the market, no unreasonable or unjustifiable cutting of prices, nor has there been any effort to control the industry or to eliminate competition," said Mr. Bartol.

"There never has been the slightest attempt on the part of the Steel Corporation to hamper or retard or block those outside it. The corporation makes about 60 per cent. of steel in the United States. The independent interests are getting their share of the business and are satisfied."

MISS SEARS TURNS RUNAWAY.

Swerves Animal from Bolting Among Spectators at Lawn Tennis Match.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 27.—The successful effort of Miss Eleanora Sears of this city to turn a runaway horse away from the seats where a fashionable gallery was watching the matches overshadowed interest in the play to-day in the third round of the annual woman's lawn tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club.

The animal, attached to a delivery wagon, became frightened and broke through the fence at one side of the courts. It headed direct for the crowd. Miss Sears, who was in the midst of her match with Miss Edith Rotch of Boston, ran and sought the horse's bridle. She failed to grasp it, but her movements made the horse swerve from his course and return to the road. Dashing between two trees, the animal freed itself from the harness and ran down the street, where it was captured shortly afterward.

Miss Sears calmly resumed play, losing her match after three hard sets to Miss Edith Rotch of Boston.

Miss Hazel Hotchkiss of Berkeley, Cal., the National woman champion, won from Miss Hilda Williams of Boston, 6—0, 6—1.

WILES OF BEGGARS PAY WELL, SHE SAYS

Woman Mendicant Tells How She Employed a Crippled Hand to Get Alms.

HAD ROUTES MARKED OUT

A Man Companion, She Asserts, Kept Her in Terror of Her Life and Took All the Money.

Systematic begging along any prominent city street, with the aid of any of the professional wiles, will net $3 to $5 a day without difficulty, according to a woman mendicant now held for trial in the Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn. Her case has attracted the attention of the charity authorities because of the circumstances under which she alleges she was forced to go into the streets and beg.

The woman is Isabella Lockie, 30 years old, of a family once prominent in Baltimore. Her face is pallid with years of toil, but her deep brown eyes bespeak truthfulness and her manner and expression show traces of inherent refinement. Her left hand, contorted with paralysis, hangs limp at her side, and only a part of the palm, large enough to hold a few pennies, is visible. Her entire left side, in fact, is paralyzed.

John Godfrey, mendicant agent of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charity, saw the woman begging in Flushing Avenue on Tuesday. He watched her going from saloon to saloon. He followed her for an hour and saw a short, heavy-set German approach her and take all her money from her. Then he saw her take up her station on a street corner while the German took a stand half a block away, watching the woman every second. Godfrey telephoned to Police Headquarters, and both the woman and man were arrested. The man said he was Robert A. Schubert and gave the same address as the woman, 269 Adams Street, but denied that she was his wife. They were locked up, charged with mendicancy.

Just before being arraigned before Magistrate Harris in the Adams Street Court on Tuesday, Probation Officer Anna I. Connelly called the woman into her private office, and after hearing her story advised her to make a charge of assault against Schubert. She did so when arraigned, and Magistrate Harris held the man in $1,000 bail. The woman was held in smaller bail and her case will be heard to-morrow.

When the two prisoners were sent back to their cells Schubert, according to Miss Connelly, threatened the woman with whom he had lived as his wife, saying that he would "get her" when he got out. The frail woman begged Miss Connelly to protect her, and when the prisoners were taken to the Raymond Street jail they were placed as far apart as possible.

"I was born in Baltimore," said the woman yesterday. "My mother died when I was very young and then when I was 3 my left side was paralyzed. My father placed me in a home and the family scattered. My father and two brothers are now living in New York, but I haven't seen them or heard from them for many years. They are prosperous, I think.

"When I grew to be a young woman I left the home and went out as a servant for some time, but my paralyzed hand and foot interfered and life was miserable for me. I drifted to New York and then I met that man. That was five years ago. He has had me under his influence ever since. When he looks at me I get so frightened that I just do anything, he says. I have been his slave. Often I have stood with my face against the wall thinking every moment that my end had come.

"He made me beg. I had never done such a thing before. He kept a notebook with streets marked in it. We worked Hoboken, Newark, Jersey City, Manhattan, and Brooklyn. A route for the day was always mapped out ahead. We had planned to save the department stores along Fulton Street for the holidays.

"In Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue I could easily make $3 a day. During the holidays it was better than that. I only had to show my crippled hand and the people would drop their money into it."

SABELLA SHIELDS SON'S KIDNAPPERS

Police Say He Paid Ransom for Boy Found in Street and Refuses to Aid Them.

NOT GIVING UP THE CASE

But All They Have to Work On Is the Lad's Tale of a "Big, Dark Man" and of Escaping from a Flat.

In the circumstances of the return early yesterday morning of Vincenzo Sabella, son of Vincenzo Sabella, an Elizabeth Street merchant, the police see again the difficulties under which they labor in trying to put an end to kidnapping and blackmailing, which goes on unceasingly in the Italian colonies of this city.

They say that the elder Sabella paid the ransom demanded for the boy and refuses to treat with the police or even to see privately special detectives of his own race assigned to the case. He will not allow the detectives to see the boy. From the day he reported the disappearance of his son, nearly a month after its occurrence, the police say, he has steadfastly refused to aid the detectives in the hunt for either the boy or the kidnappers.

Young Sabella was picked up late on Tuesday night near the Lee Avenue Station in Williamsburg. The father was notified, and, without any expression of surprise, got the boy and took him home.

Soon after his arrival at his store, 165 Elizabeth Street, Detective John Casetti, who was assigned by Inspector Hughes to lead the search for boy and kidnappers when the case was first reported, called on him. Sabella was in his office, surrounded by several friends.

"I wish to see you alone," said the detective.

"What do you want?" demanded Sabella. "What you have got to say you can say it here. Go on; what is it?"

Detective Casetti in forcible Italian expressed his opinion.

"You have found your boy, then?" continued the detective, when Sabella refused to be drawn out by his visitor's caustic remarks.

"Yes, I have," and Sabella let the detective understand that the conversation was at an end.

Casetti's efforts to see the boy failed entirely, but Policeman Jerrett of the Lee Avenue Station, Brooklyn, who found Vincenzo, had a chance to question the boy briefly. The lad said that a "big, dark man" took him away from in front of his father's store. They went on a long ride, whether in the elevated train or surface cars he doesn't recall. He was taken to a flat, the location of which he said he didn't know, and rarely after that saw the man who had stolen him.

The boy tells a story of having run away from this house. He said he had been allowed to walk on the street in front of the house alone, and after getting out of sight of the house had taken a car. After a long ride, he got off and walked about until he attracted the policeman's attention.

"There is not the slightest doubt," said Detective Casetti, "that Sabella paid the money demanded by the kidnappers. There is no doubt, either, that it was some of the gang who beat him up the other night in a Fourteenth Street place, to which he had gone to meet them. He didn't carry enough money with him, probably, and they gave him a beating to let him see what would happen to him if he broke off negotiations or failed to yield fully to their demands."

Detective Casetti added that the police were far from being disposed to drop the case, and intended to see the boy somehow and get every clue they could.

The Facts in the Sugar Situation

THE American Sugar Refining Company, which refines 42 per cent. of the sugar used in the United States, realizes that the advance in the price of sugar is of deep concern to every consumer. Pursuant to the policy of its present management, as announced in its annual report of January 12, 1910, it recognizes "the legitimate interest which the public has in a business organization which deals in a necessity of life" and desires to state the facts which have caused the advance and its own policy in connection therewith.

World's raw sugars short

The crop just harvested in Cuba shows a shortage of about 300,000 tons from the previous crop, a direct loss in our supplies, as these sugars come to the United States almost exclusively.

Long-continued heat and drought in Europe, corresponding closely to the untoward Summer weather conditions in this country, have so seriously impaired the growing beet sugar crops of France, Germany and Austria that estimates indicate a reduction of 1,500,000 tons or more—over one-fifth—in the supplies of Europe.

This threatened scarcity has caused excessive speculation in Europe and has advanced the sugar prices at London and Hamburg—the leading sugar markets of the world—1¾ cents per pound since June 15, while growers of cane sugar, in the face of an anxious demand and a certain shortage in the beet product, have similarly advanced the price of their product over 2 cents per pound in the same period.

We produce no raw sugar

The American Sugar Refining Company does not own an acre of cane sugar land, nor does it produce a pound of raw sugar; it depends for its supplies of raw sugar upon the growers of Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines, Hawaii, Java and other sugar countries.

It has, in common with all other refiners at home and abroad, been compelled to secure its supplies from these sources at constantly advancing prices.

On June 15 raw sugar could be secured at 3.89c. per pound. The corresponding price now is 5.96c. per pound. On the June date this company was selling granulated sugar at 4.90c. per pound net, while our price since September 11 has been 6.62c. per pound net.

As regards our policy, it will be seen from these prices that our margin between raw and refined sugar has at no time been excessive.

We believe it only just to add that the grocery trade of the country has likewise maintained a fair parity to the consumer.

Our prices under competitors'

During the rise our prices have ruled lower than our competitors, having been from ¼ to ¾ cents per pound below the quotations of other refiners.

We share the hope that every consumer undoubtedly entertains that the loss in Europe has been exaggerated (the actual figures cannot be known before December or January), and that the calls upon what are almost exclusively American supplies of raw sugar will gradually diminish.

Happily the domestic sugar crops promise good yields, and with their harvesting, which has already commenced and which will be in full progress in October, the present tension should disappear.

In the meantime, our policy as regards a reasonable margin over raw sugar prices will be continued; it is dictated not only by a recognition of our peculiar relationship to the wellfare of the country's households, but also by good business, for any decided check in consumption with a profit margin as narrow as that in sugar refining could only occasion heavy losses to all refiners.

"We have long rested comfortably in this country upon the assumption, that because our form of government was democratic, it was, therefore, automatically producing democratic results.

"Now, there is nothing mysteriously potent about the forms and names of democratic institutions that should make them self-operative. Tyranny and oppression are just as possible under democratic forms as any other. It is only as those of every generation who love democracy resist with all their might the encroachment of its enemies, that the ideals of representative government can even be nearly approximated."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Frank Schulte, the Cubs' strong-armed right fielder, went on a wild batting spree to-day at West Side Park, and led his playmates in a jubilant flaying jamboree, which left the pennant-chasing Giants splashing in the whitewash, while the Cubs romped the bases until their necks were long with thirst. The score was 8 to 0.

Yes, it is quite a surprise, isn't it?

This batting chap, Schulte, is very much to blame for so much grief falling to New York's lot. Five times he grasped his trusty bludgeon. First, he dented a two-bagger, then a single, next a gigantic home run, again a two-bagger, and finally, out of sympathy for the poor, weak, bruised ball, they gave him a complimentary ticket.

Who said that the Dutch have no style? They've got style all the while.

Schulte's home run came in the fourth inning, and was the twenty-second excursion wallop he has made this season. It sailed over the high fence and landed on the pavement, a mangled wreck. It marked the end of Rube Marquard in the game, Crandall being sent to the mound with the score 6 to 0. While Rube was among those present, the Cubs hammered him for five hits, which, with three passes and a wild pitch, netted the half dozen tallies. Crandall stopped the bruins for only a few minutes. They got after him in the sixth inning, and two doubles and a single sent over two more runs.

The blow at their pennant ambitions, although it can have no serious results, took them so unawares that they won't know just what happened until they take a slant over the public prints to-morrow.

Lew Richie was the Cub flinger who dipped the ball over the plate at unreasonable angles, and kept the New York bombardiers from doing a good day's work. In the sixth inning New York managed to group three safeties, but a slip by Jack Murray at second base enabled the Cubs to catch him, thus putting a crimp in the only situation that looked favorable for a Giant run. The New Yorkers were completely smothered by the rush of the Cubs' attack, and did not even get started. They are capable of playing much better ball than they showed to-day. Besides, whoever said that the Cub machine was rusty and creaked like a new pair of shoes was talking through a vacuum in his châpeau.

A crowd of more than 12,000 turned out to see the speed-mad Giants. Most of them assembled all prepared to see the Cubs downed after a hard fight. They also came because the Giants are expected to win the pennant, and also to see Charles Victory Faust, Dick Hennessey, and all the other circus features of Manager McGraw's spectacular production entitled, "Winning the Baseball Quilt of 1911." Charles Webb Murphy took advantage of the big attraction and had a huge banner waving in front of the park heralding the advent of "The Kansas Cyclone," Faust, in his marvelous exhibition of base running and base sliding. The Chicago gathering was pleased to the point of unrestrained joy at the afternoon's fun, and is still fishing for a straw of hope. There isn't a chance.

The Giants put a couple of gallopers on the bases in the first inning, but couldn't score. Doyle got a pass after Devore had grounded out. Tinker gobbled Snodgrass's pop. Jack Murray banged a two-bagger to right, sending Larry to third. Sheckard's great catch of Merkle's high foul fly squelched New York's hopes. The Cubs waltzed gayly into the heat of the game in the same session. Sheckard walked, went to the third corner on Schulte's terrific drive, which almost went into the right-field bleachers. Tinker lifted a long foul to Murray, after which Sheckard scored. Zimmerman prodded a grounder to Larry Doyle, who tossed to Meyers and had Schulte nailed a mile, but the Indian dropped the ball, permitting the second Cub count. Fletcher got Jimmy Doyle's fly. Saier was hit by a pitched ball, and the inning closed with Hofman's fly to Devore.

More Cub intrusion in the second inning. Archer's existence at first base was due to a bad fumble by Fletcher. Richie popped to Merkle and Sheckard got his second pass. Schulte loaded the bases with a Texas leaguer to centre. Tinker's sacrifice fly to Murray scored Archer, and Zimmerman skied to Snodgrass.

Say, where are these Cubs going to stop? James Doyle walked in the third inning, went down on Saier's sacrifice, romped to third after Hofman's long lift to Snodgrass, and went through on Archer's hot liner to centre.

Oh, buckets of tears. A little soft music, professor, with this gruesome tale of Marquard's annihilation. Sheckard deposited a Texas leaguer almost within reach of three anxious fielders. Then Frank Wildfire Schulte, supreme worthy knight of the cudgel, made his twenty-second home run of the season with a Titanic wallop over the high right-field stockade, parading home at Sheckard's heels. Then, goods folks, Edwin Booth Marquard was led gently away to the soothing spray of the shower bath. Old Dr. Crandall stepped in and ordered the Cubs to stop. They obligingly obeyed, temporarily.

Talk about tough breaks of luck. In the sixth inning the Giants propelled three singles to right field and could not get a runner beyond second. Red Murray nailed the first one, and Devlin, who took Merkle's station, followed with a similar slam. Murray overran second base, fell down, and was out with ridiculous ease. Herzog forced Devlin at second and Fletcher singled to right. Meyers was obliterated at first base for the third out.

Get out the adding machine and tack on some more Cub runs. Schulte, the ferocious curve destroyer, hammered his fourth hit to right field for two bases. Then Tinker fanned and Zimmerman ballooned to Devore. Jimmy Doyle's crash to centre scored Schulte, and James materialized at the tray on Vic Saier's twin cushion pummel to right field. It begins to look as if the Cubs would win, so it does.

Eighth inning, Devlin walked. Great. Herzog grounded to Zimmerman, who made a heroic stop and retired Devlin at second. Fletcher poled to Schulte, Wilson singled to right, sending Herzog to third. If New York is not careful now, they'll get a run. Crandall walked, suffocating the bases.

Yep, it looks as if New York was going to start something.

Cancel that order, waiter. Josh Devore's fly was squeezed by Tinker.

THERE'S MANY A SLIP, ETC.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Some one will pay dearly for this. Schulte can't be a batting savage every day, and Richie can't pitch all the time.

As soon as McGraw saw that the game was hopelessly gone he gave the veterans, Merkle, Meyers, and Murray, a rest, and sent in second-string players.

With three days' rest it was supposed that Marquard would be able to show his best form. He had speed, but there was not a kink in his spins.

If Rube don't watch out he'll be playing in a show called "A Broken Idol" instead of "'Way Down East."

This fellow Schulte would make a great man to drive stakes for a circus. He never misses a blow.

Well, that puts it up to Matty again. "Big Six" and Mordecai Brown will probably face each other to-morrow.

Manager McGraw felt so confident of taking two or three games that he was going to let Charley Faust pitch Sunday. He changed his mind to-night.

Days of rest haven't helped the Giants much this season. It takes them a day or two to get back into their stride.

The Giants stole no bases. They couldn't even steal a quick glance at the ball as it floated by.

The Giants-Cubs' series now stands: Giants, won 9; Cubs, won 10.

Despite the course of to-day's little gloom the Giants have some crepe ready to pin on the Cubs, beginning about Thursday.

INJUNCTION AGAINST JOHNSON-WELLS BOUT

London Court Forbids the Holding of Proposed Prize-Fight in Earl's Court.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept 27.—Justice Lush's decision granting an injunction against the holding of the Johnson-Wells prizefight in Earl's Court in this city does not preclude the fight being held elsewhere in London, and consequently the proceedings in Bow Street, which after a partial hearing were adjourned until Friday, retain their interest as a test case regarding the legality of boxing. The prediction made by Johnson that there would be a full house when he appeared at the Bow Street Court with Bombardier Wells was more than realized. Never has Bow Street been more uncomfortably crowded, many well-known sporting men being present. The anti-fight leaders were represented by the Rev. F. B. Meyer, who had a seat back of the bench. Outside the Court House the crowds were dense enough to hold up traffic. People patiently waited upon the curbstone for hours to obtain a near view of the boxers. From the moment when Jack Johnson, with a full retinue of secretaries, sparring partners, massage men behind him, shouldered his way through the multitude and entered the court, he was the dominant figure of the proceedings. All interest concentrated on this huge colored boxer with his golden smile, which shone on everybody, including the Rev. Mr. Meyer. Even the Magistrate was amused by the heavyweight champion during the opening statement by the Solicitor General. Johnson leaned easily against the rails of the dock behind him, letting his eyes wander in search of acquaintances, and when he caught a familiar face his upper row of gold teeth flashed out in a capacious smile, but nothing that was said escaped him.

When he had occasion to speak he leaned toward the Magistrate. His words were clear, his sentences as straight to the point as one of his left-hand leads, thus when counsel for his co-defendants had argued at length their objections to the police witness being questioned on newspaper reports of previous boxing contests, Johnson crystallized their objections in one quickly rapped-out sentence: "I object, for the witness is refreshing his memory of something he probably knows nothing about."

His cross examination of the police was a sharp, swift attack and very skillful for one not experienced in courts.

Johnson asked the Police Superintendent what he knew of the Queensberry or any other boxing rules or records. The officer admitted all he knew was from the books.

"Now," rasped Johnson, "how do you know that Jack Johnson and Mr. Wells, should they box on Oct. 2, will break the peace?"

"I don't say they will," replied the Superintendent.

"I apprehend laughter in the court," Johnson said.

"Have you ever seen a championship contest?" The Superintendent said No. [Laughter.]

Johnson then said: "You have no idea what they look like?" The Superintendent said "No" again. [Loud laughter.]

At this point the Magistrate adjourned the case.

Columbia Interclass Baseball.

Harry Fisher, the newly appointed baseball coach at Columbia University, is planning to build a strong baseball team for next season. An elaborate series of inter-class games have been arranged and nine gold medals, presented by "Eddie" Collins of the Athletics, who captained and coached the Columbia nine in 1907, will be presented to the winning team. There will be five teams in this series, four representing the undergraduate classes, and the fifth will be drawn from the three classes in the law school. Ten games will be played, the first to start next Monday.

BRUTAL FIGHT ENDS IN RIOT.

Benedict Knocked Out, His Manager Strikes Referee for Stopping It.

The main bout at the Long Acre A. A. last night almost terminated in a riot, which for a time threatened violence, but was prevented by the timely intervention of a detective from the Central Office, who dispersed the menacing crowd which had gathered in the ring by drawing his "billy" and threatening the seconds of the defeated boxer Al Benedict, before order was finally restored.

Jim Savage and Al Benedict were the principals of the contest and of the heavyweight division, but Benedict was a poor match for his husky opponent, who drove him to the mat three times in the second round for the count of nine before Referee Abe Marks stepped between the men and stopped the bout in order to save Benedict from any further punishment and a sure knockout.

The contest from the start was a furious one with both men fighting like wild men. Benedict, although game and willing to fight, was a poor match for Savage, who pounded him unmercifully. A chance blow by Benedict opened a wicked gash over Savage's left eye, which was his only good blow, and on the strength of this he and his manager believed that he was winning and deserving of being allowed to continue what was apparently a hopeless task.

Before the first round had ended Savage, after getting the gash under the eye, recovered and was hot on the trail of his opponent, and the bell just saved him from being knocked out.

The second chapter was a disgusting one to watch, as Benedict, after running into a left jab, began to bleed at the nose. This was not all, however, and the next few seconds saw him sprawling over the floor from two hard rights to the jaw. He took the count of nine, but had no sooner regained his feet when he again went sailing to the floor for another count of nine. He was helpless, and on the third fall Referee Marks refused to count, stopping the contest.

The action of the referee, which is in accordance with the ruling of the State Athletic Commission, did not please Manager Leo Flynn, who looked after Benedict, and after arguing the point for a continuation of the one-sided affair and not being successful, deliberately struck Referee Marks. The blow was not a hard one, but immediately set the spectators in a fury, and Marks returned the blow to Flynn. The pair then started in to mix matters, and the presence of the detectives was the only thing that prevented further violence.

GARDEN LICENSE ILLEGAL.

Attorney General Carmody Gives Verbal Opinion to Gov. Dix on Boxing Case.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—There is reason to believe that when the State Athletic Commission meets to-morrow it will revoke the license which now enables the Madison Square Athletic Club to give sparring exhibitions in the Garden. In a verbal opinion given to Gov. Dix to-day, Attorney General Carmody declared that the license now held by the Madison Square Athletic Club is illegal. He explained that under the law a boxing club must have an exclusive lease of its building for at least a year, and Madison Square Garden is not exclusively held by the boxing club. The purpose of the law, it was explained, was to permit small clubs to give sparring exhibitions, and to bar out clubs which aim to give prizefights for a short period.

Gov. Dix and Attorney General Carmody went over the situation to-day, and it is believed the Boxing Commission will be guided by the judgment of the Attorney General. Gov. Dix is insistent that prizefighting shall not be tolerated under a State license. While he declares there can be little objection to properly regulated boxing bouts, he is opposed to excesses or brutal exhibitions.

It is not regarded as unlikely by many that the questions and disputes which have arisen over the fights already held under the new act, especially those in New York, will result in the repeal of the Frawley law.

Knockouts in White Plains Bouts.

Teddy Murphy, a Boston bantamweight, disposed of Kid Egan of Washington in the seventh round of what was to have been a ten-round bout at the weekly stag of the Greenburg Athletic Club in White Plains last night. Both contestants in the main bout were in fine shape for the battle, and it was one of the most sensational fights seen at this clubhouse since its organization. Murphy had a big advantage over his opponent, and in the sixth session Egan almost succumbed to the terrific body punching that was handed out by Murphy. During the minute's rest between the sixth and final rounds Egan recovered only slightly from the beating that he received from the Boston fighter in the early sessions, and it was an easy matter for Murphy to end the fight in the seventh round with a hard right-hand swing flush on his opponent's jaw.

In the semi-final bout that was scheduled to go six rounds Harry Phillips of White Plains knocked out Young Brooks, also of White Plains, in the fifth round. There were three other preliminary bouts staged, and each was scheduled to last four rounds, but none of them went further than the first session.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Sailor White and Jack McCormick, a pair of white hopes, will box ten rounds in the main attraction at the Fairmont A. C. Saturday night. These came together six weeks ago and put up a great draw. In the semi-final of ten rounds Kid Herman will oppose Willie Chandler. In another ten-rounder Young Le Roy tackles Art Edwards. The opening bout will be of six rounds between Leo Johnson and Jack Guilfoyle.

At the Sharkey Club Saturday night Johnny Lore, the local bantam, will again tackle Young Pierce, the crack colored bantam of Philadelphia. Two weeks ago the same pair clashed at the Sharkey Club, and they put up such an interesting battle that they were rematched immediately. Pierce had the better of the other bout, but Lore expects to turn the tables this time. He has been in training ever since, and will be in the best of condition. A pair of heavyweights will clash in the semi-final, Jim Maher, the Irish fighter, will tackle Jack Cargo, a colored scrapper. There will be four more bouts.

At the Olympic Club on West 125th Street on all-star card will be put on Saturday night, consisting of two ten-round bouts and three four-round contests. The ten-round bouts will bring together Young Sam Langford versus Johnny Kid Lewis, and Joe Farmer versus Mickey Carroll. The four-round bouts will be: Battling Travers versus Bobby Shane, Young Keys versus Joe Ross, and Karey Phelan versus Young Barney.

The new Polo A. C. of Harlem will open its doors Friday night for the first time under the new law. Matchmaker Jimmy Yule has arranged for thirty-two rounds of boxing, the headliner being a ten-round bout between Young Otto and Benny Franklin, New York lightweights. A semi-final of six rounds and four four-round bouts will precede the main event.

"Pro" Cycle Riders Form a Union.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 27.—The professional bicycle riders participating in the races at the Velodrome at Vailsburg to-day organized a protective association, to be known as the American Cycling Union, with the object of obtaining "fair treatment" from the National Cycling Association. The riders complain that they have no appeal from fines and disqualification, and want official representation in the association. Joe Fogler was chosen to act as such a representative, and a Grievance Committee was selected. To-day's races were abandoned on account of cold weather.

THE GROUNDS OF ACTION.

In the public statement made by the Directors of the United States Steel Corporation and signed by Mr. Morgan and Judge Gary, it is expressly denied that the competitors of the Steel Corporation or the purchasers of its products have ever complained of its business methods. If the conduct of the Corporation toward its competitors had been unfair and oppressive they would have been loud in their complaints. Assuredly the public would have heard something of it. If its prices had been extortionate the buyers of its products would have complained, and the public would have heard of that. The statement of the Directors says:

> The Corporation was organized for business reasons, and purchased its various plants to promote such business and not to restrain trade or obtain a monopoly. In all its operations the company has scrupulously observed the law and recognized the just rights of its competitors and the consumers of its products. So far as its Directors are aware, no complaint has ever been made against it by either of these interests.

Competitors and purchasers having suffered no injury, there is still another question to be answered. What injury have the people of the United States suffered at the hands of the Steel Corporation? If the Attorney General should bring a suit to destroy the Corporation, the real complainant in the case would be the people. What would be their ground of action under the law? We may leave out of account the unsupported charges of professional assailants of corporations. No Attorney General would put his name to a brief based upon the harangues of Mr. Bryan or of Jeff Davis of Arkansas. But what injury to the people capable of being set forth in the counts of an indictment can be charged against the Steel Corporation? That is now the vital question. If the Attorney General has evidence of such wrongs, if he has evidence that the law has been violated, it will be his plain duty to begin a suit. Nobody can complain of that. But it is evident that the indictment will have to be made up of new matter. The Directors deny that the existence or the methods of the Corporation are in violation of law, they affirm that the operations of the company are of public benefit. The public is not at present advised of any facts on which these statements could be refuted. If the Attorney General knows of any such facts he will, of course, not keep them to himself.

THE BATTLE OF THE VETOES.

It ought not to escape attention that so good an authority as President McAneny traces the battle over the Mayor's veto in the new charter to the subway situation. It must be admitted that the situation is about equally bad regarding the subways and the charter, and, in balancing the badnesses of the two, it is also necessary to admit that a mistake with the subways would be more prejudicial to the city than a mistake with the charter. The city is now passing from its youthful gristle into its full maturity, and the subways are the skeleton upon which it must lay on its flesh. The subways now under construction are adapted if not designed to produce a condition of artificial sclerosis of its avenues of passenger circulation, and thus to cause a deficiency of nutrition in some portions of the city's anatomy. The evil thus in the way of consummation may be minimized, but cannot be remedied in many generations. There may be Democratic charters or Republican charters in more or less swift succession and of varying degrees of badness, but any of such charters can be rewritten at the cost of paper and ink and draughtsmanship.

It is otherwise with subways. The one on which a quarter of a billion is being wasted affects many billions of tax values. The substance on which the city lives is endangered by a bad subway, and the fortunes of many citizens. No greater material stake was ever fought for by any city than is involved in the battle over the subway vetoes. If anything could excuse a bad veto power it would be its use against a badness of greater potency for harm. No worse use could be made of the power of assent than its employment in furtherance of such a subway plan as is now under way. This power as it exists was given because it was right, and not with any reference to a subway situation then impossible of anticipation, so preposterous is it.

It does not follow that because the subway situation is so bad that it would be well to remedy it by a bad charter. Subways and charters should each stand on their own respective merits. Charters should be written for charter reasons, as the present one was. There is no present demand for a new charter, and no reason in the subway situation for writing a charter for subway reasons. The dictate of prudence is to let each situation "sweat" itself out. Especially is this true if, as is contended, the objectionable vetoes do not alter the Mayor's power of veto. This power ought not to be reduced in order to facilitate an impossible plan of construction. It is easy to say that the subway proposal would be amended if submitted to a referendum. Certainly it ought to be rejected if the popular verdict reflected its demerits. The plan is being persisted in because it is favored by officials, although condemned by all competent critics. A subway in the interest of any corporation is as obnoxious as a charter in the interest of any boss.

CASSIDY.

The Borough of Queens is rapidly filling with self-respecting people. Gov. Dix has removed Lawrence Gresser from the Presidency of Queens because, since his election to succeed President Bermel, he has permitted its administration to remain a stench in the nostrils of all decent people. Shall Joseph Cassidy, whose political career in Queens has been worse than Gresser's, be elected to succeed him?

The interests of business men as well as of moral and religious men in Queens cry out against the election of Cassidy by its Aldermen, against the election of any creature of Cassidy's. They have been robbed of their sewers and of money appropriated for sewers. They have seen their highways rutted and broken while appropriations to keep them smooth and durable have been squandered. They have watched the padding of payrolls, the levying of political assessments, and the corruption of borough employés appointed and removed for political reasons. All these things were done when Joseph Cassidy was President of Queens, and he grew rich in an office the salary of which was less than his election expenses. Charges against him were investigated and officially sustained. Gresser merely tolerated the régime which Cassidy created, and Gresser has been removed.

The rebellion of the taxpayers of Queens against Gresser's laxness and incompetence, or worse, took the form of the battering down of the Borough President's doors and the filing of a petition with Gov. Hughes for his removal. What would happen if the Aldermen of Queens should have the impudence to elect Cassidy may easily be predicted.

TWO PHRASES.

> In several recent notable instances able writers, learned jurists, and distinguished officials have wrangled about terms and deluded themselves by the thought that a change of sound was necessarily a change of meaning. Thus our esteemed contemporary The Times recently made what was to itself a startling discovery: that lawyers, Judges, and statesmen had during the last twenty years fallen into the error of confusing a restraint of trade with a restraint of competition. The Times thought that to run a clear line of demarcation between these two phrases was to cut the Gordian knot of a vexed question. Since this discovery was announced the readers of The Times have been repeatedly admonished that the present lamentable confusion, with its blighting effects upon business, is due wholly to the crass stupidity of lawyers and Judges in not distinguishing between the two kinds of restraints.
> A restraint of trade has always been a legal concept, and its very essence is the elimination of competition. While it is true that some restraints of competition are so incidental and insignificant that on the theory of de minimis they do not rise to the dignity of a restraint of trade, yet it is impossible without intellectual astigmatism to see how there can be a restraint of trade without an elimination of competition; and the entire theory of the law with respect to such restraints has been based upon the economic theory that the interests of the public were best served by competition and that the elimination of competition was therefore prejudicial to the public interests.—The Sun, Sept. 25.

The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. When in the Freight Association case Justice Peckham declared that inasmuch as the act of 1890 pronounces illegal "every contract or combination in restraint of trade or commerce among the several States," therefore the language could not be limited to such contracts as were in unreasonable restraint of trade, but "all contracts are included in such language and no exception or limitation can be added without placing in the act that which has been omitted by Congress," he put his own powers of reasoning, the authority of the court, and the business of the country under the hard domination of the absolute letter of the law. Contracts that merely restrained competition as well as those that actually restrained trade fell within that universal prohibition. The consequences of that acceptance of the letter that kills are known to everybody. In his address to the American Bar Association Mr. William B. Hornblower said:

> Unfortunately the decisions in these cases were but the starting points for new uncertainties and furnished obiter dicta which have misled the bench and the bar in subsequent cases and which remained until 1911 the source of new perplexities.

It may be considered as established that these uncertainties and perplexities and our troubles under the act have arisen from the misunderstanding of its meaning on the part of the bench and the bar.

Now as to the difference between the "two phrases." Does restraint of trade mean the same thing as restraint of competition? In the Joint Traffic Association case Justice Peckham said that the court was entirely in agreement with counsel in their argument that competition and commerce are not identical. "No such identity can be pretended because it is plain that that commerce can and does take place on a large scale and in numerous forms without competition." The restraint of the one, therefore, is not identically the same thing as the restraint of the other. The "two phrases" do not mean the same thing.

Whoever has made himself acquainted with the history of this enactment and has read the debates preceding enactment knows that Congress understood perfectly the difference between restraint of trade and restraint of competition, and knew that the "two phrases" do not mean one and the same thing. The bill originally forbade restraints of competition. In that form and with those words it was many times amended, referred, and reported. Finally, when that hard-headed statesman Senator Orville H. Platt of Connecticut pointed out that to forbid restraints of competition would be to forbid trade, an entirely new bill was reported and enacted from which all mention of competition had been struck out. Whatever "restraint of trade" may have meant in the common law Congress did not intend that those words, as used in this act, should be construed as Justice Peckham construed them, to forbid all restraints, whether of competition or of trade.

The difference is not one of mere phrase making. It is vital and of the substance. Under Justice Peckham's reading of the law the Steel Corporation would certainly have to be broken up. Under the construction which makes restraint of competition unlawful only when it seeks to destroy competitors by means everywhere condemned as unfair and oppressive the Steel Corporation may and possibly will be permitted to combine its great trade-promoting activities, profitable for the country and for itself. Is not that a difference, a very substantial and vital difference? As a further reason for insisting upon the need of recognizing the distinction which The Times has pointed out we submit the fact that it was adopted by the court in the Powder Trust case. It will live.

"A DOCTOR FOR THE NATION."

The experiences which the Department of Agriculture has just undergone in its administration of the Federal Food and Drugs act indicate clearly enough that this function and other functions relating to the public health, now under lay control, should be unified under the supervision, as Dr. Wiley puts it, of "a Doctor for the Nation." The Chief Chemist suggests that there be an adviser to the President "charged with the protection of the health of the people and their proper education in matters relating to their well-being."

There may be valid objections to creating a new department at Washington with its head in the President's Cabinet. If the varied activities that are now scattered through the Department of Agriculture, the Treasury Department, the Army, the Navy, the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, the Division of Vital Statistics in the Census Bureau, the Indian Bureau, and the Government Hospital can be co-ordinated into a single bureau with a doctor as its chief, the need which Dr. Wiley points out would be largely met.

The great duplication of medical work in these bureaus, their official conflicts and lack of co-operation, which affect results in the emergency of epidemics, or in dealing with vast interests where the strain of commercial pressure falls upon them, would be obviated if Dr. Wiley's suggestion were adopted. A cry was raised last year that Senator Owen's bill to establish a Bureau or Department of Public Health was really an attempt to establish a "Doctors' Trust," and that it would usurp the functions of the several States. The real need of such a bureau is in the removal of conditions of disease which cannot now be reached by State and city Boards of Health. Inter-State waters are polluted, foods, milk, and drugs that are pernicious and abominable are trafficked in between the States, and inter-State quarantine methods are defective. National statistical studies of mortality and of diseases and their geographical distribution need to be made. The Boards of Health in the States and cities are isolated; by the spreading of information from Federal authorities that have knowledge of conditions in all the States, the separate State and municipal activities might be correlated into an efficient system.

All these things may be done without trenching in any way upon the rights or powers of the States, and without legislation that will raise any particular "school" of medical men into a position of authority over other schools. In his last annual message to Congress President Taft recommended the creation of such a bureau. In his next message we shall look for a clearer and more vigorous exposition of his views.

MAYOR GAYNOR ON LIBRARIES.

Mayor Gaynor is at his best whenever he discourses upon matters which lie outside the field of politics and government. His address on Tuesday upon the philosophy of libraries and their influence in the community summed up, in his own fashion, the best that has been thought about the civilizing influence of books since the first beechen pages were indited.

It was his observation as a lawyer and a Judge, doubtless, that prompted Mr. Gaynor to include with schools and libraries the jury system as the third great agency by which English-speaking society grows in knowledge. By these agencies and their accessories, the Mayor says, "the whole intellectual world has changed," by transmitting the best thought of mankind from the very few, to whom it was formerly restricted, to the many.

Of course, both the schools and the jury system are outgrowths of libraries, being merely the means of disseminating knowledge of past experience and precedents as they have been evolved and been treasured up in books for successive generations. Without the wisdom of the Judges, based solidly upon the records of the administration of justice in past relations of men with the law, the common people would receive little instruction by means of their impaneling in juries. As it is, the unlettered juryman in each case looks back through centuries of just dealing with his fellows, back to the time of "Blackstone's Commentaries," and back of them to the Witenagemot and the Roman law. From them his mind receives direction and illumination in his daily life.

The Mayor emphasizes the truism that good things are of gradual growth and that "nothing good is grown in a hurry." The libraries, he says, tell a tale of this gradual progress of the human race, mentally, morally, and materially. While true growth is always graded, it is not necessarily slow, and we take exception to this passage in the Mayor's speech to the State Librarians:

> Each generation sacrifices to the generation that is to come after it. In fact, our lives are lives of mere sacrifice to the generation that is to come next, and so society keeps on.

But then the next generation gets the benefit. It is benefited not only by the life of the preceding generation, but of all preceding generations in which civilization advanced and its records and messages were saved up in books. Its life can not be a life of "mere sacrifice" to those who shall come after, since it is enriched from the past and has in it a content of positive enjoyment of its riches. Sir Francis Bacon roused his world from a torpor of sloth and backwardness that had lasted many centuries when he pointed out that the ancients, in their crude beginnings, could not be so great as the moderns can be; indeed, the men of the present may be said to live in the old age of the world, an age that has grown wise and more experienced, when counsels have multiplied, and these modern men are the true ancients. Bacon founded new sciences by his faith in the intelligent efforts of the present, and in paths now made plain by many lights from the past. It is the "father of modern science," his contemporaries and successors, who have increased the facilities of living; have essayed, not unsuccessfully, to conquer space and time, and have planted libraries, schools, and courts of law in newly peopled wildernesses. Progress by their direction may have proceeded step by step, but the steps have been rapid and accelerating.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Complicity Now Is Unpardonable. Nobody wants to be, or would be, severe in judging a father for the means he took to get back from kidnappers known to be desperate criminals quite capable of murder his little son for whom they were demanding a ransom under threat of death. In such a case the instincts of paternity and the duties of good citizenship come into violent conflict, and the father would be, if not justified, at least excusable, for making the best bargain with the scoundrels he could and compounding their felony by paying what they demanded.

This is what the police think was done by Vincenzo Sabella. They will find it extremely difficult, probably impossible, to prove the charge, but all the circumstances in the case tend to support it, and Sabella's conduct ever since the boy disappeared has been of a sort to give it something more than plausibility. In his first excitement after the abduction, he admitted, frankly enough, that the boy had been stolen by blackmailers, but since then he has denied even this and has pretended to know where the little fellow was and to be content that he should be there. In other words, so frightened was he, and so nearly sure that the police could not get the boy back alive, that he not only refused to give them any assistance, but he did what he could to prevent them from doing any work at all on the case, thus giving the kidnappers exactly the protection which will encourage them to undertake further enterprises of the same kind.

Sabella's boy was returned in the way which kidnapping operations among the Italians have made familiar, and the fair, though undemonstrable, presumption is that the demanded price was paid. The excuse which Sabella once had for protecting the criminals, however, no longer exists. To give the police every scrap of information he possesses and actively to assist in hunting down the men in the blackmailing business will undoubtedly subject him and his to a certain amount of danger, but the danger is no longer one of a size or a quality to win pardon and sympathy for subordinating public to private interests. If any legal method of compulsion exists, the man should be made to tell what he has done and what he knows or suspects, and he should no longer be immune from punishment if he can be proved to be interfering with the course of justice.

Lives and Time Are Wasted. Comparing last year's aeroplane flights of over an hour's duration with those of this year equally prolonged, an English statistician has figured out what he thinks an encouraging fact—that while one aviator was killed last year for every 3,500 miles of flight, this year the number of flying miles made for each death has risen to 4,900.

This, if an accurate computation, does indicate that aviation as an art is progressing, and in the right direction, or toward reasonable safety, but it reveals that the goal is still a long way off, and increases one's astonishment at the eagerness with which aspirants for aerial joys, honors, and profits come forward to take the places of those who, with no less accuracy than the victims of war, can be called "the fallen." Why the statistician, however, should have taken into account only long flights is a mystery, if he had any better purpose than to find some facts which, taken alone, would excite hopes that the frightful mortality incidental to aviation is diminishing.

Many, perhaps a majority, of the recent fatalities have come before the aviator had been in the air an hour. Only the most skillful and experienced of the birdmen attempt to remain aloft as long as that—or, if they attempt it, succeed in doing so. No conclusions of value can be drawn from figures which do not include all flights, and such figures, it is almost certain, would show little if any gain in the number of miles covered for each death.

This is not to say that the cost of aviation in human life is so great that it should be abandoned. It is to say, however, that the taking of needless and useless risks should be stopped. Flight of the simplest sort, over the safest courses that can be found, is sufficiently perilous to require all the courage of a sensible man—to require more courage than any man with responsibilities either private or public that are at all heavy is justified in displaying. That a young army officer, for instance, should experiment with aeroplanes as a means of carrying messages is more than justifiable, but for a man holding a Cabinet position, which gives him at least the presumption of having considerable value to the country, to risk his life in this way seems unwise and to contain the element of impropriety.

Utter condemnation of the ingeniously dangerous feats performed at every aviation meet can be withheld only on the ground that aviators must make money like other people, and to do this they must satisfy a public demand for thrills. These "stunts" are a waste of time as well as of lives, since the advancement of practical navigation of the air is delayed by them, not advanced.

Saratoga's Neglected Opportunity. With that cynical disregard for anything except immediate self-interest which is the characteristic of small rather than of large communities, the people of Saratoga and its vicinity opposed with all their might—and that of their legislative representatives—the suppression of race track gambling and are now as fiercely eager for its revival. To the fact that, outside of a very narrow circle, the many and large evils of this sort of gambling are fully and unanimously recognized, the Saratogians are quite indifferent.

Yet they would have to be, not better, but only wiser, to see that their best chance to make money lies elsewhere than in racing.

The Post-Graduate, a medical journal of high repute, gives them excellent advice. It says:

> Here is Saratoga's opportunity. Let her business and professional men get together and develop the place along the lines of Carlsbad and other European Spas. In our opinion there is a great future for a place of this kind in the United States, and so great is the demand that once the profession is convinced that the place is now run on proper professional and ethical lines, and the short racing season of Saratoga's glory will be expanded to twelve months of equal business prosperity. The place is ideal, the water renowned, the hotel accommodations ample, and all that is needed is to organize, and advertise in the proper way.

Presumably because it understands the Saratoga people, The Post-Graduate makes no reference to the public service that could thus be rendered, but talks only of the money that could be made all the year round if Saratoga were to become an American Carlsbad. To do that, however, would take intelligence and time, and exploitation of "the horses" and their followers and parasites requires neither, so the good advice is probably wasted.

THE TIMES'S LONDON OFFICE.

Y. W. C. A. Secretary Tells of Past Associations with Florence Nightingale.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Another interest attaches to 2 Pall Mall East, the new London offices of The Times. It was for more than thirty years the residence of the Hon. Arthur Kinnaird, M. P., (later Lord Kinnaird,) partner in the banking firm of Ransom & Bouverie Company of 1 Pall Mall, predecessors to Barclay, Beran & Co. Mrs. Kinnaird, who had been associated with Miss Florence Nightingale and others in opening a home in London where nurses for the Crimea "might be boarded and in some measure prepared for their work before sailing," decided that this home should be continued for young women coming up to London to seek or prepare for any employment. Consequently from 2 Pall Mall East letters were sent out soliciting aid for the "North London Home, or General Female Home or Training Institution," the first local Young Women's Christian Association, and that which entitled Lady Kinnaird to be called the founder of this world movement for young women.

Other international Christian reforms were forwarded in meetings held in this house, in which the seventh Earl of Shaftesbury and other of their friends were conspicuous, and in their drawing rooms during the "Trent affair," Mr. Thurlow Weed and Bishop McIlvaine spoke as informal envoys from President Lincoln to English sympathizers of "liberty and union."

Not Enough Weight Inspectors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed in this morning's paper that Commissioner Walsh of the Bureau of Weights and Measures will display at the Budget Exhibit fraudulent weights and measures, and will also have some thirty-one Inspectors to show the people how easily they are cheated. We read constantly of Police Commissioner Waldo appointing new policemen. Do you ever read of a new Inspector of Weights and Measures being appointed?

WILLIAM J. COOMBS.

The Philippines.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Out of the West, in your issue this morning, came a good suggestion. It is to sell the Philippines to Japan. Make the suggestion wider—make it unlimited—sell to anybody. Sell for a consideration if you please—or sell without a consideration. Sell with a restriction, or sell without a restriction; only sell—sell. And if you find you cannot sell, why then give away—if you can.

Hoke Smith's Attack on Negroes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to thank you for the broad, liberal, and magnanimous spirit you have shown in granting space in your last Sunday's issue for a reply to Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia, who, in your preceding Sunday's issue, made such a harsh attack upon negroes generally.

LEDERLE ON PURE MILK.

Tells Pennsylvanians New New York System Should Be Effective.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Sept. 27.—Health Commissioner Ernst J. Lederle of New York told the members of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania at its annual session here to-day that the orthodox way of safeguarding the municipal milk supply was inadequate, and then described the methods of controlling the milk supply of New York City. Pasteurization, said Mr. Lederle, was the only way to guarantee absolutely the safety of a city's general milk supply, and he believed that the New York City law which takes effect at the beginning of next year, requiring the pasteurization of all except certified milk and certain other special grades, would prove effective.

Mr. Lederle said that it was planned to classify all of New York City's milk in three classes: Grade A milk, suitable for infant feeding; Grade B milk, suitable for adults to drink; Grade C milk, for cooking and manufacturing purposes.

"The present system of surveillance of New York City's milk supply," said he, "is without doubt, more comprehensive and well developed than that of any other great city in the world. Since its beginning, about twenty-five years ago, it has been gradually developed and perfected in accordance with the increase of scientific knowledge and the extension of the facilities at the command of the department.

"I have always been impressed with the necessity of dealing with milk to be consumed by infants as a separate problem. Since the requirements are so much more exacting for infants' milk, and since it has been well established that this grade of milk is much more expensive to produce, and should command a higher price than can ordinarily be demanded for milk in general use, it would seem wise to separate the two problems.

"It would be an unnecessary waste of effort to attempt to raise the entire supply of 2,000,000 quarts to the standard of milk suitable for infant feeding. There is a temptation for the dealer to be unwilling to admit that his so-called market milk is not a fit food for infants, when, as a matter of fact, there is not a city in the world whose milk supply is suitable for such purpose, and it seems very unlikely that it could ever be brought to such a standard. To insist upon such a standard for the entire supply would raise the price of milk to a point prohibitive to the ordinary consumer, and would involve much wasted effort.

"Bacteriological investigation has shown that milk which contains large numbers of the ordinary bacteria of the dust, but no pathogenic organisms, may yet cause intestinal disturbances among infants, particularly when the resistance of the digestive tract is lowered by hot weather. Yet this same milk may be consumed without danger to persons of mature constitution.

"Any general advance in the price of milk at the present time, however justified by the higher cost of production due to the demands of modern sanitation, would be regarded as the unjust extortion of a combination of dealers formed to raise the price. It is probable that when improvements are more universal and the relation of milk to the public health more generally understood the public will be willing to pay a fair price for wholesome milk guaranteed to be of good quality."

WORKING TO SAVE THE DRIVE

McAneny Tells Washington Heights Folk He Will Watch the Central Road.

A delegation from the Washington Heights Association, including John D. Beals, President; R. P. Bolton, Secretary; the Rev. M. H. Gates, and Alderman John H. Boschen called yesterday on Borough President McAneny to urge that the New York Central Railroad be restrained from interfering with the extension of Riverside Drive above 155th Street as contemplated in their improvement plans about to be filed; that Inwood Hill be improved, and that the proposed subway extension in Fort Washington Avenue, connecting with the Eighth Avenue Elevated Road at 157th Street, be constructed. Incidentally the delegation opposed paying for the proposed improvements by local assessment.

President McAneny said he would do his best to see that the railroad did not interfere with the plans for the Drive extension or monopolize the water front. He promised that speedy action should be taken in the other matters.

MORE COMPLIMENTS.

The Times's Neighbors Continue to Speak Kindly of Its Anniversary.

From the Duluth Herald.

THE NEW YORK TIMES celebrated its sixtieth birthday the other day by getting out a special edition which was a notable compendium of political, economic, and newspaper history.

The Herald has pleasure in congratulating THE TIMES on its long and influential history, but more especially on the fact that its sixtieth birthday finds it with a larger circulation, a greater prosperity and a wider influence than it has had at any period in its useful career. Clean, advanced, free—it is a splendid and commanding individuality among the best newspapers of the world.

From the Omaha Bee.

THE NEW YORK TIMES has passed its sixtieth milestone, stronger and abler and more interesting than ever, a shining light in the field of American journalism.

From the Perth Amboy Chronicle.

THE NEW YORK TIMES is fully entitled to the most sincere congratulations of the whole newspaper profession upon attaining its sixtieth anniversary. When The Chronicle reaches that milestone it will have considered its progress through life one of which to be proud if it has maintained the standard held by its great New York contemporary. It is no easy matter to guide the destinies of such a paper along such a splendid course. The more papers that do, the greater the lustre for all in the noble calling we are following.

Appreciates The Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It will not be amiss, I hope, to add another pat on the back to the many you have received on the occasion of the paper's birthday, although I dislike somewhat the "birthday" idea, preferring to regard THE TIMES as a fixed institution, like the pyramids, without time; or, better, like the sun, because it comes around every morning. I want to say that a protracted absence from New York always means a distinct loss in that I do not get daily the mental pabulum that you alone distribute for the smallest coin of the realm. Success to you, more success, and then some—

D. SEYMOUR.

New York, Sept. 26, 1911.

The Wiley-Rusby Case.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We offer you our congratulations upon the masterful way in which you treated the Wiley-Rusby case, and the way in which that case was disposed of, due in a large measure to your intelligent and militant stand for the right.

Perhaps it would not be out of the way to offer you fraternal congratulations upon the completion of your first sixty years of usefulness, and this we do feeling especially warranted for such action as we ourselves are now in our fifty-fifth year.

THE DRUGGISTS' CIRCULAR.

Speaks Up for the "Fans."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article on "The Abused Umpire," while very properly deprecating rowdyism at baseball games, seems hardly fair to the "fans." It has been my invariable observation that the umpire is criticised, not because the game may be going against the prejudices of the crowd, but only when his decisions are, from the viewpoint of the spectators, palpably incorrect.

In justice to the "multitude in the bleachers" it should be said that they generally voice their sentiments impartially; that is, they murmur a chorus of derisive exclamations, and a few of the more outspoken ones openly jeer, when a visiting player is the victim of a decision that they consider unquestionably erroneous.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS IS FOUND CONTAGIOUS

Experiments of Drs. Neustaedter and Thro Show That It Is Spread by Sickroom Dust.

ENTERS SYSTEM BY THE NOSE

Sweepings in a Salt Solution Injected in Monkeys Show Quick Results in the Development of the Disease.

An important discovery has been made in the laboratories of the department of clinical pathology of the Cornell University Medical School relative to poliomyelitis, or infantile spinal paralysis, and is reported in the current issue of The New York Medical Journal. Dr. M. Neustaedter of the New York University and Bellevue Hospital College Clinic and Dr. William C. Thro, assistant Professor of Clinical Pathology at the Cornell Medical School, have proved that acute poliomyelitis is both infectious and contagious; that it is propagated by dust from rooms in which patients suffering from the disease are confined, and that it gains entrance through the nose.

"It becomes perfectly evident," they conclude, "that prophylactic measures should be most rigidly carried out in order to check the spread of this disease."

The two physicians maintained this theory, and started out to prove it by experiments with monkeys. Here is a part of their report:

"Experimental poliomyelitis has hitherto been produced from the cords and brain substance of children who died from the disease. To Dr. Flexner we are indebted for the knowledge that the disease is infectious and that the virus is filterable through a Berkfeld filter. The question whether we were dealing with a contagious affection was still an open one. The source of this contagion has been a mystery, though speculation and experimentation along these lines are well nigh universal.

"The theory which we are now in a position to prove was based on the following facts: The disease is eminently an infantile one, occurring in the dry season. The character of the neighborhood and of the living premises where it occurs plays no material part in the spread of the disease. In other words, it can occur anywhere. Several children in the same family may be attacked successively. In a given house, children are attacked in different families in fairly quick succession, and along lines of neighborly communication.

"From these facts we have concluded that the virus lurks in the dust, and that the naso-pharynx must be the point of entry.

"Two years ago we started our investigations along these lines. We collected the dust of rooms wherein cases of poliomyelitis occurred and prepared extracts from these sweepings, which we injected into monkeys (of the species Rhesus,) subcutaneously, intraspinally, and intracerebrally.

"Until now we have used six monkeys for our experiments. The sweepings were obtained from cases of from six months' to three days' duration after the onset of the paralysis. In this preliminary report we shall fully discuss the last three experiments. For purposes of accuracy we shall speak of our experiments with monkeys Nos. 4, 5, and 6.

"Aug. 12, 1911, we obtained sweepings from a case of poliomyelitis through the courtesy of Dr. Sayre. The child, 2 years old, was then two weeks paralyzed. These sweepings were shaken for six hours with 100 cubic centimeters of normal salt solution and then strained through cotton; 30 cubic centimeters of this extract were filtered through a Berkfeld filter No. 2, and evaporated in a vacuum in the course of three days to 25 cubic centimeters."

On Aug. 19 monkey No. 4 was etherized, the skull was opened, and 5 cubic centimeters of the prepared extract were injected through the brain substance into the left ventricle. On Aug. 26 the animal became ill, and on the following day developed paralysis of the right forepaw and a characteristic wrist drop. The paralysis was insignificant, so this animal was not killed for post mortem examination.

"On Aug. 29 we obtained through the courtesy of Dr. Wallratte of Port Richmond, S. I., the sweepings of a room wherein a four-year-old child was stricken with poliomyelitis and was then two days paralyzed. In this room the child passed most of its time and was also there confined to bed. The dust, about fifty grams, was macerated over night with 30 cubic centimetres of sterile water and then shaken for one hour. The mixture was filtered through a paper filter and 15 cubic centimetres of this filtrate were passed through a special Bougé filter under high pressure within an hour.

"Five centimeters of the filtrate prepared from this dust were injected into the spinal canal of monkey No. 5, and 8 cubic centimetres were injected subcutaneously. On Sept. 4, six days after the injection, the animal became very ill and paralyzed, preseting typical symptoms of infantile paralysis. On Sept. 6 the animal was killed and both the appearance of the brain and various organs and the microscopic findings confirmed the diagnosis of poliomyelitis."

Subsequent experiments with monkeys Nos. 4 and 6 gave additional confirmation of the diagnosis, proving conclusively that the virus finds a resting place in dust and that the disease is highly contagious.

SAYS REPUBLIC IS DOOMED.

Will Perish Because College Professors Are Infidels, Parson Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—"The American Republic is doomed to destruction because the majority of its college professors are infidels," was the prediction made by the Rev. Dr. S. T. Willis, President of the Virginia Christian College of Lynchburg, Va., speaking before the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Christian Missionary Society of Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia, last night.

"Unless the college professors of the present day," declared Dr. Willis, "lay more stress upon the teachings of Christianity instead of sending out into the world students and graduates with a great store of book learning and little or no conception of what an upright life should be, this Republic will go the way of the first French Republic, the Roman Republic, and all others where lack of morals, unchristian living, an improper understanding of a man's obligations to his neighbors and similar deteriorating elements have held sway."

Aerial Meets on Sundays.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Bishop Burgess and Long Island Christians in objecting to the aerial meet last Sunday did not object to people having pleasure on Sunday, but they did object to their hiring other people to give them pleasure. Using the language of Macaulay's oft-quoted slander against the Puritans to whom we are very largely indebted for the freedom which our Government insures us, we object to bear-baiting because of the pain it gives the bears, and also because of the deterioration of character which it gives to the spectators, and to the fact that it shuts out the vision of God.

The law forbids "horse racing, gaming, or other public sports, exercises, or shows."

It has been clearly held in the courts that "sports, exercises, or shows" are public which are advertised as open to the public or to which admission fees are charged to the public.

The breaking down of the enforcement of the Sunday laws is due, of course, to some extent, to the selfish indifference of pepole who want a good Sunday for themselves, whether other people have an equally good Sunday, but primarily because moneyed interests want to make money and can afford to hire lawyers to corrupt or fool the law-enforcing officers of the Government.

What Bishop Burgess objected to was the breaking of the law, not so much as to the prize money as to the charging money for admission. There is a great principle behind Bishop Burgess's action, which means a free Sunday for everybody alike, rich and poor.

C. G. GATES AND MISS HOPWOOD WED

Son of Late John W. Gates Married to Minneapolis Girl by Texas Clergyman.

RICH PRESENTS FOR BRIDE

Diamond Necklace, Rope of Pearls, and 700 Pieces of Silverware—Honeymoon Tour of United States.

Special to The New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Penn., Sept. 27.—Charles G. Gates, son of the late John W. Gates, and Florence Hopwood of Minneapolis were married at the home of the bride's uncle, Robert F. Hopwood, here to-night. It has been just one month and eighteen days since the death of Mr. Gates's father, which was five days after the son received his divorce from his first wife.

The Rev. Dr. J. W. Lagrone of Port Arthur, Texas, read the ceremony. Miss Hopwood was attended by Miss Margaret Clemens of Charles City, Iowa, and Wayne Bogue of Detroit was the best man. Miss Hopwood was gowned in white satin trimmed with duchesse lace, and Miss Clemens wore a gown of pink marquisette over pink satin. Following the wedding a dinner was served to the seventy-five guests, which included only the close friends and relatives of Miss Hopwood and Mr. Gates.

Mr. and Mrs. Gates left to-night over the Pennsylvania Railroad in a special train for a wedding trip throughout the United States. They will be in Port Arthur, Texas, within six weeks, and after Nov. 1 will make their home in the Hotel Plaza, New York.

Among the presents that Mrs. Charles G. Gates received were a diamond necklace, a rope of pearls, diamond earrings, two diamond rings, and a diamond pin from her husband, and Mrs. John W. Gates presented her with more than 700 pieces of silverware, which included a dinner set, tea set, and chest of knives and forks.

Mrs. John W. Gates, mother of the bridegroom, arrived at noon to-day, and will leave for her home in New York in the morning. She was met at the station by her son, his bride-elect, and Dr. Lagrone. After greeting her son and Miss Hopwood she grasped the clergyman's hands and kissed him.

The wedding guests included Mrs. John W. Gates, Mrs. C. L. Gurney, Mrs. L. E. Beaham, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Frink, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Hopwood, parents of the bride, Minneapolis, and Miss Edna M. Bunnell, St. Cloud, Minn.

EX-CORNELL ATHLETE WEDS.

Jack Carpenter, Olympic Runner, Married to Miss Laura Elliott.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Cornell circles were interested to-day in the marriage here of Miss Laura Elliott of this city and Jack Carpenter, the ex-Cornell and Olympic team runner, who is now a patent attorney in Chicago. The wedding was the climax to a college romance which began when Carpenter was a student on the hill.

Carpenter won the half-mile intercollegiate championship in 1906, and in 1908 got first place in the race at the Olympic games, only to be disqualified because of the protest of Lieut. Halswell, the English contestant. After leaving the university Carpenter studied law in George Washington University. His father is Frank G. Carpenter, the well-known traveler and Washington newspaper man.

MISS MARTHA MORGAN WEDS.

Married to John C. Wheeler at Summer Home of Her Uncle.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 27.—Miss Martha Morgan of New York was married this afternoon at 3:30 to John Charles Wheeler of Corning, N. Y., at the Summer residence of her uncle, Dr. Samuel M. Evans, at Wallack's Point. There were 100 guests.

The bride wore a dress of white embroidered satin with rose point lace and a tulle veil with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias.

Mrs. Frederick Pierce Fox of White Plains was matron of honor. Miss Ruth Morgan, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. The best man was W. Orren Underhill of Corning, N. Y. There were two ushers—Dr. Walter Lundblad of Corning, N. Y., and Frederick Pierce Fox of White Plains. The bride's uncle, Dr. Samuel M. Evans, gave her away. Another uncle, the Rev. Dr. Anthony H. Evans of New York, performed the ceremony. The house was prettily decorated.

MISS DELY WESTON A BRIDE.

Married to Robert Annan of London at Her Parents' Home.

The wedding of Miss Dely Weston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Weston, and Robert Annan of London took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 73 East Seventy-ninth Street. The Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church officiated.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was unattended. Russell Jones of this city was best man.

After a small reception the couple left on their bridal trip. They will reside in this city on their return. Mr. Anna's home in London is at 16 Gloucester Square, Hyde Park.

Miss Ellis, Bride of C. H. Topping.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Langhorne Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Munford Ellis of Virginia, to Charles Henry Topping of this city took place last evening at Madison, the home of the bride's parents, near Shawsville, Va.

The bride wore ivory satin, point lace and pearls, and carried lilies of the valley. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ellis received with the bride and bridegroom. Miss H. Olive Trowbridge of New York City was maid of honor and the Misses Pearl Leila and Cornelia Ellis, sisters of the bride, and Polly Cloyd, a cousin, were the bridesmaids. Fred L. Goddard of New York was best man and Tyler and Gardiner Ellis, John Cloyd, and Allen Eskridge were the ushers. Miss Ellis's mother was a member of the Langhorne family of Virginia. The present Mrs. Ellis is a daughter of President Tyler. Mr. Topping is a member of a law firm of this city and belongs to the National Arts, Marine and Field, Dyker Meadow, and other clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. Topping will reside at 345 West Seventieth Street, New York, and will be at home after Oct. 1.

Miss Lillian Maas Weds H. D. Hach.

Miss Lillian Maas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Maas of 341 East Forty-sixth Street, and Henry D. Hach of this city, were married at 7:30 last evening in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, by the Rev. Herbert Shipman.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss May Haas. Frank Walters, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception was held after the church ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

To-day's Weddings.

Miss Christina Elder McLintock, daughter of Mrs. Robert D. McLintock, and Henry H. Drysen will be married to-day at the Fourth Presbyterian Church. A reception will be held at Bretton Hall.

Miss Edna Reckendorfer and Louis J. Grumbach will be married at noon to-day at the villa of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Reckendorfer, at Elberon, N. J. The ceremony will be followed by a breakfast. Mr. Grumbach is a junior partner in the banking house of Speyer & Co., this city.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Miss Lota Robinson will leave New York Oct. 1 for the Virginia Hot Springs to spend the month there.

Mrs. Theodore Shonts and her daughter, the Duchess de Chaulnes, will remain at Tuxedo until the end of November, when they will return to New York. Mrs. Shonts intends taking a house in town this Winter.

Mrs. E. P. Cronkhite of 337 West Seventy-seventh Street is giving a small dance at Sherry's on Jan. 5 for her daughter, Miss Anna Cronkhite, whose coming-out reception will take place Dec. 8.

Mrs. Eli Whitney of New Haven, Conn., is in town for a short visit, and is at the Hotel Manhattan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peabody have returned from Islesboro, Me., and are now at their place at Cold Spring Harbor for the Autumn.

Prof. and Mrs. Charles F. Chandler have closed their country home at New Hartford, Conn., and have come to town for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor Varnum and Miss Justine Ingersoll, who are spending the Autmun at Southampton, will be at 31 East Fifty-ninth Street this Winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff, Jr., will open their town house, 24 East Fifty-fourth Street, early in October.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dinsmore came from Tuxedo Park yesterday, and are at the Belmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Conde Nast will return from Newport to-day for the Winter.

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly and Miss Eugenia Kelly have returned from Europe, and will be at the Hotel Gotham for an extended visit.

Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs has closed Rosecliff, at Newport, and, with her son, Hermann Oelrichs, has returned to New York.

The annual entertainment for the benefit of Robin's Nest, a home for crippled children at Tarrytown, N. Y., will be given on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 7, at the Irvington Town Hall, under the management of Mrs. Reginald Jaffray, Mrs. Melchoir Beltzhoover, Mrs. Edwin Gould, Mrs. Stephen C. Millett, and Mrs. Howard Carroll.

BABIES AT PURE FOOD SHOW.

Woman's Love of Color Largely the Cause of Adulterations.

They had twins at the Pure Food Show yesterday, Mary and Elizabeth, and the nurses at the "Reduction of Infant Mortality" booth were afraid Elizabeth had been sampling ketchup-aux-crackers, pickles à la toothpick, pure-food-American-make milk chocolate, or some of the other free delicacies. At any rate, Elizabeth, who is a very small morsel of humanity, squirmed in a way that implied to the experienced that she had a pain in her tum-tum, and that might mean a reflection not only upon pure food but the committee.

However, it was the first visit of both Mary and Elizabeth, who were "three months old the 24th of this month," as their mother said, and the members of the committee with properly prepared milk are going to try to build them up.

Women's love for pretty colors in their foodstuffs as well as in their bonnets is one cause of food adulterations, Dr. J. S. Abbott, Food and Drug Commissioner of Texas, said at the Pure Food Congress yesterday. The woman wants "greeny green English peas," he says, "and so a courteous Frenchman hunts up some copper sulphate to fix the original pea color; she wants snowy-white flour, and the miller bleaches it with oxides of nitrogen; she is not satisfied unless her pickles are made crisp and brittle with alum; she shops until she gets sausage colored brown with bismuth, with which the butcher paints it, instead of the nondescript color of cooked meat, and she won't have her dried fruits in that same nice warm brown color when it is natural, and so they are bleached with oxide of sulphur."

They had a sample of food dyes in a baby's little undershirt yesterday. It was turned a brilliant scarlet with the coloring matter used in some strawberry preserves and pink lemonade.

MME. BONAPARTE ILL.

Brought to Washington from Bar Harbor in a Special Car.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Mme. Jerome Bonaparte, widow of Col. Jerome Bonaparte, grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, the brother of the first Napoleon, is seriously ill at the Bonaparte residence, 1,627 K Street, in this city. She was brought to Washington on Monday from her Summer home at Bar Harbor in a special car.

Mme. Bonaparte's maiden name was Caroline Le Roy Appleton and her home was in Boston. She is a granddaughter of Daniel Webster. Her first husband was Newbold Edgar, and her two children by this marriage are Commander Webster A. Edgar, U. S. N., and Miss Constance Edgar, who is a nun of the Visitation Order in Baltimore, Md. Mme. Bonaparte's marriage to Col. Bonaparte took place in 1871 and their children are Jerome N. Bonaparte and Countess von Moltke Huitfeldt.

NEW HOME FOR ALLAN RYAN.

Leases J. B. Lippincott's House Near Colorado Springs.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 27.—Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas Ryan, the New York millionaire, has leased the residence of Jay B. Lippincott at Broadmoor, and will make his home there for several months, if not permanently.

Reports circulated from New York that Mr. Ryan is seriously ill are exaggerated. It is understood, however, that he came here for his health, and has rapidly gained in strength. He frequently takes rides on horseback.

Broadmoor is a fashionable suburb six miles southwest of this city, and is situated on the elevated plateau lying at the eastern base of Cheyenne Mountain and at the mouth of Cheyenne Cañon.

Mr. Lippincott is a member of the Philadelphia publishing house. He came here for his health several years ago, and is now in business as a real estate agent.

Mrs. Taft Entertaining Her Sister.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 27.—After spending the Summer at Isleboro, Me., where she has a Summer home, Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin of Pittsburgh arrived to-day at Parramatta for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Taft. Robert A. Taft, son of the President, who toured Europe this Summer, is expected home from his trip this week and will commence his second year at the Harvard Law School.

Irving Place Theatre Opens Saturday.

The Irving Place Theatre, under the management of Gustav Amberg, will open its season next Saturday night with a performance of a farcical comedy, "Der Doppelmensch," by Jacoby and Lippschitz. Henry Bender, formerly of the Metropol Theatre, Berlin, will make his first appearance in New York in the principal rôle. The play, in an adapted form, was given here two seasons ago by Louis Mann. In Mr. Bender's supporting company will be Marie Hertzka, a popular soubrette of the German stage.

It was just 10:45 last night by the village clock when that highly important and impressive international function—the introduction of Mlle. Gaby Deslys—was effected in the Winter Garden, the ceremonies immediately preceding her appearance including among other highly appropriate incidents the appearance of a trick donkey, a black-faced comic, and various other more or less familiar ingredients of what the programme eloquently describes as the "Continental Idea of Variete." Further, the programme described Mlle. Gaby as a "famous Parisienne comedienne," and that there might be no mistake about it, her appearance was made in a comedietta, during the progress of which she was enabled to display, besides her luxurious garments, her jewels, and her beauty, whatever talents histrionic, terpsichoric, and dramatic she possesses.

It may be frankly admitted at the outset that the little lady is beautiful, with a sort of roseleaf beauty as to face, and one so piquantly expressive that even the imperfection of one or two of her features cannot destroy the charm. Mlle. Gaby's upper lip is too short for the perfect face, and her nose is not particularly well shaped, but she has good eyes and a good mouth, seemingly perfect teeth, and a smile and manner which can be quite alluring, a fact, indeed, which has been amply proved. Her figure is most lovely, and she has a pair of arms and hands that would delight any sculptor.

As for her singing, her dancing, and her acting, they are no better and no worse than those of many other music-hall performers—considerably better than much that passes muster on the stage, and yet in no sense a revelation of extraordinary talent. Women will be most interested, of course, in Mlle. Gaby's gowns, the sketch providing opportunity for the display of three or four of which no more description will be attempted in this place than the mere mention that they are very beautiful. The famous pearls were in evidence, of course.

Probably as a kindly-meant concession to her new audience, the sketch "Les Débuts de Chicine," written in French, had been intertarded with occasional bits of English slang—and in one of her songs Mlle. Gaby sang in English. At such moments she had quite "a taking way" with her, the broken speech adding considerably to her piquancy. Chicine is a little Parisian butterfly, who desires to go on the stage, and who is apparently ready to market her affection to the man who can provide her with an opportunity to satisfy that particular ambition.

A dancing master, a singing teacher, and a wealthy Englishman are rivals for her interest, the last named finally winning her after a scene in which she has changed from walking dress to ballet costume and then to one more convenient for retiring, though not cut exactly what might be called the prevailing robe de nuit mode. At this point the act shows signs of local influences, the spice, which presumably enters into such things in Paris being discreetly omitted.

It only remains to be mentioned that Mlle. Gaby was greeted most enthusiastically, that the curtain calls were numerous and hearty, and that, in the vernacular of Broadway, she undoubtedly "got over."

What preceded her appearance in the so-called Revue of Revues was mostly unimportant, showing in many places the need of more rehearsals and much pruning, and calling loudly for interpolations of better songs and better lines and business. It was presumably a satire on current shows and current events, but except in rare moments there was little humor to the satire, even when it was intelligible. A number of well-known performers have been corralled for the show, and with time, material, and more rehearsals, they ought to be able to make it moderately interesting.

As it stands the best feature up to a late hour had been a recruit from the vaudevilles. Frank Tinney, whose method of making fun is absolutely fresh and unique and stamps him as a really brilliant performer in his line. He had the audience in shrieks of mirth from the moment he first came on to the close, and, holding the stage for possibly twenty minutes, he filled each one of them with a big, hearty laugh. Mr. Tinney is the best cure for the blues that has appeared in many a long day.

Adding her rough humor to the performance, Kate Elinore managed occasionally to relieve the earlier part of the show, which was mostly slow and dull, and Lydia Barry, with a couple of good songs and imitations, also helped some. Dorothy Jardon added picturesqueness and grace and wore some extraordinarily striking costumes. Several of the dancing numbers were distinguished chiefly by reason of the remarkable daring and beautiful color combinations which Melville Ellis has designed. Of these a series of bathing suits in pastel shades and tricked out with varicolored bows were possibly most fetching. They served in an ensemble number with some very pretty dancing evolutions.

The show also included a Japanese operetta of no particular importance but which had some agreeable music by Louis Ganne and some attractive ballet dancing by Mlle. Rasch and Revo, both pretty, graceful women. Maude Raymond, James Carson, and Al Jolson, all good performers, did well what little they had to do. Their material, however, was not of a sort to make much of an impression.

But when all is said and done it is Mlle. Gaby who is depended upon to draw people to this new Winter Garden show, and until the novelty wears off she will probably prove a magnet.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Astor at the Theatre

Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor were in the audience at the Knickerbocker Theatre last night. They came alone to the theatre and occupied two orchestra chairs during the performance of "The Siren."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The cast of "The Enchantress," in which Kitty Gordon is to be starred by Joseph M. Gaites, will include Nellie McCoy, Hattie Arnold, Ida and Venita Fitz Hugh, Louise Bliss, Harold Ford, Ralph Riggs, Gilbert Clayton, Harrison Brockback, George Cummings, and Bertram Fox.

Charles Frohman has taken the rights to the comedy, "The Marionettes," in which Sir John Hare and Marie Lohr opened in London last Monday night. The piece is an adaptation by Gladys Unger of a comedy by Pierre Veber.

This will be Army and Navy night at the Herald Square Theatre, when about a hundred members of each branch of the service will attend the Kinemacolor exhibition. Invitations have been accepted by officers of the various battleships now in port, and by the officers at Governors Island.

Alan Mudie, who appeared here last in "The Arcadians," will play the role of Malipote in "The Siren" to-night, replacing Pope Stamper. In "The Arcadians" Mr. Mudie and Miss Sanderson had the song and dance, "Charming Weather," together.

HENRY McBURNEY MARRIED.

Eldest Son of Dr. Charles McBurney Weds Miss Rundall in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—An Anglo-American wedding was solemnized to-day in Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, when Henry McBurney, the eldest son of Dr. Charles McBurney of New York, led to the altar Dorothy Lillian Rundall, daughter of Col. F. M. Rundall of the British Army. The officiating clergy included the Bishop of Lahore and the Rev. Dr. Bickersteth, Vicar of Leeds, the latter the bride's uncle.

The bride wore a white satin dress trimmed with real Limerick lace. Her father gave her away, while Capt. Rundall of the Indian Army, a brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The honeymoon is being spent in Devonshire, after which Mr. and Mrs. McBurney will sail for New York, to take up their residence. The young couple met four years ago at the Winter sports in Montana, Switzerland. Their engagement was announced last May. The presents were costly, and included a magnificent pearl necklace from the bridegroom's mother, which was the only ornament worn by the bride at to-day's ceremony. No immediate member of the bridegroom's family was present owing to not being able to leave New York.

The engagement of Miss Rundall and Mr. McBurney was announced in THE TIMES last May. Miss Rundall is a granddaughter of the late Gen. F. H. Rundall. Her father has been repeatedly honored for distinguished service in the British Army, especially in the Far East. He conducted operations against Hankow, China, in 1891.

Mr. McBurney is a graduate of Harvard, class of '98, and is a member of the University and Racquet and Tennis Clubs. His father, Dr. McBurney, was one of the surgeons called in consultation over President McKinley. The McBurney city residence is at 38 East Thirty-first Street, and their country place is at Stockbridge, Mass.

WILL MARRY A COUNTESS.

John D. Nichols, Rector's Son, to Wed Daughter of Count von Beylandt.

The engagement has been confirmed of John Donaldson Nichols, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry P. Nichols of this city, to the Countess von Beylandt, daughter of Count von Beylandt, a member of the Dutch Parliament.

Mr. Nichols was graduated from Harvard, class of '06, and is a well-known football player. He met the Countess while on a steamer bound for Europe. His father is rector of Holy Trinity, Lenox Avenue and 122d Street.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Henderson to Wed J. R. Swan.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Nathalie Henderson, a daughter of the late Charles R. Henderson of New York and Southampton, to Joseph R. Swan of Albany, N. Y. Miss Henderson was introduced to society about three years ago. Mrs. N. Thayer Robb is her sister.

Mr. Swan is a graduate of Yale, class of '02, and is engaged in the practice of law in this city. The marriage of his sister, Miss Lois Swan, to Richard Lawrence of Groton, Mass., and this city, which took place on Tuesday in London, was announced in these columns yesterday.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Thomas Orchestra Will Play Here.

The Theodore Thomas Orchestra of Chicago will play in New York this Winter, it was announced yesterday. This will be the first visit of the Chicago men here in thirteen years. At that time Theodore Thomas was the conductor. Frederick Stock, the present conductor, whose works have sometimes appeared on New York programmes, will, of course, direct the present concert, which will be given at Carnegie Hall on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 13. This will be Mr. Stock's first appearance as a conductor before a New York audience.

Forty Ministers See "A Man of Honor."

A special clergyman's matinée of "A Man of Honor" was given at Weber's Theatre yesterday afternoon, in honor of the play's author, the Rev. Dr. Isaac Landman, a rabbi of Philadelphia. There were forty ministers of various denominations present, and Dr. Landman was asked to make a speech at the end of the second act. None of the other clergymen cared to take advantage of the opportunity to express their views.

FOLIES BERGERE TO END BRIEF CAREER

Restaurant-Theatre Experiment Proves a Failure—"Ahead of Its Time," Says H. B. Harris.

WILL REOPEN AS THEATRE

Its Name to be Changed—Last Performance of Revues and Cabaret Show to be Given Saturday.

Next Saturday night will see the last of the Folies Bergere as a restaurant-theatre. The experiment has failed, and the managing directors, Henry B. Harris and Jesse L. Lasky, have decided to withdraw the present production on Sept. 30 and to close the house for the time being.

This statement from Mr. Harris yesterday follows up a series of pessimistic predictions made along Broadway ever since the Folies Bergere opened last Spring. People liked the idea of a restaurant with a stage attached, or vise versa, but the public did not patronize the venture to such an extent as to warrant keeping it going. Mr. Harris said yesterday that he feels that the Folies Bergere is an institution ahead of its time—that the day will come in the course of several years when New York will liberally patronize a theatre playing musical attractions in connection with a restaurant.

After Saturday Mr. Harris will assume full control of the house, and will begin alterations immediately to convert it into a regular theatre. He will make an announcement in a few days as to the date of opening, the name to be given the house, and the nature of the initial production. Hereafter Mr. Harris intends to devote his energies entirely to the production of dramatic and musical pieces.

The Folies Bergere, with its auditorium full of tables, and its kitchens and restaurant service, opened last May with a musical attraction composed of two "revues" and a ballet. These composed the regular programme, and were followed by a "cabaret" show that lasted until 1 in the morning and consisted of a series of vaudeville acts. After a short Summer vacation the same attraction returned to the theatre in August, and was replaced last week by another production called "Hello, Paris!" and "A la Broadway." This was not very well received by the critics. The original production is now on tour.

DEVLIN BURIED WITH HONORS

Thousands with Bared Heads as Battalion Chief's Funeral Passes.

The funeral of Battalion Chief William Devlin, who died in St. Vincent's Hospital on Sunday last as the result of injuries received while he was fighting a fire on the night of Sept. 21 took place yesterday with departmental honors. The procession started from the Church of the Blessed Sacrament at West New Brighton, S. I., passed up Broadway, Park Row, the Bowery, and over the Williamsburg Bridge to Calvary Cemetery in Brooklyn.

The little church at West New Brighton was crowded. A requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Mulcahey and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Crogan. Preceding the hearse up Broadway were three carriages containing city officials, while two more followed containing flowers. When the cortège reached Fulton Street it was met by Hook and Ladder Company 10 under the command of Capt. McCanbley. The members of the company stood at attention, and as the hearse passed the firemen bared their heads, while the bell on the fire truck was softly tolled. Thousands of spectators on the sidewalks stood with bared heads as the funeral passed.

In the procession were six companies of ten men each and each commanded by its Captain. The standards of the Fire Department, draped in black, followed, and each fireman wore a wide band of mourning on his arm. Among the many floral pieces was a huge one sent by the members of the department bearing the words, "The Gates Ajar."

William M. Foster.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Sept. 27.—William M. Foster, a pioneer resident, a former Postmaster, and a civil war veteran, died yesterday morning of stomach trouble after a long illness at the home of his son, Judge John E. Foster of the Common Pleas Court of Monmouth County. He was in his seventy-fourth year, having been born at Allaire, Jan. 11, 1837. After the civil war Mr. Foster returned to Port Monmouth and engaged in the steamboat business. In 1880 he moved to this place, then called Bay View, and built the first house and excursion building here. Later he was in the real estate and insurance business, which he continued up to the time of his death. Mr. Foster was among the organizers of the Borough of Atlantic Highlands. He was a member of the Foresters and Knights of Pythias, and was Commander of Clinton B. Fisk Post, G. A. R. His wife, who was Lydia A. Smith, died in 1873. Mr. Foster, besides his son, Judge Foster, leaves two other sons, Lewis H. and Murray Foster.

Mrs. Broome aided charities of Grace Church and helped to support a missionary in Alaska.

EX.-GOV. F. D. PROCTOR DEAD.

Son of Late Senator Proctor of Vermont Was a Progressive Governor.

PROCTOR, Vt., Sept. 27.—Fletcher Dutton Proctor, former Governor of Vermont, died to-day at his home, after a long illness. He was born in Cavendish, Vt., on Nov. 7, 1860, and was the son of the late United States Senator Redfield Proctor and Emily Dutton Proctor. He was graduated from Amherst in 1882. On leaving college he became connected with the marble quarrying business carried on by his father, and when the latter entered the Cabinet of President Harrison in 1889, he succeeded his father to the Presidency of the marble company.

In 1890 Mr. Proctor was elected a member of the Vermont House of Representatives, and in 1892 to its Senate. In 1900 he was elected a Representative in Congress, serving as Speaker in that year, and remaining in Congress until 1904.

In 1902 Mr. Proctor was the third Republican candidate whose name went before the memorable Republican State Convention held at Montpelier that year. Before the third ballot was taken Mr. Proctor's friends withdrew his name and his supporters decided to support Gen. John G. McCullough of Bennington. The supporters of Percival W. Clement of Rutland, the other candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, withdrew from the convention and later held a convention at which Mr. Clements was nominated. Consequently, McCullough and Clement, both running as Republicans, contested for the Governorship, but as neither was able to secure a majority of the total vote, as the Vermont law required to elect, the matter went before the Legislature, which chose Gen. McCullough.

Four years later, however, in 1906, Mr. Proctor was nominated and elected Governor of Vermont. During his term of office, 1906-08, many progressive movements that are now part of the State policy, like forestry, improved highways, and skilled supervision, had their beginning in Vermont.

Mr. Proctor was married in 1886 to Minnie E. Robinson of Westford, Vt., who survives him. He leaves also a son and two daughters, Mortimer R., aged 22, a student at Yale; Emily, aged 24, and Minnie, aged 16.

On June 24, 1910, Mr. Proctor signalized the twenty-first birthday of his son, Mortimer R. Proctor, by presenting him with an entire mountain top, consisting of 1,000 acres, at a height of 3,900 feet, on Pico Peak, the fourth highest peak of the Green Mountains. The presentation was made in the form of a deed engrossed after the Roman style. It was understood that the heavy timber covering the mountain top would continue to be spared from the axe, and the acreage would be used as a game preserve.

OLD GOLFERS FEEL YOUNG ON LINKS

200 Veterans Who Have Passed Their Fifty-fifth Year Play in Annual Tournament.

REFUTE DR. OSLER THEORY

Seth Low, Justice Gummere, Marshall Mallory, and Simeon Ford Among Contestants at Apawamis.

Pet theories as to the time a man becomes old were given a rude shock yesterday when nearly 200 men, ordinarily assigned to the "elderly" list, teed off in the seventh annual seniors' tournament over the links of the Apawamis Club at Rye, every one of them being not less than 55 years of age. Dr. Osler was absolutely refuted, his theories being buried deep beneath the sod of implied sarcasm. A man of 40 Winters chloroformed? Nonsense, said the seniors in action, if not in word.

Just for good measure in the estimate of 40 W. J. Boardman, who makes Chevy Chase his home links, came all the way from Washington with eighty years on his straight shoulders to play in the tournament. He was the dean of the event. He was paired with Gen. Adelbert Ames, also of the National capital. Alexander Milne, a canny Scot, will shortly celebrate the turning of the four-score mark. Henry Stoddard, one of Connecticut's eminent lawyers, was another to add his testimony that a man is merely as old as he feels.

Men of prominence in all walks of life and from all parts of the United States were on deck or rather on the course. Chief Justice Gummere of Newark, Marshall Mallory of The Churchman, Simeon Ford, the humorist; Seth Low, former Mayor and one time President of Columbia University, and so on in array almost numberless, all with the one idea of giving Father Time a taste of the slapstick.

It was noticeable that the "young fellers" were a bit shy on the full swing. Long since they have given up the idea of trying to emulate the example of precocious youth, who thinks little of winding the club about his neck and unwinding it with equal ease, though often paying the cost of inaccuracy in his desire to get distance. Most of the sages were satisfied merely to take a half or three-quarters stroke and let it go at that. Frank A. Wright of Baltusrol so abbreviated his swing that it remains somewhat of a mystery as to how the ball travels as far as it does.

Amory J. Hodges of Garden City, a banker, won the net score honors yesterday with a card of 87, 9—78, two strokes in the lead of Judge Gummere. J. D. Foot of Apawamis, the scratch man of the tournament, was fourth, with a score of 82.

The main committee in charge consisted of Horace L. Hotchkiss, Chairman; Edmund C. Converse, Simeon Ford, James D. Foot, and Samuel W. Brown. Converse was an absentee, being called to Canada on business. There were auxiliary committees, such as Entertainment, Reception, and Golf. Henry Pool worked like a Major in getting the pairs away and posting scores, and so did F. S. Keeler.

There are eight prizes in all, as follows: Best gross score, or glory prize, a gold fob; second best gross, a pair of decanters; best net score, coffee set and tray; second best net score, a pitcher; best net, first day's round, inkstand and tray; second best net, first day's round, a clock; best net, second day's round, chafing dish set, and second best net, second day's round, candlesticks.

Those fond of comparisons could not help contrasting yesterday's tournament with the National amateur championship affair held over the same links a couple of weeks ago. There were fewer starters in the National than in the seniors', yet the pairs in the last-named competition were all sent away promptly. In fact, the schedule was maintained to the minute, whereas in the National it was found absolutely impossible to keep anywhere near the announced schedule. One close observer explained this difference by declaring that the seniors got so much less distance than the "swipers" that more pairs were crowded between holes. One reason attributed to the high scores was that the course was several strokes harder than a year ago, when the firmer condition of the turf gave a long run to the ball. The scores were:

MRS. BARLOW'S GOLF PRIZE.

Philadelphia Woman Defeats Mrs. Earle in Deciding Match at Deal.

Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Philadelphia won the chief prize in the women's invitation golf tournament yesterday at the Deal Golf and Country Club by defeating Mrs. V. M. Earle of the home club, by 3 up and 1 to play, in the final round. The winner found it a difficult task to vanquish her opponent, although Mrs. Barlow has been outclassing the rest of the field during the previous rounds. Mrs. Earle made it evident that she is the kind of player that rises to the occasion and played an excellent article of golf all the way. Her chief trouble seemed to be her tendency to overplay her long puts, which lost the last two holes for her.

The first two holes were halved and on the third the Eastern champion broke the tie by winning in 5 to 6. On the fourth green matters were squared once more, Mrs. Earle winning 6 to 7. Mrs. Barlow again took the lead on the fifth, 5 to 6. Mrs. Earle's nervousness caused her to lose the next hole through missing a short put for a three. Mrs. Barlow played in her usual cool manner and was down in three. A lead of three holes was obtained by the Merion golfer on the seventh, and it began to look as if she might make a runaway match of it. Mrs. Earle got going at the eighth, which she won in three. At the 512-yard ninth she cut down the lead still further, making a 5 par for the hole. Mrs. Barlow had a 6. The latter was one up at the turn, the score reading 46 for the Philadelphia woman and 47 for her opponent.

Mrs. Barlow began the homeward journey well, taking the tenth hole in 4 to 5 and the eleventh in 5 to 6. Finding herself three down once more, Mrs. Earle began another winning streak and annexed the twelfth when her opponent tried to carry the ditch guarding the green with her brassie. At the short thirteenth hole both were on the green, although Mrs. Barlow was closer to the pin. Mrs. Earle laid her ball within an inch of the cup, while Mrs. Barlow overran and she missed the return put, giving the Deal woman the hole in 3 to 4. The advantage was lost at the next hole, however, Mrs. Barlow winning by two strokes, but it was regained at the fifteenth, when the Merion player once more was in the brook. An excellent put when her ball was half stymied won the hole for the Deal player. She might have won the sixteenth, which would have squared the match, had she not thrown away her chance by overplaying her approach put, and Mrs. Barlow, who had been trapped on her second, recovered well and won the hole. This left her dormie two. Mrs. Earle's putting was again off on the seventeenth, and her opponent took the hole in 3 to 5 and the match by 3 up and 1 to play.

The card follows:

Mrs. Barlow, out.....5 6 5 7 5 3 5 4 6—46
Mrs. Earle, out......5 6 6 6 6 4 6 3 5—47
Mrs. Barlow, in......4 5 7 4 5 6 5 3 x
Mrs. Earle, in.......5 6 6 3 7 5 6 5 x

LESLEY CUP GOLF MATCH.

Metropolitan and Pennsylvania Teams Clash at Nassau To-morrow.

Golf associations of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and the metropolitan district are going to call upon their foremost teams for the Lesley Cup matches at the Nassau Country Club on Friday and Saturday. Findlay S. Douglas, who is Captain of the metropolitan team this year, has in conjunction with the association's officials, apparently made a wise selection. Jerome D. Travers, the metropolitan title-holder, will play, and so will Gardiner W. White, neither of whom was on last year's team. Another new player will be C. W. Inslee, who reached the semi-final round of the National tournament at Apawamis recently.

The Massachusetts association, which won the cup for the first time a year ago at Myopia, is calling on such favorites as Henry C. Wilder, J. G. Anderson, and P. W. Whittemore, while among the prominent Pennsylvanians are W. C. Fownes, Jr., E. M. Byers, and H. W. Perrin. The Pennsylvania and Metropolitan teams will clash on Friday to see which will have the right to challenge Massachusetts. The teams are as follows:

Metropolitan—A. M. Reid, J. D. Travers, F. S. Douglas, Oswald Kirkby, G. P. Tiffany, W. J. Travis, John M. Ward, G. W. White, Max Behr, Fred Herreshoff, C. W. Inslee, and S. J. Graham.

Massachusetts—Henry H. Wilder, P. W. Whittemore, Percival Gilbert, F. H. Hoyt, F. R. Fuller, Francis Ouimet, R. W. Brown, W. C. Chick, H. W. Stucklen, J. G. Anderson, Henrich Schmidt, and R. R. Gorton.

Pennsylvania—W. C. Fownes, Jr., E. M. Byers, George Ormiston, F. E. Giles, George A. Crump, H. P. Smith, Henry Heyburn, C. B. Buxton, E. E. Satterthwaite, E. B. Humphreys, H. C. James, and H. W. Perrin.

GOLFER HILTON GOES HOME.

Briton Says Americans Applaud Home Players Too Much.

Harold H. Hilton, the English golf player, who won the National championship recently, was a passenger aboard the steamship Campania of the Cunard Line, which left here for Liverpool yesterday. Mr. Hilton won the qualification round and the amateur championship at Apawamis and the invitation tournament at Shinnecock Hills. He said that he would return to this country next year, after playing in England, to defend his title, won here this season.

Mr. Hilton said that he liked the Americans immensely, but could not altogether approve of their patriotism in the game of golf. He criticised it in a friendly way, saying that they shouted too much for America and not enough for the game itself. If Americans, he commented, would only recognize good playing, no matter who did the work, the game would be improved.

He said he had seen one game of baseball while here, the one between New York and Cleveland, and that even then the local patriotism was very apparent, for the Cleveland team won and the cheering was trifling, no matter how good the playing of the visitors.

YALE FRESHMEN WIN.

Down Sophomores in Wrestling—Clash on York Street a Draw.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 27.—The Yale Freshmen were victors in the annual sophomore-freshman wrestling here to-night, preceding the opening of the university to-morrow. The freshmen took the light-weight and middle-weight events, but lost the heavy-weight. The contests were held in the college yard under direction of the "Y" men of the senior academic class. In the light-weight match D. K. McDonald, 1915, who comes from St. Paul's School, won from O. M. Stafford, Jr., 1914, of Cleveland, Ohio.

In the middleweight N. H. Osborn, 1915, of New Haven defeated W. J. Schieflein, 1914, of New York City.

In the heavy-weight match, J. H. McHenry, 1914, of Baltimore, Md., defeated Sidney Yorke, 1915, of Philadelphia.

Following the wrestling came the annual clash on York Street, between the sophomores and freshmen, which while brisk during the few moments it lasted left honors even.

YALE WINS FIRST GAME ON GRIDIRON

Wesleyan Vanquished Without Even Becoming Dangerous Opponents at Any Time.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 27.—The Yale eleven marked the opening of its football season here this afternoon by defeating the Wesleyan team 21 to 0. The visitors were unable to carry the ball into Yale territory until the fourth period, when an entirely new line-up faced them. The local collegians displayed excellent early season form and handled the forward pass several times successfully and without permitting Wesleyan to become dangerous at any time. Capt. Howe, with his punting and brilliant runs, Philbin and Merritt, with Francis, who kicked all the goals, were the point winners for Yale, one of Howe's tallies being a goal from the field. Bacon, quarter back, was easily the star for Wesleyan. The line-up:

Yale.	Position.	Wesleyan.
D. Bomeisler, L. Bomeisler	Left End	Diamond, McCarthy
Francis	Left Guard	Durling
Ketcham, Loree	Centre	Whiting, Murphy
McDevitt, Childs	Right Guard	Gillies
Warren, Harding	Right Tackle	Mittell, Parkinson
W. Howe, Gallauer	Right End	Eustis
A. Howe, Merritt	Quarter Back	Bacon
Reilly, Anderson	Left Half Back	Wentworth, Laggrenn
Spaulding, Mitchell	Right Half Back	Johnson
Philbin, Church	Full Back	Pettigrew

Touchdowns—A. Howe, Philbin, Merritt. Goals from touchdown—Francis, 3. Goal from field—A. Howe. Referee—Evans, Williams. Umpire—Torrey, Pennsylvania. Field Judge—Fultz, Brown. Head Linesman—Hull, Yale. Time of periods—Eight minutes.

TO PLAY ON FRANKLIN FIELD.

Army and Navy Football Game in Philadelphia, Nov. 25.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27. — Official announcement was made to-day by Dr. J. William White that the football game between the Army and the Navy this season will be played on Franklin Field on Nov. 25, the Saturday before Thanksgiving Day.

This announcement sets at rest all rumors to the effect that the big football match between West Point and Annapolis would be staged on a gridiron other than that of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. White has had charge of the arrangements for games between the Army and Navy played here in previous years, and his announcement to-day is the first official declaration regarding this year's game. The allotment of tickets will be the same as in former years, the proceeds of those sold by the university representatives going to Army and Navy charities.

HITCHCOCK AS A TACKLE.

Old Freshman Guard Likely to Win Place on Harvard Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 27.—The work for the Harvard football men today comprised a long, hard drill for the middle linemen, ends, and backs under their respective coaches, and then an hour's hard and fast signal drill. Coach Haughton was not out, and after the hard playing of the past few days, Trainer Donovan decided to give the men a let-up, and prepare them for some hard work to-morrow. The opening game with Bates comes Saturday, and there will be no scrimmaging on Friday. Therefore, to-morrow's practice will be strenuous. Capt. Fisher, besides having decided to play at guard, has found, he thinks, a good man to play opposite him on the left wing. He is Keays, a strapping fellow, who was on the squad last year, but who has improved wonderfully.

Hitchcock, guard on the freshmen last Fall, has proved so powerful and active that he will be used at tackle. Huntington or Storer both are coming along very fast at centre, so that for the present, at least, the Crimson has a first-class rush line in sight. Howard and O'Brien, and particularly the latter, have been making satisfactory progress at end. The rush line looked very trim to-day, and the coaches are encouraged. Reynolds, a fast back from the 1914 team, will help coach this year's freshmen, as he will not be able to play, while there is some doubt whether Ted Frothingham, Harvard's dropkicker last Fall, will be in shape to get into the game for a time yet.

Cornell Wins Easy Victory.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Cornell easily won its opening game of the football season from Allegheny to-day by a score of 35 to 0. Although the Ithacans outplayed their opponents at all times, keeping them from making even a first down, local observers saw many points in the play which indicated need of more development in some departments.

Forward passes and a delayed pass were used to good effect several times, and Butler's kicking and general work was the feature. He made the first score of the season with a field goal from the thirty-yard line. Hawkins and O'Connor made two touchdowns in the first half by clever runs, and Fritz, who was substituted for Hawkins in the third period, circled the left end like a whirlwind twice for touchdowns. The other touchdown was mainly due to a seventy-yard run, Whyte carrying the ball over.

Champaign injured his leg badly in a scrimmage, and will be out of the game for some time. The line-up:

Cornell.	Position.	Allegheny.
Eyrich, Rees	L. E.	Pierson, Weller
Munk, Capt.	L. T.	C. M. Dotterrer
O'Rourke	L. G.	Bodenhorn, Wyler
Weidenthal	C.	Abbott

Dartmouth Wins; Prone to Fumble.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 27.—Dartmouth merged from a soaking gridiron to-day the winner against Norwich University by a score of 18 to 3 in the first football game of its season. The Green showed a sturdy line and a strong back field, although the latter fumbled repeatedly, losing the ball near the Norwich goal line twice. A drizzle of rain fell during the game. The line-up and summary:

Dartmouth.	Position.	Norwich.
Gibson	Centre	Connord
Beer, Harrison	Right guard	Burch
Barends, Margeson	Right tackle	Alvoyd
Dunbar, Ahlswede	Right end	McGovern, Hemenway
Llewellyn, Hogsett	Quarter back	Colburn, Thompson
Dudley, Estet	Left half back	Durwell
Morey, Dana	Right half back	Kelley
Loudon, Snow	Full back	Underhill

Touchdowns—Hogsett, Dudley. Goals from touchdowns—Barends, 2. Goals from field—Barends, 2; Alvoyd. Referee—Nate Tufts, Waltham. Umpire—Mr. Burke. Field judge—Mr. Burleigh. Time—Four ten-minute periods.

Bill Edwards Helps Coach Tigers.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 27.—Bill Edwards, 1900, Street Cleaning Commissioner of New York, to-day paid the Tiger football squad a visit. The guard and centre candidates were bunched around him for a conference preliminary to a long scrimmage drill, and then "Big Bill" got his first look at them in action. McLean and Winants got the call at the guard position, with Bluethenthal between them. A miserable showing by Winants at right guard on the offensive caused his shift to the scrubs. Swann replaced him. The Tiger line could not open holes for the backs, and during a five-minute defensive drill the scrubs went through them easily and Baker kicked an easy goal for a score. Pendleton continued at quarter back to-day. He tried little open play, and most of the mass plays met with a stone wall defense. Doe Hughes, a scrub last year, was in at left half back for the greater part of the drill and handled himself well.

New York Billiardist Wins.

The New York team of the Greater New York three-cushioned carrom billiard tournament, won it's third consecutive victory over the Brooklyn team in the tournament at Keeney's Knickerbocker Billiard Academy last night when Ray Magnus, a Manhattan representative easily defeated Charles Otis, a Brooklyn player by the score of 40 to 26. The New York player was playing at the scratch mark, (forty points,) while Otis had to make thirty-five points in order to win the game.

ATLANTIC EXPRESS WINS RICH FUTURITY

$6,500 Horse Review Stakes Decided at Columbus Trotting Course.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 27.—A heavy downpour of rain spoiled what promised to be the most interesting afternoon of racing at the Fall trotting meeting here to-day.

The first event was the deciding heat of the three-year-old trotters in The Horse Review Futurity. Margaret Parish, Atlantic Express, and Mainleaf each had won a heat Tuesday. To-day Atlantic Express won easily, with Mainleaf second and Margaret Parish third. In the unfinished 2:10 trot, in which Creighton had won two heats and Chatty Direct and Binvolo one each on Tuesday, Chatty Direct took the fifth heat, and in the sixth heat came home handily, winning the race.

The first event on the regular card was the 2:07 pace. Longworth was the favorite, but Black Twister surprised everybody by taking the first heat. Tommy Murphy took the next two heats. The rain prevented the finish of the race.

The 2:11 pace for a stake of $3,000 found six contenders. Sir R., a favorite, won the first heat by a head. The second and third heats and the race were taken by Sir R.

Only one heat of the $5,000 stake for 2:12 trotters was raced to-day. R. T. C. won by a length from Lewis Forest. Dorothy Hansboro and Wilmering were distanced. The summaries:

MINEOLA FAIR RACING.

Big Crowd Attracted to Trotting and Pacing Contests.

The harness horse racing at the annual fair of the Agricultural Society of Queens and Nassau, held at Mineola, yesterday came in for the greatest attention, and drew a crowd of about 3,500 persons.

The 2:15 class pace for a purse of $1,000 proved the feature event and furnished good racing. C. E. Pitman's chestnut stallion, Foot Prince, after finishing second in the opening heat, led the way to the wire in the next three heats in good style.

The 2:22 trot resulted in a one-sided affair for Edward D. Hollenbeck's bay gelding, The Counsellor, which after starting against a field numbering eleven horses in the first heat, carried away the purse in straight heats.

In the 2:30 trot there was considerable trouble in starting the third heat. The field had only gone to the first turn, a distance of about 50 yards, when Prince Alcyoner and Laura Grattan came together on taking the turn. Nelson Varney, who handled the reins over Laura Grattan, was thrown from the sulky and dragged a short distance, but managed to get back in his seat again. W. M. Halstead, the other driver in the collision, managed to keep his seat and avoid danger. Lady Tilley, a bay mare driven by James Carpenter, did not show much speed at the start, finishing ninth and tenth in the first two heats, but in the three succeeding heats, warmed up to the task and led the way from the start, and won the race. The summary:

Mineola Horse Show Opens To-day.

Sixteen classes will be judged in the opening day's exhibition of the three-day horse show held in conjunction with the annual fair of the Agricultural Society of Queens and Nassau at Mineola, beginning to-day. Prominent exhibitors of Long Island and others of National fame will be seen in the various classes, and, judging from the large entry list, there will be keen competition. Every kind of show horse is catered to during the three days, and the ring will be occupied at different times with all types, from the diminutive pony, ridden by children, to the gigantic draft horse and breeding stock. The regular classes for harness horses, jumpers and hunters, park hacks, and polo ponies are also provided for with well-balanced fields.

Automobile Corporation Dissolved.

Supreme Court Justice Bijur yesterday signed an order dissolving the corporation known as the Licensed Automobile Dealers of the City of New York. The dealers were incorporated Feb. 18, 1910, by the Secretary of State to promote and encourage the introduction of automobiles and auto vehicles in the City of New York under the Selden patents. John F. Plummer was President, S. B. Bowman Vice President, and Charles P. Skinner Secretary and Treasurer. The petition for the dissolving of the corporation states that as the Selden patents have been held by the United States courts not to have the broad scope claimed for them and did not cover modern gasoline automobiles the value of the patents was destroyed and the purposes of the corporation made impossible of attainment.

Devoir Boy Wins Field Trial.

MOUNT VERNON, Wash., Sept. 27.—Devoir Boy, owned by George W. Parsons of Kennebunk, won the all-American field trial club derby here yesterday. He was handled by Jake Bishop of Rutherford, Ala. Melrose Bob, owned by J. W. Considine of Seattle, was second, and Bohemian Prince, owned by Courtney Ford of San Francisco, was third. The all-age stake, with thirty of the best dogs in America entered, was started, but the first series was unfinished when darkness fell.

COPPER MERGER UNTIMELY.

Trusts Not Desirable Playthings Just Now, Says Corey.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—William Ellis Corey, former President of the United States Steel Corporation, is in Chicago to-night a member of a party including John D. Ryan, President of the Amalgamated Copper Company; R. L. Agassiz of Hamilton, Mass., P. L. Foster of New York, and representatives of the Guggenheims of New York, and the Rothschilds of London. They have been making an inspection of copper properties in the Southwest. The Corey party held a three-hour conference to-night at the Blackstone Hotel with representatives of the copper industry.

"Trusts are not desirable playthings right now, and for this reason there will be no billion dollar trust formed," said Mr. Corey at the Blackstone. "No consolidation of copper properties is contemplated."

Messrs. Ryan, Agassiz, and Foster will leave for New York to-morrow morning, while Mr. Corey and a few friends will go to his hunting lodge in Michigan.

DENY AMERICAN SNUFF RIGHTS

Defendants in Action Contend Tobacco Subsidiary Is Outlawed.

The legal standing of the American Snuff Company, one of the subsidiary companies of the American Tobacco Company, was called in question yesterday in a motion brought by the Old Indian Snuff Mills before Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court. The American Snuff Company is contending that the Old Indian Snuff Mills has no rights to use the brand "Copenhagen."

Charles Dushkind, as counsel for the mills, in asking permisssion to file a supplemental answer to the suit, raised the point that as the highest court of the land had decreed that the American Tobacco Company was an unlawful monopoly, and has conspired in restraint of trade, it was impossible for it to prosecute such a suit through one of its subsidiaries.

"We now have the situation," he said, "where a complainant who had been convicted of conducting business in violation of the law, stands before a court of equity, and demands that the court grant it exclusive rights to continue its unlawful business by enjoining others from trading in the very article that the complainant has employed in monopolizing the industries, and crushing competition. Surely, a court of equity, will not protect a wrongdoer, and give him exclusive rights to continue wrong doing."

Judge Lacombe reserved decision.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 27.—The State Railroad Commission to-day acted favorably upon the application of the International and Great Northern Railroad to issue and register $13,700,000 bonds. T. J. Freeman, President of the road, told the commission that plans had been adopted for spending $3,000,000 for betterments upon the property.

GREAT NECK'S POLO CUP.

Second Team Beats Philadelphia Freebooters in Final Manhasset Match.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT NECK, L. I., Sept. 27.—By a score of 8¾ to 3 goals the Great Neck second polo team this evening won the last and final game for the Manhasset Cups from the Philadelphia Freebooters, and retained the trophy in their possession for another year. The total handicap of each team was 12 goals.

Both sides were determined to win the event, and the manner in which they went at the play was exciting throughout the eight periods. Both sides were good in their teamwork, but the combination plays of Grace and Webb for the Great Neck team brought rounds of applause for them, as time and again they would carry the sphere around the players, and by a little skillful dodging manage to score.

A large number of society people from Philadelphia were among the spectators on the clubhouse porch, and their applause was fully as strong as that of the home set.

While the visitors scored but three goals, they made many brilliant plays, but seemed a little off in direction, and could not hit as straight for goal as the Great Necks, which lost them the game. The line-up:

GREAT NECK 2D.	H'cap.	PHILADELPHIA.	H'cap.
1—J. S. Phipps	4	1—A. C. Schwartz	1
2—J. P. Grace	3	2—Walter McClure	3
3—J. Watson Webb	4	3—W. H. T. Huhn	4
Back—Gaspar Bacon	1	Back—C. R. Snowden	4
Total	12	Total	12

Great Neck by earned goals, 9; lost by penalties, ¼ goal; total, 8¾. Freebooters by earned goals, 3. Referee—H. H. Holmes. Scorer and Timer—J. Smith. Played eight periods of seven and a half minutes each.

MOTOR PARKWAY EXTENSION.

Opening of Western Section Postponed Until Next Year.

The management of the Long Island Motor Parkway announced yesterday that the westerly extension of this automobile highway, now under construction, will not be opened this Fall, since practically only one more month of automobiling will be done in this vicinity, and that it has been deemed advisable to wait until the Spring to dedicate it to the motoring public.

The extension, which is being made in a westerly direction toward Hillside Avenue, will bring the Parkway five miles nearer the city by avoiding detours, and will bring what will be known as the Rocky Hill Road Lodge to within a quarter of a mile of Hillside Avenue. When completed this extension will move the entrance to the Parkway practically to the gates of the city and will make a continuous private right of way for automobiles from Queensboro Bridge to Lake Ronkonkoma, in Suffolk County.

The Petit Trianon, at the easterly end of the Parkway, overlooking Lake Ronkonkoma, which William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., built for the comfort of users of the Parkway, will remain open until Nov. 1.

Crescent Tennis Drags Along.

After a long delay the final round of the Crescent A. C. singles championship has been completed, and the two players to earn their places on the bracket are W A. Campbell and Charles M. Bull, Jr. In gaining his position Campbell played J. S. Lodewick in the semi-final round of the top section of the draw. Campbell was on the edge from the very first stroke and captured the match in straight sets and with the score of 6—2, 6—0, 6—4.

The other events, such as the Classes A and B handicaps, are fast crawing to a close. In Class A, R. E. Lewers, whose handicap is minus half of fifteen, has worked his way to the final round in the top section of the draw. Three men have gained the semi-final round of Class B, and they are F. B. Richt, C. P. Robinson, and C. P. Cypiot. The summary:

Men's Singles, Semi-final Round—W. A. Campbell defeated J. S. Ledewick, 6—2, 6—0, 6—4.

Class A, Handicap, Singles.—First Round—H. C. Clinkenbroomer (scratch) defeated E. H. Bigelow, (minus half of 15,) by default; F. Escher (scratch) defeated E. H. Middlebrook, (scratch,) 7—5, 6—4; F. Robinson (scratch) defeated A. R. Neill, (scratch,) 6—3, 6—4; C. P. Lovell (minus 15) defeated H. B. Spencer, (minus half of 15,) 6—4, 6—2; A. B. Van Sault (minus half of 15) defeated J. W. Ivins, (minus 15,) by default; C. P. Cypiot (scratch) defeated C. A. McLean, (minus half of 15,) 6—3, 2—6, 8—6.

Second Round—F. B. Richt (scratch) defeated H. B. Hooper, (minus half of 15,) 6—0, 6—0; C. P. Robinson (scratch) defeated E. F. Denham, (scratch,) 6—0, 8—6; C. P. Cypiot (scratch) defeated A. B. Van Sault, (minus half of 15,) 2—6, 6—2, 6—4.

74th Infantry Riflemen Win.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 27.—By a margin of thirty-two points the regimental team of the Seventy-fourth Infantry of Buffalo to-day captured the Fourth Brigade match from the Third Infantry team at the State range at Blauvelt. This is the third consecutive time the Seventy-fourth Infantry has defeated the Third Infantry team. The defeated team comprised National guardsmen from Olean, Syracuse, Rochester, Medina, Niagara Falls, Auburn, Oswego, and Elmira.

For Other Sports, See Page 7.

Tennis Winners at Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Miss Hazel Hotchkiss and Miss Eleanora Sears defeated Mrs. Joseph Warren and Miss M. Homans of Boston in the second round of the woman's doubles tennis tournament here to-day.

In the mixed doubles, second round, Miss Hotchkiss and E. H. Whitney of Boston won their match easily from Miss R. H. Woodward and H. A. McKinney, both of Providence. Other winners in the mixed doubles were Mrs. Barger-Wallach, Newport, and Harry C. Johnson, Boston, and Miss J. Pendleton of Cincinnati and A. C. Butler of Boston.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The disturbance that was central in the region north of Minnesota Tuesday night moved rapidly east and is now passing down the St. Lawrence Valley. It has been attended by rain in the Upper Mississippi and Ohio Valleys and the North Atlantic States, and is being followed by rapidly rising pressure and colder weather.

Temperatures remain high throughout the South and the Middle Mississippi and Ohio Valleys.

The indications are that the weather will be fair Thursday and Friday throughout the Atlantic and Gulf States, and the Ohio Valley, and unsettled elsewhere.

Temperatures will fall Thursday in the Ohio Valley and by Thursday night or Friday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate north and northwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate, variable becoming north; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate north and northwest winds and probably fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York, fair Thursday; cooler; Friday fair, moderate north winds.

New Jersey, clearing Thursday, cooler Thursday night; Friday probably fair; light to moderate winds.

New England, fair Thursday; cooler by night; Friday fair; moderate north winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania, fair Thursday and probably Friday, cooler Thursday night; light to moderate winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M.	68	54	4 P. M.	75	65
6 A. M.	67	52	6 P. M.	74	64
9 A. M.	75	58	9 P. M.	71	63
12 M.	78	62	12 P. M.	69	..

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 58; for the corresponding date last year it was 72; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 63.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 56; at 8 P. M. it was 64. Maximum temperature, 65 degrees at 3:50 P. M.; minimum, 52 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 64 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 51 per cent. at 8 P. M.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Violent Fluctuations in Prices in an Extraordinary Trading Session.

RALLY WITHOUT GUIDANCE

Further Declines Registered After an Abrupt Advance in Leading Issues.

A disorganized, uncontrollable market yesterday carried prices violently upward in the first half-hour of trading and broke them almost as abruptly soon afterward. It was a session almost without parallel in the history of the New York Stock Exchange in point of volume of transactions consummated, confusion, and total absence of any recognized leadership. It is seldom that brokers have found the facilities for effecting the exchange of securities between seller and buyer so inadequate.

With the appearance in the morning papers of the promised "reassuring statement" from the Steel Corporation, which carried unexpected assurance in the signature of J. Pierpont Morgan, and the reception of further favorable news on the Moroccan situation, it was a foregone conclusion that the stock market would open at an active advance over the previous day's close, but it is hardly likely that any one looked for such a wild scramble for stocks at the striking of the gong as ensued when several hundred brokers tried to execute, simultaneously, their telegraphed, cabled, and short covering orders. Under such conditions it was impossible to do business on an orderly basis, and the fate of an order to be executed "at the market" depended on the position of the floor trader who held it. The first quotation for Steel common to appear on the tape was for 88,000 shares at the wide range of from 59½ to 62, which represented an over-night gain of from 2⅝ to 5⅛ points. Union Pacific opened with an advance of 2⅛ points, Steel preferred with a gain of 2½, Reading a gain of 2¼, Northern Pacific an advance of 2½, and Copper with an advance of 2⅜. A very large part of the strength at the opening was undoubtedly accounted for by the rush of traders who had large commitments on the short side to cover when the Morgan statement appeared. There was a disposition in many quarters to criticise the Steel Corporation for having delayed for several days the publication of a plain statement of facts which would give the company's stockholders information to which they felt entitled. This delay had been unofficially explained as being due to the reluctance of Judge Gary to comment on a matter being discussed with officials of the Federal Government, but it was made known in Tuesday night's utterance that there have been no negotiations with Mr. Wickersham's department.

While the trading yesterday was still very largely professional, there was evidence in the enormous total of the shares dealt in of a considerable amount of real selling by frightened investors. Yesterday's transactions, totaling nearly one and three-quarter million shares, made the largest day's business since March 15, 1907, when the so-called silent panic was in progress. Steel alone furnished about 700,000 shares in yesterday's dealings. The violent fluctuations to which securities were subjected throughout the day are made apparent by a glance at the range between the high and low points touched by some of the principal issues in Wednesday's session. This difference amounted to 3⅝ points in Copper, 5⅜ in Smelters, 3⅜ in Atchison, which broke below par; 5 in St. Paul, 4¼ in Great Northern preferred, 6¾ in Lehigh Valley, 3½ in Missouri Pacific, 5¼ in Reading, 4⅝ in Southern Pacific, 6½ in Union Pacific, 5⅞ in Steel common, 6 in the preferred, and 6⅝ in Wabash preferred. The net changes at the end of the day were much smaller; Steel's loss from the previous day's close was but ⅛.

St. Paul led the railroads in their downward movement and ended the day with a loss of more than 3 points. The necessity of liquidating $200,000 of Wabash refunding 4s, as the result of the calling of a loan under which they were deposited, broke the price of these bonds very suddenly from 57 to 47. Rumors of an impending receivership of the Wabash at once became current, causing a decline of 3½ points in the preferred stock for the day. Denials were given these rumors, and the bonds recovered half their loss later in the day. The weakness in the railroad issues was helped by the publication of more unfavorable earnings figures. Union Pacific in August suffered a decrease of $728,000 in gross and of more than half this amount in net, while Southern Pacific lost $342,000 in gross and $469,000 in net. The Harriman issues suffered also from a recurrence of the talk of strike troubles.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Prices Go Up in London, Paris, and Berlin—Quick Rise in Americans.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Money was in strong demand to-day and discounts were firm.

Although the uncertainty of the Tripoli situation weakened Turkish bonds, the stock market generally was cheerful and firmer. Less apprehension regarding the settlement induced fresh support, especially for copper shares, home rails, and Kaffirs, but Consols lost 3.16 in the afternoon on realization.

American securities opened steady, and during the morning prices ruled from unchanged to 1⅝ higher. A feature of the afternoon market was a spurt of from $1 to $3 on Wall Street buying, with Amalgamated Copper, Union Pacific, and the Steel issues leading. Prices lost a dollar, but hardened again and closed active and firm.

Money, 2@2½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3¾@3⅞ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3⅞@4 per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid at 9.00, and at Lisbon 8.00.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Prices on the Bourse were firm to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 94 francs 10 centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 17½ centimes for checks.

Private rate of discount, 3½ per cent.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Prices on the Boerse improved to-day on higher New York quotations and a more hopeful feeling regarding Tripoli.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 49 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 2¾ per cent.

Private rate of discount, 4¾ per cent.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

An enormous business was done on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, the transactions ranging from a multitude of odd lots to blocks of stock running into the hundreds of shares. The sales totaled 309,970 shares, which was the heaviest since Feb. 23, 1909, the biggest day in the history of the Exchange when the transactions were 484,030 shares. On the great rush-up in prices at the opening differences between the market on the Consolidated floor and that on the New York Stock Exchange were of the widest character. Nearly every important stock failed to sell as high as it did on the other board. While the over-night statement given out by J. P. Morgan and Chairman Gary of the United States Steel Corporation was construed to be reassuring as to the position of the Steel Corporation in relation to possible action by the Government, the violence of the opening advance was looked upon as abnormal, and it invited a general selling movement, under which prices reacted heavily. Liquidation appeared to be still under way as the market closed.

CRUCIAL TIMES FOR CORPORATIONS
The following news item was sent out by one of the Ticker Services to their subscribers during the height of the excitement on the Stock Exchange last Monday:
"Moody's Manual could not be borrowed even for a minute in the commission houses doing a big speculative business. In every such firm some one was busy going over the book which had furnished Mr. Wickersham with his evidence of the existence of 100 Trusts."
Moody's Manual of Railroads and Corporation Securities is used by the Government Departments because they demand the best. Can you afford to get along with anything less?

RUSH TO PAY BOND TAX.

More Than $33,000,000 of Securities Registered for Exemption.

Securities amounting to $33,362,360 were registered in the office of Deputy State Controller Julius Harburger yesterday, and a line reached from the cashier's office into the hall of the Secured Debt Bureau at 165 Broadway most of the day. The rush to pay the State's new tax in order to exempt the bonds from further taxation is on, and E. W. Buckley, the agent of Controller Sohmer, had to impress every available man from other departments to assist him in disposing of the day's business.

Temporary receipts only are now being issued by the Controller, but the holders of these receipts may present the bonds or other evidences of secured debts any time after Oct. 1 and have them stamped Tax Exempt.

The day's business netted the State $168,118.

The Controller's office is informed that there are more than $2,000,000,000 of secured debts in the New York market, and at the rate that the tax is being paid only a small part of this sum will be exempted. In order that holders of secured debts residing in New York may obtain exemption for the city taxing year of 1912 and thereafter, the securities must be registered before 12 o'clock midnight next Saturday.

The office of the Controller will be kept open as late on Saturday as may be necessary.

NATIONAL, STATE AND SAVINGS BANKS have purchased 53% of an issue of First Mortgage Bonds which we are selling at a price to yield 6%.

An unusual opportunity for institutions, trustees and individuals to make a conservative and profitable investment.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR LUMBER.—SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the General Purchasing Officer, Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., until 2:30 P. M., October 16, 1911, at which time they will be opened in public, for furnishing the above-mentioned lumber. Blanks and general information relating to this Circular (No. 650B) may be obtained from this office or the offices of the Assistant Purchasing Agents, 24 State Street, New York City; 614 Whitney-Central Building, New Orleans, La., and 1,086 North Point Street, San Francisco, Cal.; also from the U. S. Engineer Offices in Chicago, Ill.; Pittsburg, Pa., and Galveston, Texas. F. C. Boggs, Major, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., General Purchasing Officer.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Harriman Earnings.

Neither the Union Pacific nor the Southern Pacific has succeeded in bringing operating expenses down to a point where the loss in revenues is wiped out. In August the Union Pacific lost $728,000 by comparison with revenues for that month of 1910, while the Southern Pacific lost $342,000. The Union's net decrease was $456,000, reflecting some reduction in expenses, but the Southern Pacific had a net decrease of $470,000. At the end of the first two months the Union Pacific's net earnings were $744,000 behind those at the end of the corresponding period of last year, while the Southern Pacific was $854,000 behind.

Steel Up and Down.

The net result of yesterday's wild market in Steel common was a decline of ⅛. Not even last Friday, when the total transactions in Steel were more than 716,000 shares, was there such a ferment of trading at the opening nor such a wide range in opening prices. Yesterday, in the first hour, the transactions in Steel common had run up to nearly 340,000 shares, and the brokers found it practically a necessity to lump their orders into big blocks to get the market. With an opening reported at 88,000 shares from 59½ to 62, there was an extreme range from Tuesday's close of 5⅛ points, while the extreme range between the day's high and low prices was only five-eighths of a point greater.

Trading Machinery Taxed.

Occasions on which the well-oiled machinery of the Stock Exchange carries as heavy a load as during the first hour yesterday happen only a few times in a trader's generation. At the opening yesterday strong arms and lungs were the best part of brokers' equipment. It was physically impossible for the reporters to get all of the transactions, and doubtless the total sales of Steel in the first hour were nearer 400,000 shares than the number reported. Needless to say, the tape could not keep up with the procession of sales, and it was easily ten minutes behind events when the trading was at its height.

Narrow Net Changes.

A glance at only the net results of yesterday's activity, the biggest day's business since the first "silent panic" of 1907, would give no hint that there had been anything unusual going on in the market. The great majority of net changes were fractional, and gains and losses were almost impartially distributed.

⁂

Few Low Records.

There was a smaller list of low records made yesterday than in any market during the present slump. These are the issues which reached their low points of the year, with their prices: American Smelting and Refining preferred, 98¾; Atchison, 99⅞; St. Paul, 106; Corn Products Refining preferred, 73; General Motors, 37⅛; Homestake, 81¾; International Pump, 27; preferred, 80⅛; Southern Railway, 25; Wabash, 10¼, and Wabash preferred, 19.

⁂

Steel Business Not Bad.

Interest in the Morgan-Gary statement of the Steel Corporation's determination to fight dissolution overshadowed the earlier announcement of the corporation's business situation, which was generally counted in the steel trade yesterday as remrkably good, in the face of the supposed stagnation in business engendered by the predictions of a Government suit. Up to the middle of August business was running on an average for the year to date well ahead of 1910. Judge Gary's statement that "prompt business is larger than usual" is borne out by the increase of unfilled tonnage amounting to 837,000 net since Aug. 1. Steel prices, however, are now at their lowest level in many years, and such an open market as exists is usually a bait to buyers. Instead of 30,000 tons a day, as at present, new business to the corporation in past seasons of a let-down in prices has run as high as 75,000 tons a day.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

LOSSES ARE FRACTIONAL

Recessions Limited to Fractions and Many Issues Close Even with the Opening Levels.

Curb stocks sold off yesterday under heavy trading, but while there were a number of fractional losses at the close many issues closed above the lowest prices of the day. Giroux, which was one of the most active coppers, sold off from 3⅝ to 3 9-16, closing, after sales of 3,500 shares, at 3 11-16. Greene-Cananea sold off from 6 to 5⅞ on sales of 200 shares. Inspiration sold off from 6 to 5⅝, closing at 5⅝. Kerr Lake closed even with the opening at 3¾, after selling off ⅛, and Nipissing also closed even after a similar decline.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

E. H. Rollins & Sons are offering $2,500,000 6 per cent. four-year gold notes of the Oakland Railways.

John R. Wood, cashier of the New York Produce Exchange Bank, was elected Vice President of that institution yesterday.

A. H. Carlisle and P. Friedman of Carlisle & Co. have returned from London, where they arranged for the formation of the International P-A-Y-E Tramcar Company, Limited.

$2,500,000
Oakland Railways
Collateral Trust 6% Four-Year Gold Notes

Dated September 1, 1911. Due September 1, 1915. Optional at 102 and interest. Semi-annual interest, March 1 and September 1, payable at San Francisco or New York. $1000 Coupon Notes. Principal may be registered. Total authorized, $2,500,000. Total funded debt of subsidiary companies of Oakland Railways, exclusive of bonds deposited as collateral for these notes, $16,771,000. Under provisions of the Deed of Trust, neither Oakland Railways nor its subsidiary companies may create additional indebtedness or pay dividends during the life of these notes, without the written consent of E. H. Rollins & Sons.

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY

Oakland Railways, through its subsidiary companies, operates 230 miles of city and interurban electric railway, serving the entire eastern side of San Francisco Bay, and through its own system of ferries, connects this large suburban territory with San Francisco. Within this area lie the cities and towns of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, Haywards, San Leandro, Richmond and others, which have an aggregate population of 232,150 or 130,338 more than in 1900. The properties of this system are in uniformly excellent physical condition and of a capacity substantially in excess of present traffic requirements. According to appraisal of conservative engineers, the value of these properties, when improvements from the proceeds of these notes are completed, will be $25,608,030, which is $8,837,030 in excess of the par value of mortgage bonds outstanding with the public.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Trading in Other Cities Is Affected by Course of New York Market.

BOOTH FISHERIES STRONG

Fluctuations in Swift Shares and Sears-Roebuck Leave Them Little Changed at Close in Chicago.

Trading in other cities yesterday was considerably affected by the course of the New York market.

In Baltimore some demand appeared for investment securities, but high-grade issues were sparingly offered and only at high prices. Trading was moderate and featureless.

In Boston the local market followed closely the violent movement of the Wall Street list, but trading was less hysterical. The arbitrage stocks, principally Steel and Amalgamated, monoplized attention and covered the widest range of fluctuation. Other issues, with the exception of the standard industrials, opened higher, broke, rallied, declined for the second time, and then became more quiet, with a recovery of prices in progress. New Haven was not appreciably affected by the showing made by the annual report.

In Chicago prices generally ruled higher, but earlier rises were offset largely by later declines in sympathy with the course of the New York stock market. Final prices, however, in the majority of issues were still above the closing levels of yesterday. Sears-Roebuck, after reaching 131½, eased off to 128, but recovered to 129¼ by the end, a fractional gain. Swift reached above 99 in the midday trading, but receded to 98, closing on a partial recovery at 98⅝, though still under last night. Booth Fisheries issues were the strong feature, the common rising 1½ on limited transactions, and the preferred having a net gain of 4 points at the close.

Just as in recent weeks, local stocks in Philadelphia failed to be materially affected by the violent decline in New York shares having a market in that city, so yesterday, when the long-delayed rebound occurred in the arbitrage group, the purely Philadelphia issues responded with only very moderate advances. Also when the later break occurred local stocks maintained an almost perfect equilibrium, many of them closing a fraction above Tuesday's final figures.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

THE IRON AND STEEL TRADE.

Uncertainty About U. S. Steel the Dominant Factor, Says The Iron Age.

Commenting on conditions in the iron and steel trade, The Iron Age says:

Uncertainty about the future of the United States Steel Corporation has commanded the attention of the steel trade in the past week and buying and selling have suffered. The air has been so charged with disturbing rumors, accompanied by rapid declines in the corporation's securities, that it may take a week or longer to give any clear view of the trade situation. Some help has been given by the statement of the corporation's directors.

Two things need to be emphasized at a time when real conditions are apt to be obscured. One is that consumption, as shown by the operation of blast furnaces and steel works and the close connections that are now regularly made between rolling mills and consumers, is but little below the maximum for this year. The other is that at low prices reached on finished materials some buyers are showing more confidence in the market.

All market reports indicate that finished steel prices have been under more strain and in some cases are $1 to $2 a ton lower. But the lowest prices named are not general and a good many buyers find that they cannot place business at these figures. This unevenness has caused much confusion.

Pig iron markets are even quieter, buyers having evidently been driven off by recent weakness in this year's prices and the failure of furnaces to establish advances for next year.

NEW HAVEN ROAD SHOWS A DEFICIT

Dividends for the Year Were Increased by $3,000,000, New Stock Having Been Issued.

ITEMS OF UNUSUAL EXPENSE

President Mellen Attributes the Deficit to Higher Wages and Legal Restraint Put on Higher Rates.

The report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company for the year ended June 30, 1911, issued yesterday, shows that its net income was insufficient to pay the 8 per cent. dividend on its stock, the deficit being $1,267,540. The capital stock was increased during the year by 569,204 shares, 446,492 being new stock authorized two years ago, and 122,712 shares issued in exchange for $18,406,800 face value of 3½ per cent. convertible debentures. Dividends themselves increased from $9,759,081 the year before to $12,454,852.

President Mellen attributes the deficit to the advance in wages and the refusal of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to approve a corresponding increase in rates.

"The increase of wages granted to employes," he says, "has added very materially to the cost of conducting the business, and the expected partial offset to result from increases of freight rates failed of realization, because of the refusal of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to consent to such increases. The advances in wages to employes, effective at the beginning of the fiscal year 1911, increased the operating expenses of 1911 by $1,521,513. Had the same rate of wages prevailed in 1911 as in 1910, the ratio of operating expenses to revenue would have been 63.35 per cent., a little less than the ratio for 1910; and the deficit of $1,267,540 would have been converted into a surplus of $253,973.

"Deferring to the wishes of many investors, a combined income account and general balance sheet of all companies comprised in the New Haven system has been prepared, excluding only the Ontario & Western, Boston & Maine, and Maine Central and controlled lines, in which the New Haven interests have been treated as investments. Had all of the surplus earnings of all of the companies for the fiscal year been turned into the New Haven treasury, they would have failed by only $313,288 of meeting the New Haven dividend for the year. The surplus earnings in the treasuries of subsidiary companies available for dividends were more than sufficient, if paid into the treasury of the parent company, to have met the deficiency of its earnings to pay its dividends, but the Directors did not deem it advisable to deplete the treasuries of the subsidiary companies for that purpose.

"The expenses of the combined companies include some of an extraordinary nature, which it is believed may be avoided in the future. Among these may be mentioned the cost of the appraisal of the companies' properties in connection with the validation of the companies' securities claimed to have been issued in violation of Massachusetts laws; the trolley properties were found to have a large amount of equipment that had been carried upon their books for many years that was obsolete for their purposes, but was still in shape to be used in emergencies—the value of which has been written off to the expenses for the year; the steamboat companies have sold and broken up boats that stood upon their books at very considerable valuations, which have also been written off in the year's expenses, so that the property of the subsidiary companies stands upon their books at a much more conservative valuation than heretofore.

"The interest during construction on the investment in the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway, New York Connecting Railway, Berkshire Street Railway, the electrification work upon the Harlem River branch and the double tracking of the Poughkeepsie bridge line, none of which has reached a stage to make returns in earnings, has been included in the interest charges of the companies (and not offset in any way by the securities eventually to be received, which will be available for sale,) and the results from these investments and economies from these improvements, nearly all of which will be available during the next fiscal year, will be reflected in the statements for that and future years' operations.

"It will be noted that many of the items that have made up the charges to the expense accounts for the past year could have properly been charged to the profit and loss and investment accounts and would have thereby resulted in a surplus for the year instead of the deficit shown, but the net result to the property would have been unchanged.

"As yet the New Haven has received no return from its investment in the New York, Westchester & Boston, although its income account has been charged with the interest upon the money required to be raised for that purpose. Part of this investment is represented by $16,300,000 of bonds, no part of the interest on which amounting to $1,238,926, has been credited to income. New York, Westchester & Boston has given notes to the New Haven for $1,297,392, which notes will eventually be paid. However, your Directors feel that it is in consonance with conservative accounting to defer consideration of the crediting of this interest to earnings of the company until the money has actually reached the treasury. Had this interest been available as credit to earnings the New Haven Railroad Company proper's deficit would have been converted into a surplus of $29,852, and the deficit of all companies into a surplus of $984,103.

"The net increase in funded debt for the year was $3,867,713. Obligations mature between Oct. 1, 1911, and Oct. 1, 1912, to the extent of $29,665,000, but the funds are in hand with which to pay these obligations."

The gross operating revenue increased from $60,693,668 the year before to $62,153,435, and the operating expenses from $38,689,216 to $40,898,633. With a net revenue of $1,399,793 from outside operations added and taxes of $5,578,363 deducted, the operating income was $19,076,232, to which is added $9,178,928 of other income, including dividends and interest, making the total income $28,255,160, as against $28,320,970 the year before. Deductions for interest and rentals amount to $17,067,848, leaving the net income $11,187,312, as against $10,796,874 the year before.

Weather in Cotton and Grain States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Following is the forecast for the cotton and grain States for Thursday and Friday as issued by the United States Weather Bureau:

The Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi—Generally fair Thursday and Friday; not much change in temperature; light variable winds.

Florida—Fair in northern, showers in southern and central portions Thursday and Friday; moderate variable winds, mostly easterly.

Louisiana and Eastern Texas—Fair in interior, probably showers on the coast Thursday. Friday fair; light to moderate easterly and southeasterly winds.

Western Texas—Probably fair Thursday and Friday.

Utah—Fair Thursday and Friday.

Oklahoma—Probably fair Thursday and Friday; not much change in temperature.

Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and Kansas—Probably fair Thursday and Friday.

Ohio and Indiana—Fair and cooler Thursday. Friday probably fair; moderate northerly to easterly winds.

Illinois—Fair in southern, unsettled in northern portion Thursday. Friday probably fair; moderate easterly winds.

Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota—Increasing cloudiness and warmer Thursday, probably followed by showers by night. Friday fair; moderate easterly winds.

Iowa—Unsettled Thursday. Friday probably fair.

North Dakota—Cloudy and warmer Thursday. Friday fair.

South Dakota—Probably showers Thursday. Friday fair.

Nebraska—Unsettled Thursday. Friday fair.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Wheat declined almost steadily from the opening to the close, exhibiting a net loss of 1 to 1⅛c, closing at the lowest of the day. The Northwestern market showed greatest decline. The weakness was general both in America and Europe. English markets showed a considerable loss for the day, the Paris market was heavy, and the Buenos Aires market was distinctly weak, showing a decline of 2⅛c for October, and broke still further on the Curb. The weakness in the Argentine was due to very favorable weather conditions. General rains were reported, and the official estimate of the Argentine wheat acreage made the total 17,030,000 acres, compared with 15,452,000 acres last year, which was a record total. The official British estimate makes the wheat crop 64,000,000 bushels, against 58,000,000 bushels last year, and there were favorable reports from India. The Northwestern receipts were heavy, particularly at Minneapolis, and the very large movement acted as a distinctly depressing factor on Spring wheat. The Winnipeg market was also quite weak, influenced by the poor European demand. Cash wheat is slow and the milling demand shows a distinct falling off. Flour business the past week was heavy, however, at Minneapolis, with sales the past two weeks of 1,500,000 barrels reported, and a heavy business by country mills. The output of flour at Minneapolis, Duluth, and Milwaukee the past week was 422,000 barrels, against 396,000 the previous week, and 377,000 last year. No export sales were reported. Cash wheat was quoted: No. 2 red, $1.00¾, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.17; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.06¾, and No. 1 Manitoba, $1.06¾.

CORN.—Corn was very steady in the morning, but during the day sold off about ½c, influenced by the weakness in wheat, and final prices were at the low point. There did not seem to be any particular pressure on the market, but there was an absence of support. The reports were contradictory regarding the offerings of corn from the country. Some advices were of better offerings, while others were that the country was buying back corn previously sold. The receipts from the country are increasing a little, but not in a burdensome way. The weather conditions continue satisfactory for maturing the crop, and a very large part of the crop is now safe. Cash corn was dull, with No. 2 quoted, 75¼c, elevator, domestic, and 75c. free on board.

OATS.—The trade in oats was of moderate volume, and prices held with considerable firmness, but eased off late with other grain. The close was at the low point, with a quiet business. Cash demand for oats is fairly good, and prices were influenced a little by reports of 40,000 bushels of Canadian oats for export, but at prices materially under the American level. Cash oats were steady, with standards 52c; No. 2 white, 52½c, and No. 3 white, 52c.

PROVISIONS.—A weak hog market and large receipts of hogs at Western points were depressing features. Interior hog markets were off from 5c to 25c per hundred pounds, with the total interior receipts 94,000. Pressure on the future market was general, and the close was at the low point.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The aspect of the oil market was not changed materially during yesterday's session, with the selling by refiners against purchases of crude at the South having a depressing effect. Estimates of about 3,500,000 bales of cotton ginned to date were also a factor, and it is claimed that seed offerings are freer, with sales on the basis of $16 per ton against $18 several days ago. Consuming inquiry from domestic quarters and foreign is only about fair, with considerable buying of futures thought to represent the covering of shorts. Crude oil quoted at 4.27c, against 4.40c on Tuesday.

COTTON.

New low records were threatened for a time, but these failed to materialize, and in repetition of several previous sessions there was a sufficient demand from the short interest to maintain a relatively steady undertone. Advocates of lower prices are confident, however, and the tendency for offerings to increase on the bulges is still apparent, with fresh short lines placed on the advances, while Southern selling is also in larger volume as levels tend upward. The demand from trade sources continues as prices recede, but spinners are bearish and predicting much lower prices, although this attitude is quite as natural as was that of the South in attempting to create the belief that crop conditions warranted substantially higher prices.

The tone was nervous during the entire session, with fluctuations erratic. The steady opening at advances averaging 5 points was due to better advices from Liverpool than anticipated with some foreign buying reported in the local market. Bulls were also credited with rendering more support, although later these interests were among the best sellers. Claims were made by bears that the closing would be weak, and it was thought that a drive was contemplated against the market, but this did not occur, with the tone very steady at the finals.

Crop advices continue generally good, although expectations are for a rather bullish condition report on next Monday, which will probably offset large ginning figures. Reports were current that the National Ginners' Association showed 3,500,000 to 3,750,000 bales ginned and deterioration for the month only 1½ points. Weld & Co. issued a report placing the condition of the plant at 74.7, against 76.8 a month ago, when the Government figures were 73.8. Last year official figures were 65.9 and ginning 2,312,000 bales. The ginning estimate by Weld & Co. was 3,531,000 bales. The Journal of Commerce reports on the Carolinas were about as anticipated, with the condition in North Carolina given at 74.6, which is several points better than last year, while in South Carolina the percentage condition varied but little as compared with 1910, when it was 71.2.

Advices from spot centres were very contradictory, and while some Eastern points again claimed that foreigners were buying more liberally, other reports indicated a continuance of liberal offerings. It is intimated in some quarters that holding of cotton will probably become more pronounced in the near future, due to the present level of values, but influenced to a greater extent by the belief that farmers have sold a fair percentage of their distressed holdings. Movement, however, continues liberal and bearish into-sight figures are expected this week. Southern spot markets were irregular at 1-16c higher to ⅛c lower, mostly unchanged, while the local spot market was .10c decline; middling, 10.45c.

COFFEE.

Bulls were less aggressive in coffee and after opening steady with September 6 points higher and other months 2 to 7 points lower, the market developed weakness and closed 5 to 27 points net lower, with sales of 77,000 bags. Havre was ½ to ¾ franc lower, and Hamburg declined ¼ to ¾ pfennig. There were rumors that a private cable had been received from Santos that crop prospects are brighter, but this was not confirmed. Rio market was 125 reis higher and Santos unchanged to 50 reis lower.

Spot coffee, steady and unchanged; 14 cents for Rio No. 7.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Vanity Cases, Comb, and Coin Holders Not "Personal Adornment."

A protest by George W. Sheldon & Co. was sustained in part yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers. The merchandise consists of clasps or belt buckles composed in chief value of brass set with imitation precious stones composed of paste, designed to be worn on approval for purposes of adornment. The goods covered so-called vanity cases, comb, and coin holders, notebooks, and small mirrors, all attached to chains and designed for utilitarian purposes, and not to be worn for personal adornment.

Judge Sharretts, for the board, holds that the majority of the goods are not articles of personal adornment. The Collector's action in returning the importations at 85 per cent. is, with one exception, reversed. The claim for a rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem under the metal schedule is granted. The Collector is reversed and directed to make a reliquidation of the entries.

The board has decided that part of the importations of William H. Masson regarding the classification of iron in bars known as "muck bars," are dutiable at three-tenths of 1 cent a pound, and not at $8 per ton as assessed by the Collector. Some of the merchandise is held by the board to fall within the classification imposed by the Collector, and to this extent the protest is overruled. A protest by Horace T. Potts & Co., dealing with muck bars is sustained.

R. F. Downing & Co. succeeded in receiving a reduction in the duty to accrue on violet pastelles. It is held that merchandise of this character is "confectionery" and as such dutiable at the rate of 50 per cent. on the value. It is decided that the merchandise is not "wearing apparel" dutiable at 85 per cent. ad valorem. Collector Loeb is reversed and ordered to make a reliquidation of the original entries.

TRACY OUT OF BANKRUPTCY.

Court Relieves Broker Whose Firm Failed in May, 1909.

Judge Hough yesterday granted a discharge from bankruptcy to William W. Tracy, senior partner in the firm of Tracy & Co., stock brokers of 40 Wall Street. The firm had branches in New Haven, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Milwaukee, and Louisville. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against them on May 17, 1909, their liabilities being $1,480,840 and nominal assets $444,280.

Fred F. Searing and Harry M. George, who composed the firm of Searing & Co., bankers, of 7 Wall Street applied for their discharge from bankruptcy yesterday. Opposition was entered by the Dover Trust Company and by two women. One of the women told Judge Hough that she was a depositor in the firm's bank, she was poor, and needed the money and was going to be put out for non-payment of her rent. Judge Hough ordered that all proceedings be stayed until Mr. Searing appeared.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Residence of Late Mayor W. L. Strong and Adjoining House in West Fifty-seventh Street Sold to Michael Dreicer—The Pentalpha Realty Co. Buys in West Forty-second Street.

Fifty-seventh Street, near Fifth Avenue, furnished the most important deal in the realty market yesterday, the two houses at 10 and 12 West Fifty-seventh Street being purchased by the jeweler, Michael Dreicer, from Charles Sooysmith, who has been a prominent operator in Fifty-seventh Street property for over a year. The house at No. 12, one of the attractive residences on the street, was for many years the home of the late Mayor William L. Strong. It was sold several months ago and has been in the market since that time.

The two houses cover a plot 47 by 100.5. Both are handsome residences, but in view of the rapid conversion to trade of the Fifth Avenue section in that locality and the invasion of business in the Fifty-seventh Street block from Madison to Sixth Avenues it is probable that these two houses will soon be altered for commercial uses. They are a few doors west of the Harry Payne Whitney mansion.

The recent sale marks the twelfth transfer of property in that block since January, 1909. The fine double house at No. 20, formerly the home of the late Oliver H. Harriman, was purchased a year ago by Mr. Sooysmith, and after being altered for business was sold to Alixis P. Bartlett and Ross A. Mackay. Henry D. Winans & May were the brokers in the recent deal, and they have been the brokers in practically all of the sales recently made in Fifty-seventh Street.

Important West 42d Street Deal.

By taking title in the name of the Pentalpha Realty Company to the McDonald estate property on Forty-second Street, adjoining the old Harmonie Club on the east, another important improvement on that thoroughfare near Times Square seems imminent. The buyers, of which Raymond Hoagland is President, state that no definite plans have yet been made for early improvement. The property includes the two old altered buildings at 37 to 41 West Forty-second Street, opposite Bryant Park, having a frontage of 52 feet and a depth of 100.10 feet. It is 78 feet west of the old West Presbyterian Church site recently bought by the Aeolian Company, and where excavating work is now going on for the sixteen-story Aeolian Hall structure.

Early in the Spring the sale of the plot by the McDonald estate was rumored, and it was admitted by the agents, Henry D. Winans & May, that negotiations for the sale were pending, but the prospective buyer was not announced. The Pentalpha Realty Company, which was incorporated early this year, has purchased, since that time, 817 Fifth Avenue, on the southeast corner of Sixty-third Street; 17 to 21 East Sixty-sixth Street, and 772 to 776 Madison Avenue. The buyers have given a mortgage on the Forty-second Street purchase to Grant M. McDonald of $460,000.

Investors Buying Tenements.

Dr. J. Edward Herman has sold to an investor through John M. Ruckert the five-story double tenement, with stores, at 509 East Sixth Street, near Avenue A, on a lot 25 by 100, Astor leasehold.

Henry C. Fredericks has sold 215 and 217 East 100th Street, two four-story tenements, on plot 50 by 100.11.

The Ernst Cohn Realty Company has sold through A. Leavy, 69 West 115th Street, a five-story flat.

Bronx.

Richard Dickson has sold for Catharine Mahon a plot 54 feet front on East Chester Road by 92 feet in depth, irregular, approximately 78 feet south from the corner of Maple Street, Westchester.

Richard M. Montgomery & Co. have sold the three-story dwelling on the east side of Webb Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of 188th Street. The buyer is Dr. John P. von Janinski of Manhattan, who will occupy the house.

J. Clarence Davies has sold for Henry D. Tiffany the triangular plot at the southwest corner of Home and 169th Streets, fronting 65 feet on each thoroughfare.

Brooklyn.

The Brown Realty Company has bought from Dr. Schauf the northeast corner of Putnam and Reid Avenues, Brooklyn, four four-story buildings with stores, on plot 100 by 100.

John H. Gelhardt, Jr., has sold 148 Lefferts Place, between Classon and Franklin Avenues, the three-story and basement brownstone house, formerly occupied by William H. Rudd, for Elizabeth Dow of 161 Lefferts Place to Margaret Osterheld.

Galitzka & Co. have sold for the Samuel Adams Realty and Development Company to A. Dailey of Manhattan, the two-story brick and two-family house at 254 Sixty-first Street.

Staten Island.

Harold E. Wittemann has sold for Henry Damsky, his dwelling on Young Street, Stapleton to Edward C. L. Miller, who will remodel the premises for occupancy.

Long Island.

Eva V. Leonard has sold to William K. Wright of Corona a parcel having a frontage of 50 feet on the west side of Burling Avenue, 250 feet north of Forest Avenue, Flushing.

John Campbell has sold to Alice Clarke Mathewson of Manhattan three lots at Douglas Manor.

Edward Richardson has sold to Henry E. Heise of Flushing two lots at Murray Hill, Flushing.

Esther Lutwak has sold to J. B. Silman Realty Company of Brooklyn a parcel having a frontage of 100 feet on the northeast side of Walker Street and 160 feet on the southeast side of Fairview Avenue; also 40 feet on the northwest side of Fairview Avenue, 8 feet southwest of Granger Street, Corona.

John W. Crawford has sold to F. B. Zittel Realty and Construction Company of Flushing a parcel 50 by 150 on the south side of Chestnut Street, 675 feet west of Parsons Avenue, Flushing.

Scarborough Acreage Sale.

William A. White & Sons have sold for Edgar M. Smith a plot of two and a half acres on the Scarborough Road at Scarborough, N. Y., to Walter B. Mahony, who will build a residence on the property. The property lies near the new Sleepy Hollow Country Club.

Another Moving Picture Theatre.

J. Arthur Fischer has leased for Robert Currio to the New York Photo Play Company, the six-story store and loft building, 683 Sixth Avenue, adjoining the northwest corner of Thirty-ninth Street for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $150,000. The tenant, after making extensive alterations, will utilize the grade floor of the premises as a motion picture theatre.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company report the following leases: For Mrs. Frederic Bronson, 115 East Seventy-second Street to Herbert Parsons, for a term of years; for Mrs. Helen M. Beuren, 32 West Eleventh Street to Henry H. Abbott; for the Renaissance Hotel Company, an apartment in the Renaissance to Mrs. E. E. Black, for Arthur Smith, 147 East Sixty-second Street to Dr. Hartley H. Mason; for Mrs. Joseph Du Vivier, 137 East Seventy-fourth Street to Mrs. Julia A. Hayes.

Samuel H. Martin has leased, in conjunction with Frederick Zittel & Sons, for William H. McCord, the four-story and basement dwelling, 68 West Eighty-third Street.

Notes.

Goodwin & Goodwin have been appointed agents for the five-story apartment houses at 271 and 273 West 113th Street, and at 305 and 307 West 127th Street.

Hornor & Co., Inc., were associated with Slawson & Hobbs in the sale of 854 West End Avenue.

The Sterling Building and Operating Company has leased for three years the corner store and basement in Sterling Court on the northwest corner of 181st Street and Audubon Avenue to the Monatone Realty Investing Company. Louis Becker & Co. were the brokers.

The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company has sub-leased for Anson C. Clarkson his place at Roslyn, L. I., to a client for the Winter. The same brokers also negotiated a lease for E. C. Willets for a term of years.

GARDEN CITY

NEW YORK'S MOST BEAUTIFUL SUBURB

The place to enjoy country life with all city conveniences and the superior social advantages that only a refined, highly restricted neighborhood can offer.

Attractive and distinctive homes and plots of all sizes for sale. Our policy is to make terms to suit the customer.

Write to-day for illustrated book giving views of Garden City and showing designs and character of houses.

On September 30th, 1911, we open for inspection the high-class, perfectly developed, and unusually attractive "Water-front Park,"

"WAMPAGE SHORES,"
on Manhasset Bay, Sands Point, L. I.
R. R. Station, Port Washington.

Two years' work and a large expenditure of money have created ideal conditions for homes on this beautiful little Peninsula, which stretches far out in the broadest and most picturesque part of Manhasset Bay. No development of similar completeness and attractiveness has ever been attempted in the neighborhood of New York. WAMPAGE SHORES, with one mile of beautiful beach; with no road or reservation in front, makes ownership possible of a type of property with private beaches, heretofore only within reach of the very wealthiest.

Write for map and particulars and see "Wampage Shores."

FOR SALE.

One of the most complete and attractive places, in the best neighborhood, near the Rockaway Hunt Club. House sets back from the road in beautiful grounds of about 4 acres, rear overlooking the golf course. Residence contains—First floor, hall, reception room, living room, billiard room, side conservatory, absolutely new, with wall fountain of exquisite design, filled with the most beautiful assortment of plants, new greenhouse now filled with American Beauty roses, carnations, and chrysanthemums; dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen, laundry, ice box built in wall, servants' dining room, large piazzas with red Welsh 9x9 tile. Approach to house made of fancy herringbone brick. Second floor—6 master's bedrooms, 3 tiled bathrooms, modern and beautiful in every appointment, 2 with showers. Third floor—6 servants' rooms, bath, and toilet. Outside flower garden also in full bloom. Independent water power, electrically connected pump and windmill; 3-inch fire lines running 4 feet underground all around property, and 1½-inch pipes for sprinkling purposes—never without water. Tank holds about 12,000 gallons. Frequent analysis shows water of most excellent quality for all purposes. Immense saving for the quantity of water used on such a place. Fine stable and garage, 9 stalls. Large carriage room, with quarters above for man. Fine tennis court also on property. Colonial electric lamp posts on driveway and outside garden. Will take back 5% mortgage, three years if desired. Full particulars and drawings from John F. Scott, Manager Country Department.

The BELNORD

BROADWAY TO AMSTERDAM AVENUE

Eighty-sixth to Eighty-seventh Street

¶ Before signing any lease this fall, investigate the superior advantages offered by an apartment in The Belnord.

¶ The Belnord is the foremost apartment house in existence: It covers an entire city block and is 12 stories high. It encloses the largest apartment house court in the world. All its rooms are outside rooms.

¶ Peace and quiet are to be found in The Belnord. The engine rooms are located under the central court and not under any portion of the building proper. This eliminates noise and vibration. Each suite includes every modern device for the greatest comfort and convenience in every way.

¶ Apartments, containing from 7 to 11 rooms, cost $2,400 a year and upward.

FORECLOSURE SALE.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—MARY A. PETTIT, plaintiff, against MARY A. MEAGHER and others, defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 27th day of July, 1911, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 9th day of October, 1911, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

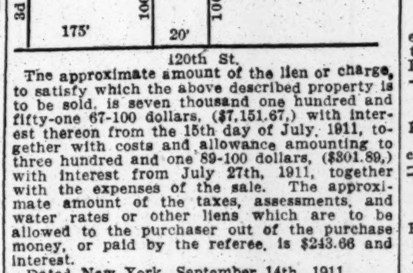
All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the building thereon erected, situate, lying and being in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly line of One Hundred and Twentieth Street, distant one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet easterly from the easterly line of Third Avenue; running thence northerly, and parallel with Third Avenue, one hundred (100) feet and ten (10) inches to the centre line of the block; thence easterly, along said centre line and parallel with One Hundred and Twentieth Street, twenty (20) feet; thence southerly, and parallel with said Third Avenue and part of the way through a party wall, one hundred (100) feet and ten (10) inches to the northerly line of One Hundred and Twentieth Street; thence westerly, along said northerly line of One Hundred and Twentieth Street, twenty (20) feet to the point or place of beginning, be the said several dimensions more or less. It being intended to describe the property known as Number 215 East 120th Street, New York City.

Dated New York, September 14th, 1911.
JAMES OLIVER, Referee.

PETER B. HANSON, Attorney for Plaintiff, 55 Liberty Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is 215 East 120th Street:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above described property is to be sold, is seven thousand one hundred and fifty-one 67-100 dollars, ($7,151.67,) with interest thereon from the 15th day of July, 1911, together with costs and allowance amounting to three hundred and one 89-100 dollars, ($301.89,) with interest from July 27th, 1911, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates or other liens which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $243.66 and interest.

Dated New York, September 14th, 1911.
JAMES OLIVER, Referee.

JERSEY PRIMARIES SETBACK FOR WILSON

He Is Likely to Encounter a Machine Majority in the Assembly.

HUDSON AGAINST THE BOSSES

Progressives in Both Parties Won There—Greatest Blow to Reform in Essex and Passaic.

The most striking feature of the primary elections in New Jersey on Tuesday, the results of which had not been tabulated in many places until yesterday, was that the Geran election law, which was expected to put party machines out of business, did not do anything of the kind. Except in Hudson County, where the Progressive Republicans beat the divided Dickinson machine with a machine of their own, and several Wilson supporters were named for the Assembly by the Democrats, the nominations were generally regular.

Politicians were trying to forecast yesterday the kind of a time Gov. Wilson will have with the new Legislature. The voting strength of either of the parties in the House of Assembly comes from the counties of Hudson, Essex, and Passaic. The bosses in Essex and Passaic have named the Assembly candidates. The nominees of neither party, therefore, can be expected to help the Governor in his fight against boss rule. Whichever party wins it seems certain that the Governor will encounter an antagonistic majority in at least the lower House.

The only offset is the possibility that the exposures of scandal in Camden and Atlantic may turn the South Jersey Republican counties over to Democrats. There is practically no Democratic machine in either of the counties, as the chances of Democratic success have always been too small to encourage organized Democratic effort, and some of the aspirants who were put in nomination may be followers of the Governor.

Gov. Wilson at his home in Spring Lake was asked last night to give an expression as to the primary returns. He gave out the following statement after receiving reports from all of New Jersey's twenty-one counties:

"The returns, except in Essex County, are entirely satisfactory to the friends of progressive legislation among the Democrats. The defeat of the progressive candidates for the Assembly in Essex County was expected and discounted beforehand, and represents a final effort from the Smith-Nugent machine to discredit the new régime in New Jersey."

Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn easily defeated Mark A. Sullivan, the organization candidate for the Democratic Mayoralty nomination in Jersey City, and N. Peter Wedin, the Under Sheriff of Hudson County, ran away from five other candidates who had organization backing in the race for the nomination for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. Wittpenn's plurality is 2,108 and Wedin's about 2,000. Of the Democratic Assembly nominees in Hudson eight supported Gov. Wilson in his fight for reform legislation. Assemblyman Peter H. James appears to be the only one of Gov. Wilson's supporters last year who failed at renomination.

Mark M. Fagan, progressive Republican, who was three times Mayor of Jersey City, defeated Frederick J. Stuhr for the nomination for Sheriff in Hudson County. Andrew J. Knox, Chairman of the progressive Republican Committee, landed the Mayoralty nomination in Jersey City over Dr. Ferdinand N. Sauer. The entire progressive Republican Assembly ticket in Hudson County was nominated.

It was said all over Jersey City yesterday that the Democrats who supported Sullivan for Mayor will rally to the support of Wittpenn and also to N. Peter Wedin for Sheriff. They have suggested the campaign slogan of "Wedin, Wittpenn, and Win."

In Bayonne there were several surprises. Charles E. Annett, who had the indorsement of the New Idea faction of the Republican Party, was nominated for Mayor over Theodore M. Ten Broeck, regular, by 74 votes. Democratic Leader M. T. Cronin, who was nominated for Mayor without opposition, lost his candidate for the Council in the First Ward.

When the completed returns began to come in from all parts of Essex County it was seen that the victory of the regulars was complete for legislative, County, and city offices. The regular organization of the Republican Party, led by County Chairman Alfred N. Dalrymple, put up such a remarkable fight that they obtained the nomination for State Senator for Col. Austin Colgate by a plurality of 3,000 over the progressive candidate, William Fellowes Morgan. In a hot contest with Walter F. Simpson, progressive candidate for the Shrievalty nomination, C. Valentine Baumann, regular, won out by more than 1,500.

The regular Republicans also defeated the Assembly aspirations of the progressives by a decisive majority.

The Democratic organization peppered the followers of Gov. Wilson almost as badly as the Republican regulars did their progressive enemy. Senator Harry V. Osborne, who was indorsed by the machine Democrats for renomination, won out by a close margin from his independent opponent, Frank M. McDermit.

There was a four-cornered contest for the nomination for Sheriff in Essex County, but the Democratic regulars did their work so well that they nominated their candidate, John F. Monohan, without much trouble. It was the same way with the Assembly ticket.

The Warren County Democratic machine named Dr. Barker for the Assembly over Cornish, who voted for the Wilson programme last Winter. David Baird beat Bradley for State Senator in Camden. Stokes's ticket wins in Cumberland, and even the Kenhule machine put Bacharach up for Mayor in Atlantic City.

In the First Congressional District William J. Browning was nominated by the Republicans without opposition to succeed the late Congressman Henry C. Loudenslager. Thomas Farrell was nominated by the Democrats also without opposition.

OTIS COMPANY GIVES $30,000.

Voluntary Compensation to Families of Accident Victims at Yonkers.

Notwithstanding the decision of Coroner Iles that the accident was unavoidable, and that the corporation is blameless, the Otis Elevator Company has distributed nearly $30,000 among the widows and orphans of the victims of the explosion of molten iron which occurred in Yonkers on June 27 last.

Four persons were killed and five wounded. Cash in amounts ranging from $3,000 upward has been given to the families, and the widows, besides, will continue to receive each week for one year the wages paid to their husbands. Not only this, but places have been found for members of the stricken families who desired employment. The injured men have received their full pay, and their doctor's bills have been paid.

The families that benefit by the corporation's action are those of Andrew Gustauson, 225 Riverdale Avenue; John Clarke, 23 Main Street; Frank Steadman, 164 Elm Street, and Richard Walsh, 111 Maple Street.

POSSE TO PURSUE LYMAN.

Promoter Who Escaped from Hospital Hiding in California Mountains.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Dr. J. Grant Lyman, the Federal prisoner who escaped from an Oakland hospital on Sunday night, is believed to be headed across the foothills for the Siskiyou Mountains, and according to Federal officials here a posse may be in pursuit early to-morrow. With him is Charles Thornet, the hospital nurse, who aided Lyman to escape.

Lawrence Callindo, the chauffeur who drove Lyman to Sacramento, was arrested and confessed.

Lyman and Thornet are known to be armed. Two women are known to have been with the fugitives at the time of the escape, but their identity has not been determined.

WIFE HELD AS SHOPLIFTER.

Husband Wealthy and Socially Prominent at Holyoke, Mass.

Mrs. Frances Walker of Holyoke, Mass., was held in $500 bail for examination on Saturday on a charge of petit larceny, by Magistrate Herrman yesterday in the Jefferson Market Police Court. She was arrested a short time before her arraignment in a Sixth Avenue department store by a store detective, who turned her over to the police.

The store detective charges the woman with stealing several articles of women's wear, in all amounting to $21. He trailed and watched her go about the store, upstairs and down, and, finally, he alleges, after seeing her carefully roll up a waist and slip it into her blouse and then go to the women's waiting room and out of the store, he arrested her. The sleuth said he had watched her operations in a looking glass.

Mrs. Walker, who is staying with her husband, E. C. Walker, at the Hotel Seville, Madison Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, burst into tears and begged to be let go, saying that she did not know why she did it, according to the detective.

"It's all a mistake. It is all a mistake," said the husband later at the Seville, "and it has been practically admitted. I have nothing else to say."

Mr. Walker had just returned from business downtown. He was not with Mrs. Walker when she was arrested, nor was he in court. After she was held for examination she was taken back to a cell in the prison, but shortly afterward Edward Purchas, manager of the Seville, furnished bail. Her husband is one of Holyoke's wealthiest residents, and they are socially prominent in Massachusetts.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Sept. 27.—Mrs. E. C. Walker is the wife of Edward C. Walker of this city, a traveling salesman for the American Writing Paper Company. They have apartments in the newly erected Phoenix Chambers, Dwight Street, where they recently moved after staying for some time at the Hotel Hamilton. They are prominent in the social life of this city.

Mr. Walker resigned three years ago as Superintendent of the Chemical Paper Company to take a similar place with the Eastern Paper Company of Bangor, Maine. A year ago he entered the service of the American Writing Paper Company, returning to this city.

Mrs. Walker left about three months ago for a Southern trip, and a week ago the housekeeper at the Phoenix received word from Mrs. Walker, then in Tennessee, that she would probably arrive in Holyoke to-day.

AUTO MIXUPS HURT FIVE.

One Car Hits a Tree, and Another Strikes a Third That Had Burned.

Two women and three men were injured yesterday morning in two automobile accidents. In Sea Cliff, L. I., an automobile driven by George Rathgeber of 1,444 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, broke a wheel and crashed into a tree at the bottom of a hill near the railroad station. Rathgeber was internally injured and his collarbone was broken. Benjamin Driestler of 29 Kenilworth Place, Brooklyn, had his collarbone dislocated, and Harry A. Smith of Newkirk and Rogers Avenues, Brooklyn, had his head cut. Anna Reid of Pawtucket, R. I., was bruised on the face and suffered from shock.

The party had been at the Mineola Fair, and were returning to Brooklyn when the accident occurred. Rathgeber and Driesler were taken to the Nassau Hospital, at Mineola. They will recover. The other two members of the party went home.

In Jamaica the $15,000 automobile of James D. O'Brien of 125 West Twenty-third Street, Manhattan, an ex-policeman now head of a civil service school, caught fire from a leak in a gasoline valve while its owner and several friends were returning from the aviation meet in Garden City. The fire was extinguished after $5,000 damage had been done, and the wrecked machine was abandoned at Hoffman Boulevard and Hancock Street.

Several hours later the burned machine was run into by an automobile driven by Frank S. Holly of Hewlett's, L. I., who was driving to that place with three friends. Mrs. J. Hurler of the Hotel Frederick, Manhattan, was thrown out of the car and her left ankle was probably broken. An Ambulance surgeon from St. Mary's Hospital attended her, and she returned to Manhattan in another automobile. The Holly machine was smashed so badly it had to be abandoned.

O'Brien's automobile is said to have been the one in which Frank Croker was killed while racing several years ago on Ormond Beach, Florida.

SEARCH LINER FOR A THIEF.

Detectives Hunt All Over the Campania in Vain Before She Sails.

Before the Cunard liner Campania sailed yesterday morning for Liverpool she was searched by detectives from hold to bridge. The search was made at the request of the St. Louis police for a man who is charged with deserting his wife after robbing her of $9,000 in bonds.

These are described as three bonds of the Business College Building Company of St. Louis, two of the Home Telephone Company of St. Joseph, Mo.; one St. Louis & Suburban Railroad Company, one East St. Louis & Chicago Railroad Company, one Kansas City Home Telephone Company, and one Kansas City District Telephone Company. Each bond is valued at $1,000. A careful search was made of both cabin and steerage, but the man was not found.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 27.—William H. Hein disappeared from St. Louis on June 30. Subsequently his wife discovered that $1,000 bonds belonging to her were missing from a safe deposit vault, and she has begun a civil suit against him on that account. He is charged with abandonment, and $100 reward is offered for his capture. Hein is a bookkeeper who formerly kept a restaurant here.

DOCTOR DYING, FIGHTER HELD

Victim Says He Was Attacked Without Provocation by Benny Apfel.

Dr. Stephen Gravhoff, a dentist of 242 East Twelfth Street, was taken to Bellevue Hospital early this morning with a fractured skull. Dr. Engel, who examined him, said he would probably die. Nicholas Dumaew, an editor of 201 East First Street, gave information to the police on which Benny Apfel, a prize fighter, known in the ring as Benny Jones, was arrested at 217 East Houston Street.

The police took Apfel to the hospital, where Dr. Gravhoff corroborated Dumaew's story that they were walking together in First Street near First Avenue when they were attacked by several men. The doctor was knocked down, and hit his head against the curb.

Apfel, when arrested, said he was across the street when the trouble started and crossed to investigate. He said that when he did so some one struck him and he knocked the man down.

SUNK BY SOUND STEAMER.

Crew of Schooner Taken Aboard the Millinocket.

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—The three-masted schooner Oliver Mitchell was in collision to-night east of Plum Island with the steamer Millinocket, bound from Boston to New York.

The crew of the schooner was taken off by the steamer, and the sailing craft abandoned in a sinking condition.

MRS. SUYDAM ABSENT FROM DIVORCE TRIAL

No Answer to Charges of Husband, Who Sued Even Before She Left Blue Point.

SHE AND NOBLE AT THEATRE

They Go There to Celebrate Their Prospective Freedom When Mr. Suydam Gets His Decree.

In less than thirty-five minutes the suit for divorce brought by Walter Lispenard Suydam, Jr., against his wife, Louise Lawrence Suydam, whose elopement with young Frederick Noble from Blue Point caused a sensation among the fashionable Summer residents of Long Island's south shore, was tried yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Lester W. Clark in Brooklyn. Justice Clark reserved decision until he could inspect the papers in the case. As the suit was undefended, the plaintiff seemed to have reason for confidence that he would speedily be granted an interlocutory decree, which would become final in ninety days. Mrs. Suydam was not represented at the hearing.

It appeared from the testimony that the wife of the wealthy Long Island sportsman had been served with papers in the action before she left the Suydam home in Blue Point early in the present month. The papers in the case show that Suydam, for some time before Mrs. Suydam left Blue Point, was cognizant of his wife's preference for Young Noble's company.

When the case was called in Special Term there was a crowded courtroom, spectators, apparently, being there in the expectation of hearing something sensational. There were newspaper photographers in the room, alert and ready with their cameras for the arrival of the fair defendant and the co-respondent, Noble, neither of whom, however, appeared. When he took the bench Justice Clark ordered that the court be cleared of cameras, and warned the photographers that they would be placed under arrest if they attempted to take pictures in the court.

Mr. Suydam made only the formal statements necessary in an undefended action for divorce. He testified that he had married the defendant on June 10, 1903, and that he had not forgiven the offenses charged by him against his wife. Suydam alleged that at divers places in Suffolk County and at various times between June 1, 1911, and the commencement of the action, the defendant met Frederick Noble. A boat upon the Great South Bay and the plaintiff's home in Blue Point were among the places referred to. Lawyer Joseph T. Losee of Patchogue, counsel for Mr. Suydam, testified that he personally served Mrs. Suydam with the papers in the divorce suit at the Suydam residence in Blue Point. He told her the substance of the charges made against her by her husband. Lawyer Losee said that in order to make certain that he had legal proof of service he visited the apartment in West Twelfth Street, Manhattan, occupied by Mrs. Suydam, taking with him John E. Ketcham of Patchogue, who knew both Mrs. Suydam and Noble. This was on Sept. 14.

Mr. Ketcham testified that when they reached the apartment they were admitted by Mrs. Suydam. While they were there Noble knocked at the door. Mrs. Suydam went to admit him, saying, "There's Billy now."

The witness heard a loud kiss in the hall, and then Mrs. Suydam entered the room with Noble. Ketcham said that Noble admitted in his presence and that of Mr. Losee that he had been at the Suydam home in Blue Point with Mrs. Suydam on the night of Aug. 22 and on other occasions. Mrs. Suydam told them that what "Billy" had said was "all true." Before he left the apartment, Ketcham testified, Mrs. Suydam admitted to him that she and Noble were occupying it.

Cecilia McMorrow and Mary O'Rourke, employed at the home of the plaintiff in Blue Point, testified that Noble was at the house with Mrs. Suydam on the night of Aug. 22, while Mr. Suydam was absent. William O. Pagel of West Sayville, a friend of Mr. Suydam, said that Suydam spent the night of Aug. 22 with him on his yacht on Great South Bay. They started out in the afternoon and did not return until the following morning.

It was not known until Tuesday, when it was learned that papers had been served, that Mr. Suydam had actually begun suit against his wife more than three weeks ago, although there had been many reports that he was preparing to institute an action for divorce. Mrs. Suydam was served with the papers while on the veranda of her husband's villa in Blue Point on Sept. 2. She had then leisurely packed up her belongings before leaving for New York.

Justice Clark is expected to decide the case on Saturday. Should he grant an interlocutory decree it will not become absolute for ninety days.

Mrs. Suydam and Frederick Noble went to the theatre last night in celebration of their promised freedom. Noble was radiant with smiles, assuring a TIMES reporter that his plans for the future had already been made.

"Let me see," he said, "if the decree is granted on Saturday, that is the 30th, there will be thirty-one days in October, thirty in November. That makes sixty-one, and adding twenty-nine days in December, we can get married on December 30. Too bad it can't be Christmas. We might wait until New Year's, but I won't promise. In any event it will be a quiet wedding, and I know of some nice little towns in Jersey which will just about make a wedding ideal."

Mrs. Suydam said that she could say nothing until the decree had actually been made absolute, but she seemed happy at the turn that matters had taken.

GAVE INSPECTOR THE LIE.

Policeman on Trial Retorted Thus to Answer He Did Not Like.

Two policemen, who were caught off post by Chief Inspector Schmittberger while he was making a "shoo-fly" trip through the downtown section of Brooklyn early on Sept. 21, were suspended yesterday from membership of the force by Trial Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh at the State Street Headquarters, Brooklyn. They are Clifford Britt and Jacob Storch, both of the Butler Street Station.

While Britt was being tried he gave the lie to Schmittberger. The Chief Inspector stepped back with flushed face when Britt hurled this insult at him. Deputy Commissioner Walsh was taken by surprise, but sharply called Britt to account.

Schmittberger testified that he had found Britt in a saloon on Fourth Place seated at a table in a rear room, with a glass of whisky in front of him. Britt, according to the Inspector, had his helmet and blouse off. The Inspector said that Storch was also in the room, but that he was fully dressed. He had a glass of milk or buttermilk before him. The Inspector could not say which it was, but he took the liquid and also the glass of whisky away with him as evidence against the policemen.

Britt acted as his own counsel and cross-examined the Inspector. He asserted that he went into the saloon for an unavoidable reason, and denied that he had his helmet and blouse off, or was drinking whisky.

"Was I standing up when you came in?" asked Britt of the Inspector.

"You were not," replied the Inspector.

"You lie," retorted Britt.

Britt and Storch were ordered to go into Inspector Harkins's office and give up their shields. Britt refused to hand his shield to Inspector Schmittberger, but willingly yielded it over to his immediate superior, Capt. Dulfer.

Deputy Commissioner Walsh severely reprimanded Britt for his conduct, and said he would recommend the dismissal of both policemen.

Britt declares that he is the victim of the "system." He says he has been hounded by this inside organization ever since he testified three years ago against two precinct detectives, who, in consequence, were dismissed from the force.

BUILDERS PLAN A LOCKOUT.

Will Take Action if the Striking Trades Do Not Return at Once to Work.

The Building Trades Employers' Association, at a mass meeting in the Builders' Exchange, 30 West Thirty-third Street, late yesterday afternoon, called to consider the strike of the marble workers on sixty buildings and the sympathetic strike of sixteen other unions on the new Vanderbilt Hotel, empowered its Board of Governors to take decisive action, and declared in favor of a general lockout of about 40,000 building mechanics in the sixteen trades.

There are about 1,000 members, representing thirty-two trade associations of employers, in the Building Trades Employers' Association, and the meeting was the largest the association ever held. The Board of Governors will meet to-day and give the striking unions a limited time in which to return to work. If they refuse, a lockout is to go into effect at once.

The marble workers, who struck about eight weeks ago in all shops of the Marble Industry Employers' Association and on about sixty buildings on which they have contracts, are practically locked out, the employers having announced they will never recognize these unions again.

Benjamin D. Traitel, President of the Building Trades Employers' Association, said after yesterday's meeting:

"We have given the unions every chance and they have remained obdurate. We have kept our agreements with the unions and have paid the highest union wages during the last season and the present season which is nearly through, when there was less than the normal amount of building going on and thousands of men were idle, causing unusual competition for work."

Mr. Traitel said that the lockout would not affect craftsmen who remained at work on the new Vanderbilt Hotel, but they would be thrown out involuntarily if the unions remained obstinate.

TRIMMING THE ALIEN.

Victim Testifies That a Policeman Helped in the Process.

Patrolman Reuben R. Huntington of the Union Market Station was put on trial yesterday before Fourth Deputy Commissioner Dillon, charged with having robbed John Krondrackiuk, a Russian farmhand newly arrived, of $305.

Krondrackiuk testified that he had been enticed to the apartment of John Horay, a jeweler of 297 Avenue B, and found Policeman Huntington and two men there. While they were all talking some one suddenly asserted that he had been robbed, and a demand was made that all be searched.

When it came Krondrackiuk's turn, he says, Huntington took out his roll of $305, and substituted for it a roll of newspaper. He took the precaution to note the number of the patrolman's badge, which was 3,307. Later he identified Huntington as the man who had robbed him.

Horay, in whose apartment the theft was committed, has already been convicted of grand larceny.

NEGRO SHOOTS HIS BROTHER

Attacked Him with a Razor Before He Fired.

Charles Reyes, a West Indian negro, of 258 West Forty-seventh Street, in West Fifty-ninth Street yesterday shot his half brother, Robert Marsisco, of 243 West Sixtieth Street, in the right thigh, and Charles Mercer, of 245 West Sixtieth Street, in the left hip. Reyes, at the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, said he fired in self-defense. He had gained the enmity of Marsisco, he said, by refusing to recommend him for a place as porter, and Marsisco had been following him for an hour upbraiding and beating him.

Patrolman Val O'Farrell was in Fifty-ninth Street, between Ninth Avenue and Broadway, when he saw Mercer waving a razor and he and Marsisco clutching Reyes, who suddenly drew a revolver and fired five shots. The other negroes dropped, and Reyes threw the pistol into the gutter and dashed along Fifty-ninth Street. O'Farrell caught the negro at Eighth Avenue and took him to the Station.

Marsisco and Mercer were carried to Roosevelt Hospital, where their wounds were found to be serious, but probably not fatal.
